BIRTHDAY PARTY SANS HONORÉE

Wife Declares Husband Never Showed up Until Late At Night for Fete

Mrs. Edythe Greene, who appeared before Superior Judge Lamberson yesterday seeking a divorce from Gordon Greene, was of the belief she was married to one of the most ungrateful men in Los Angeles.

"I prepared a birthday party for him and had a lot of people at the home to greet him," Mrs. Greene declared when questioned by her attorney, R. M. Treseraft. "It was a fine birthday party except my husband didn't show up until 12 o'clock that night and then he got angry and made it so unpleasant everybody left."

A decree was granted.

CHEST WILL ASK LARGER ENDOWMENT

Inaugural Rally Shows Need of Charities Now 15 Per Cent Greater

An increase of 14 per cent over last year's $2,750,000 Community Chest fund will be required in the November's campaign to take care of the increasing needs of the Chest's 131 agencies, it was announced last night at an inaugural rally in Patriotic Hall.

More than 1000 representatives of the agencies responded to the increased task before them by pledging all their resources in organizing for the coming drive.

Ten charity organizations declined that they will offer a dinner of 280 workers each, while seven agencies pledged battalions of from six workers and the smaller ones pledged teams of eleven workers.

Permanent organization of the agencies into a campaign body to get under way immediately was effected by I. Irving Lipsich, chairman of the agency co-operating committee, of personnel [illegible] distributed last night.

Speakers at the meeting included Mayor Porter, E. B. DeGroot, executive secretary Los Angeles Council Boy Scouts, and [illegible] King, campaign director.

FINGERPRINTS HELP GIVEN TO SUSPECT

Buck Gets Term of Three Years as Charges of Past Offenses Blow Up

Fingerprints helped William Ward Buck, 70 years of age, yesterday when he appeared before United States District Judge Mc-Cormick for sentence on a charge of counterfeiting government bonds. Buck had asserted that he had served only one term in state prison for counterfeiting, and others, but government agents added he had served three terms in eastern Federal prisons.

When photographs and fingerprints of the man whom Federal agents said had served the three terms in prison in the East were produced in court yesterday, it was demonstrated that they did not differ to Buck. The court already had heard Buck's plea of guilty to the charge of counterfeiting, but because of his age, and the fact that he is not too constant an offender, sentenced him to three years in McNeil Island prison.

Mother Keeps Child Despite Smoking Pals

Because the woman's friends of Mrs. Agnes Stevens smoke cigarettes, her ex-husband, Gordon Stevens, told Superior Judge Crawford yesterday that Mrs. Stevens is not a fit mother for her 9-year-old daughter, Frances.

"This is a modern age, your honor," Attorney S. S. Hahn, [illegible] speaking for Mrs. Stevens. "Things once considered improper are not so bad now."

"I think you're right," the court replied. "Just because a woman associates with other women who smoke doesn't indicate she is an improper mother. In fact, I know many women who smoke who are very good mothers, indeed, to their children.

"The custody of the child will remain with Mrs. Stevens."

CORRUPT AGENTS GIVE BAD ODOR TO LIQUOR FORCE

Politics Blamed for Induction of Ward-Heeler Type Into Work of Enforcement

BY MABEL WALKER WILLEBRANDT

(Copyright, 1929, by Current News Features, Inc. All rights for publication reserved throughout the world.)

(One of the hardest jobs of the Assistant Attorney-General in charge of prohibition enforcement was fighting the "ward-heeler" type of men whose appointments were obtained before the civil service stepped in and who managed to hang on, thanks to political pull. This sinister influence permeates the courts of justice, Mrs. Willebrandt points out, as the bulwark, gradually losing its hold.)

I have been told, times without number, by people who originally favored prohibition, "Why, it never can be enforced because the men who are enforcing it are among the worst offenders." Of course that is not true, but it is true that enough agents are offended to give bad odor to the whole force. Few people realize that this bad odor comes almost wholly from the fact that the disinterested prohibition enforcement in its first years and has been routed from power yet.

In the beginning and during five or six years following, the prohibition enforcement force was composed very largely of men of the ward-heeler class. Appointments of prohibition agents were, in fact, made as the result of political indorsement. The [illegible] were [illegible] for polling precincts, getting out the votes on election day, marking and stealing ballots, "slugging" the opposition workers, and generally being useful in operating the machinery of politics, was appointment as a prohibition agent.

REDLANDS, Aug. 15. (Exclusive) The San Bernardino Mountains shook under heavy thunder last night and then came a downpour that was heavy on the north crest, heavy in Bear Valley and worked east until it reached cloudburst proportions in the Mill Creek section. In a few minutes stream beds were filled with swirling waters, boulders were crashing down them and summer homes were threatened by the flood waters.

Conference Failure Looms With United Line-up Against Britain

Snowden Fixes Tomorrow as Last Day for Action on His Demands

THE HAGUE, Aug. 15. (AP)—The conference to liquidate the last of the World War problems by putting into effect the Young plan for reparations seemed near complete breakdown tonight after French, Italian, Belgian and Japanese delegates consulted and Louis Loucheur of the French delegation announced continued opposition to British demands.

The situation seemed even more grave than last week-end when Philip Snowden, British Chancellor of the Exchequer, threatened disruption of the negotiations.

The Laborite Chancellor, who demands an increased percentage of reparations amounting to the share apportioned Great Britain under the Dawes plan, has fixed Saturday as the latest date for a decision on the fate of the present conference. Mr. Snowden has made it emphatic that he will wait no longer than the end of this week for action by the conference on his demand for revision of the Young plan.

ATTITUDE UNCHANGED

The British delegation also has made known that its attitude is unchanged respecting its second demand, the abolition of the distinction between conditional and unconditional annuities, and its determination that deliveries in kind must be abolished. Great Britain's requirements in unconditional annuities are placed at £2,500,000 annually.

The British delegation today confirmed this as its attitude, although it refused to discuss the letter which Chancellor Snowden addressed to Premier Henri Jaspar of Belgium and which resulted in the meeting of the representatives of the principal creditor powers.

France, Belgium, Italy and Japan at that meeting declared their solidarity on questions raised at the conference so if no change occurs before Saturday Great Britain will find herself faced by solid opposition from the other principal powers.

PROPOSALS REPORTED

It was stated in British circles late today that proposals have been made by other powers, but that promise of complete agreement has not been given.

In consequence, Chancellor Snowden's "second ultimatum," as it is called, may settle the fate of the conference by Saturday.

Late today French, Belgian, Italian and Japanese delegates again met to go over the whole ground of the situation and prepare a last offer for presentation to Chancellor Snowden tomorrow.

POLICY SET BY MONROE DEFENDED

Hussey Asserts Doctrine Aid to Disarmament, in Talk to Institute of Politics

WILLIAMSTOWN (Mass.) Aug. 15. (AP)—Defense of the Monroe Doctrine as "a distinct aid to the cause of disarmament" was made by Rear-Admiral C. L. Hussey, former commander of the United States scouting fleet, before the armament limitations round-table of the Institute of Politics today.

"The Monroe Doctrine has eliminated the necessity of South and Central American countries maintaining large navies and armies for their own protection," said Admiral Hussey. "By removing the possibilities of aggression by any foreign power in the western hemisphere, it also has obviated the necessity of European powers increasing their armaments for that purpose."

Prof. Jacob Viner of the University of Chicago, consulting expert for the United States Tariff Commission in 1918-20, discussing the question of tariff rates on Cuban sugar, said it would be "a heavy blow" to Cuba's sugar industry if the tariff on her raw sugar is raised above its present level of 1.76 cents a pound.

RUSSIAN ATTACK REPORTED

Chinese Territory Invaded by Soviet Troops from Siberia and Severe Fighting Follows

SHANGHAI, Aug. 15. (AP)—Further reports of severe fighting with soviet troops on Chinese soil came tonight from Nanking. It is stated that the government was informed from Harbin that soviet troops at Linkiangheien, Siberia, at the confluence of the Amur and Sungari rivers, last Tuesday attacked Chao Hsin Hsien on the south and Chinese bank of the Amur.

The dispatch said, "After several hours of severe fighting the soviets withdrew on board a transport."

The government also was informed that Russia is moving troops along the Amur toward the Sungari and that soviet gunboats have appeared on the latter river, which runs entirely through Manchurian territory.

FIGHTING NEAR MANCHULI

The agency has no confirmation, however, of fighting reported in progress in the vicinity of Manchuli near the western border of the province. A Rengo News Agency (Japanese) dispatch from Manchuli tonight said, "A Chinese-Russian encounter on a fairly large scale occurred west of here late yesterday. The Chinese artillery constructed a shelter trench and now is stiffly opposing. The telephone line, which for weeks has been the only means of communication between China and Russia, has been severed."

CONFERENCE RESULT

The same agency reported from Nanking that a series of conferences by leaders of the Nationalist government has strengthened their determination not to grant the demand of Russia that the Chinese Eastern Railway be restored to the status quo as a condition to opening formal negotiations for settlement of the dispute.

It quoted an official of the Foreign Office as saying, "Although the situation along the Manchurian frontier is tense, the Nationalist government is resolved not to change its attitude nor to concede the soviet demand. Any soviet invasion of Chinese territory will be opposed by force of arms."

SHOEMAKER QUIZZED AS GIRL SLAYER

Police of Minneapolis Investigate Many Clews in Strangling of Child

MINNEAPOLIS, Aug. 15. (AP)—A man operating a shoe shop a block from the home of 12-year-old Dorothy Aune, strangler's victim, was questioned today in the search for the child's slayer.

Police found several strands of hair matching those of the victim in the shop.

Police said the girl is known to have visited the shop and to have received sums of money from the man. Two of the suspect's brothers also were taken into custody for questioning.

Some underwear, buried under a small pile of cans, also was located by the police some distance from the shoe shop. They said the underwear was damp as though it recently had been washed.

In a garage back of the home police also found a touring car with tires having the same tread as those found at the scene where the girl's body, wrapped in gunnysacks, was picked up Wednesday. Three gunnysacks also were found in the home. One was patched and bore a stain.

WENATCHEE (Wash.) Aug. 15. (AP)—Every able-bodied man in Northern Chelan county today was being drafted into service to fight the 12,000 acre Chelan National Forest fire which is breaking out anew on the Lake Chelan watershed. Only a rain will control the fire, it is believed.

The blaze was believed virtually controlled until Sunday, when it broke loose on the north line, swept down toward the Methow Valley and turned both east and west. Today the roaring flames were marching back up to the summit again. More than a week ago, six miles of flume which carried water into Chelan Valley was burned.

Unfavorable Weather Causes Dr. Eckener to Proceed Farther Northward

East Prussia Celebrates as Dirigible Passes Over on Globe-Girdling Trip

MOSCOW (U.S.S.R.) Aug. 16. (Friday) (AP)—A radio message from the Graf Zeppelin received at 3 a.m. (8 p.m. eastern standard time) said that it is compelled to proceed north, avoiding Moscow because of unfavorable weather.

Dr. Hugo Eckener last night changed the agreed-upon itinerary of the Graf Zeppelin because of unfavorable weather conditions, going to the north of Moscow.

The Graf Zeppelin was first sighted from Russian soil at 9:30 p.m., eastern European time (11:30 p.m., Pacific Coast time) from the frontier post of Bogoseovo on the Latvian border.

GERMAN BUREAU PREDICTS GOOD WEATHER

BERLIN, Aug. 15. (AP)—The Hamburg Marine Weather Bureau tonight reported that the Graf Zeppelin will likely have good weather with light breezes during its passage over Western Russia. Northward of the sixtieth parallel of latitude bad weather prevailed over all Russia, but to the south a high-pressure area extended to the middle of Russia. The course of the Zeppelin as far as Moscow is expected to lie between the fifty-fifth and fifty-sixth parallels.

Residents of the free city of Danzig and East Prussia gave demonstrations of great patriotic enthusiasm as the Zeppelin passed over that section, now separated from Germany proper by the Polish corridor to the Baltic. The Danzig Senate radioed its warmest greetings to Dr. Hugo Eckener, while the Burgomeister of Koenigsberg, East Prussia, sent word that citizens there regarded his exploit as a link with the fatherland and as strengthening their longing for reunion.

As the airship flew over Tilsit all church bells in the city rang and river craft on the Memel sounded their whistles. Half an hour later the Zeppelin was over Lithuania.

Mexican Court Grants Plea for Injunction Aimed at Federal Order

Espee President Shoup, Here, Expresses Confidence in Amicable Settlement

CALEXICO, Aug. 15. (Exclusive) A permanent injunction restraining execution of a Federal order seeking to limit train travel across the California-Mexico boundary to the same hours as pedestrian and motor travel was granted by the Federal District Court in Tia Juana yesterday, according to information received here today by E. G. Burdick, manager of the Southern Pacific Lines in Lower California.

The court's ruling will not be made known officially until tomorrow, it is stated, but attorneys for the railroad companies involved were advised yesterday as to what the decision will be. The action was brought jointly by the Inter-California Company and the Tia Juana and Tecate Railroad, these being the Lower California subsidiaries of the Southern Pacific and San Diego and Arizona lines.

The original order was issued in June and provided that after July 1 train passage across the line would be restricted to the same hours as are imposed on other classes of travel by the American government. This would have closed the line to the railroads from 6 p.m. to 6 a.m. at Tia Juana, Tecate and Andrade and from 9 p.m. to 6 a.m. at Calexico. Later, on petition of Imperial Valley business men, the Mexican government postponed the execution date of the order to September 1. In the meantime the railroads petitioned for an injunction and today's announcement would indicate that the matter is closed.

PAUL SHOUP FEELS CONFIDENCE IN OUTCOME

Following the issuance of a permanent injunction in a Tia Juana court Wednesday restraining an order limiting train travel across the California-Mexican boundary to hours regulating other travel, Paul Shoup, president of the Southern Pacific Company, yesterday expressed confidence in the Mexican authorities to settle the matter agreeably and amicably without traffic interruption.

Mr. Shoup arrived in Los Angeles on one of his periodic business trips and immediately held a series of conferences with H. B. Titcomb, president of the Southern Pacific of Mexico, with headquarters at Guadalajara, on repair of the damage on the Guadalajara-Mexico City line due to the recent revolution.

Apart from the two Mexican problems, Mr. Shoup announced that September 1 the Southern Pacific officially will open a new $5,000,000 rail project between Alturas, Cal., and Klamath Falls, Or., a distance of ninety-eight miles, which provides Southern Oregon and Northeastern California with a new lateral for eastern transportation.

"We are looking forward to one of the best years of passenger and freight traffic to the Coast," Mr. Shoup said, "and the prosperous inclination of the nation generally indicates that we will not be disappointed."

After the conferences with Mr. Titcomb, the railway executive said that the Guadalajara-Mexico City line of the Southern Pacific of Mexico lost 185 bridge structures in the late revolution, but 183 of the structures have been replaced, and with "shoo-flies" about the remaining breaks, the tri-weekly schedules between the rail terminals are being maintained with the service

STRIKE JITNEYS DEFY BAN

New Orleans Autoists Print "Ride Free" Signs and Laugh at Edict as Trolley Walkout Goes On

NEW ORLEANS, Aug. 15. (Exclusive)—Police failed today to make New Orleans a jitneyless town. It already is a town practically without street cars, as today was the forty-fifth day of the strike of motormen and conductors against New Orleans Public Service.

The Civic Commission Council ordered police to arrest everyone operating a jitney, unless he had printed signs on his cars telling the route and the price charged, as well as a $5000 indemnity bond. The jitney drivers did not print signs or get the bonds. Instead they printed signs, "Ride free," "Jump in and ride with me, no charge", "Ride as far as I go for nothing," "Will be glad to ride you free," while many of them placed American flags on their radiators and windows and said they dared the United States marshal employed by the New Orleans Public Service to remove the flags. In this way thousands of jitneys moved over the street and took whatever the passengers gave them whether it was 5 cents, 10 cents or a quarter.

John Banville, local union labor leader, was arrested for inciting to riot and was placed under bond for the disturbance at the City Hall Tuesday during which Acting Mayor Wamsley was kicked in the stomach. There was no violence today and none tonight, although New Orleans Public Service was operating cars on all lines. The people, however, refused to ride in them, their sympathies being with the union men.

ALLIANCE OF LIQUOR AND POLITICS NOTHING NEW

alliance that was born and grew stronger during the scores of years before national prohibition was even dreamed of. Efforts to enforce prohibition are revealing it more clearly every day.

OPPORTUNITY FOR GRAFT

Every politician who was in politics for the money that could be made out of it—and the number of such men was legion long before we had national prohibition—saw the greater opportunities for graft in the initial stages of attempted enforcement of the Volstead Act.

Sheriffs who had been making $5000 or $10,000 a year in addition to their salaries by collecting from the county two or three times the actual cost of feeding prisoners, set up toll systems by which trucks loaded with contraband liquor were passed through the lines of their deputies patrolling county roads, on payment of fees of from $10 to several hundred dollars a load.

I deny that these men were corrupted by or because of the Eighteenth Amendment or the Volstead Act. They were the same type of men who collected graft from the speakeasies and blind pigs operated when saloons were legally licensed, and who also collected from the saloons themselves for suppressing the speakeasies or overlooking violations of closing hour or Sunday-closing laws. Anyone who was engaged in politics in the years before prohibition, as I was, knows that in the pre-Volstead period Mayors, Governors, Congressmen, Senators, Democratic and Republican alike, had been dependent for their election on the smaller politician with his large force of deputies and assistants available for registering and voting indifferent citizens.

POLITICS TO BLAME

So it was on the recommendations of ward and county bosses that Congressmen and Senators obtained the appointment of hundreds of prohibition agents and administrators. It was the opposition of the politicians, big and little, that prevented the use of civil service examinations to select the enforcement personnel during the first six years of prohibition.

And I have no hesitancy in asserting that it is the continued influence of politicians, little and big, that still keeps in the service men who have either managed to qualify under civil service but who are entirely unfit, or those who have not qualified but are working under temporary appointments that know no end.

The fact is that in March of the present year, according to a report made by the acting Secretary of the Treasury, there were still employed more than 600 prohibition agents, inspectors, investigators and chemists who were holding so-called temporary appointments without examination. This was practically one-third of the total number of prohibition employees. There is undoubtedly justifiable excuse to hold over on temporary rolls some of them, but the political appeal of Senators and Congressmen and party leaders is behind too many of them. It would be much better for the prohibition service, if not enough prohibition agents have qualified yet on civil service rolls, to make the appointments from other services that already have civil service rating, like the skilled special intelligence, postal, and secret service groups. This would build up a force from men already trained.

INFLUENCE FAR-REACHING

The influence of politicians in defeating real enforcement extends far beyond the appointment of unfit agents. It permeates the courts of justice. Dozens of United States Attorneys and assistants owe their appointment to the favor of not only Congressmen and Senators but of the whole political machine ranging up from deputy constables and assistant assessors to mayors and councilmen. Some United States Attorneys, and their assistant attorneys, have been promoted from city and county attorneyships and State attorneyships, for services well and truly rendered to so-called legitimate liquor interests in the palmy days of the open saloon. In their former capacity they had ignored apparent violations of law. When public sentiment in the town or county became aroused and demanded action, they have prosecuted in an easy fashion, left out important witnesses, and failed to obtain conviction or push for just penalties. They are the prosecutors the alcoholic politicians regard as "reasonable."

No matter how carefully cases are prepared in some districts like Philadelphia, we could never even be reasonably sure of the outcome. Under the politically evasive United States Attorney Coles who remained in charge in spite of protest, drivers and hirelings pleaded guilty but few really important offenders were even tried. That in spite of the fact that Philadelphia is a center of liquor violators of the largest racketeer type. Political evasiveness proves of survival value in some districts, and so it has proved there. But he made exit soon after March this year—and hope again is born for law enforcement in that most stubborn district!

MANY AGENTS CORRUPT

Scores of politically appointed prohibition agents whose testimony was essential to conviction have been either incompetent, afraid, or corrupt. These ward-heeler agents, in many cases, fail to obtain proper legal evidence, or obtain it in an illegal or improper manner so the case has to be "thrown out." Other times they conveniently lost their memories for essential details. Other times they told a different story on the witness stand in the trial of the case than they had embodied in their original report. Dozens of cases have been lost because the evidence was obtained on defective search warrant, and it has been apparent often that the defects had been bought and paid for.

We have lost cases because politically appointed marshals assembled questionable juries or failed properly to guard to prevent tampering and bribery or the exertion of political influence. We failed to obtain convictions, even where the prohibition unit had furnished us with competent and sufficient evidence, because politically appointed District Attorneys, who were less lawyers than politicans, had established definite schedules of fees for what came to be known as "nolle prossing" liquor cases. Time after time they dismissed cases without trial because of an alleged want of proper evidence, disappearance of witnesses, etc. Bootleggers in one western State advertised that the standard fee was $50 in ordinary small cases thus dismissed. District Attorneys were finally required to obtain authority from Washington before entering an order of nolle prosequi. When definite reasons had thus to be given for the recommendation to dismiss, we obtained a surprisingly large reduction of the number of nolle prosequis.

MANY FAITHFUL OFFICIALS

On the other hand there shine forth the outstanding examples, among many others, of such faithful officials as Commission Dan Roper who started prohibition off in the Democratic administration, Alf Oftedal, Elmer Irey, Col. Samuel O. Wynne, Maj. J. D. Pennington, now connected with enforcement in the Treasury Department, and such hard-hitting United States Attorneys as Richard H. Templeton, George E. Q. Johnson, George Neuner, A. W. W. Woodcock, Charles L. Redding, James C. Kinsler, E. W. McNabb, and the men in Washington working with Norman J. Morrison and Howard Jones of my own division who have formed our "flying squadron." The men of this squadron have rendered distinguished service by going from Maine to California—anywhere—to rescue and try important cases where we saw the evidence was about to drown in a sea of politics.

During the short time that Justice Stone was Attorney-General he probably has the record for cleaning out more politically evasive Department of Justice officials than any one else in the same length of time.

In looking over the great volume of memorandums of facts, cases and specific conditions I alone reported to him during the months of November and December, 1924, I am appalled at the volume of executive work he turned off daily. He reorganized the prosecuting offices in Massachusetts, New Jersey, Montana, Northern Mississippi, Southern Alabama, Southern Georgia, Eastern Louisiana, and Northern California, and was well started on many other districts when he had to leave it all to take the higher post on the Supreme Court bench.

Particularly during the past two or three years, the politicians have been pried loose from a great deal of their former control over appointments and removals; over administration of and prosecution under the prohibition law. All the cure for political interference with honest prohibition enforcement cannot be applied at Washington, however. It will have to come through the mass of the people in the rural districts, in the towns, and in the cities, by performing their basic obligations to vote regularly and intelligently, and watch public officials' records. In that way, they can evict the cheap politician, and liberate clean government, which he despoils.

The need of State enforcement to assure the success of prohibition is explained in Mrs. Willebrandt's next article.

growing better. The rail damage in the revolutionary area is estimated at approximately $2,000,000.

HOPE EXPRESSED

Mr. Shoup said that he believes confidently that the Mexican authorities will relieve permanently the condition at the border, where an official order threatened to obstruct trains at night time. He said the kindliest relations exist between the company and the Mexican government.

As to the rail line in Northern California and Southern Oregon the new route between Klamath Falls and Alturas gives a direct connection with the Wendel-Lakeview line over which transportation moves directly into Nevada and eastward.

Prior to the completion of the Klamath Falls-Alturas route Oregon traffic was directed southward to Roseville, almost to Sacramento and thence headed eastward, causing delay in handling. The new route also will relieve traffic congestion in the southwesterly line out of Klamath Falls.

Mr. Shoup plans to remain in Los Angeles for several days.

TURKS QUIT TURKISH BATH

American Plumbing Puts Ancient Hamam Palaces in Class With Long Hair and Bicycle

STAMBOUL (Turkey) Aug. 15. (AP)—American-style tubs and plumbing are driving Turkish baths out of Turkey. New Turks demand occidental tubs in the new apartment-houses which are rising in clusters on the seven hills of old Stamboul, and the ancient public baths are thereby losing their customers.

Of the 165 Turkish baths which have been thriving for centuries, only eighty-two now remain open. The oldest and most famous, the bath of Mahmoud Pasha, which dated back to 1457, has smothered its great fires and closed its old arched doors. These spacious marble-lined baths, where the life of Stamboul was once at its gayest, were erected for the most part by the builders of the mosques.

The Association of Stamboul Bath-keepers, an organization which has existed for more than a century, has published a proclamation exhorting the citizens of the new Turkey not to forsake the paths of bathing hot soapy cleanliness dear to their forefathers.

"The world," laments the proclamation, "is not so clean as it used to be."

While Stylish Turks are exempt from this denunciation as they boast private baths in their new apartments, the poorer and middle classes are being publicly upbraided by the hamam keepers. Customers who come to bathe once a week, they say, now appear only once or twice a year. The hamams are crowded by Moslems only during the sacred festival of Ramadan, and by Greeks only around Easter time. Unless there is a great revival of cleanliness, the last Turkish bath will soon disappear from Turkey, is the contention of the owners.

RAGING FLOODS HIT MOUNTAINS

mobile was buried under boulders and mud.

The side of the cabin of Mrs. M. Zech was caved in by a boulder, No one was in it. The cabin of Jerry Cryder of Riverside was washed from foundations but not badly damaged. Near the Santa Ana municipal playgrounds the road for 200 feet was covered with mud. The water supply of the Valley of the Falls section was cut off when the pipe line was washed out.

This was the only damage done by a rain so heavy that it has soaked the pine needles and leaves on the ground all over the mountains so that the fire hazard has been cut to a minimum of what it usually is at this time of the year. Forestry officials are rejoicing over the heavy rain.

Water company officials are also pleased for the big rain will help to refill the mountain reservoirs.

FIRE FIGHTERS SAVE LIVES IN FLOOD

MARICOPA, Aug. 15. (Exclusive) Many cattle were killed, more than 200 fire fighters were forced to flee for their lives, and a raging forest fire was almost quenched as a rainstorm of cloudburst proportions hit the Cuyama Valley in the area twenty-five miles west of here last night.

Such was the report brought here by a group of twenty men, recently drafted to fight flames in the Santa Barbara National Forest, who were returned to the west side city. According to the fire fighters, they were camped in the James Canyon west of the highway entrance into the Cuyama when the storm started. Suddenly a dull rumbling sound filled the air, and within a few seconds it increased to a terrifying roar and the detachment of fire fighters, numbering more than 200 men, abandoned their camp near the bottom of the canyon and fled to the hilltops as a great avalanche of muddy waters swept from the head of the canyon toward the wide level bottom of the Cuyama Valley.

From their vantage points on the sides of the canyon the men watched the raging torrent beneath them, and, they said, they counted many heads of cattle which were caught in the flood and battered to death or drowned in the terrific current which swept debris and rocks and mud along its path.

The fire fighters brought to Taft reported that the Cuyama fire virtually was quenched when they left, but later reports received today indicate that the flames, after being drenched in the rainstorm, have taken new life and are raging beyond control.

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 15. The threats were contained in a crudely printed letter on the stationery of the Hotel Turpin here, to M. J. Dunphy, Sacramento Fire Chief.

COMMERCE GAIN ELATES HOOVER

July in Record for Handling of Commodities

Production Heaviest Known in Midsuummer

Reports Show Consumption Also Sets Mark

WASHINGTON, Aug. 15. (Exclusive)—President Hoover is elated over figures just laid before him by officials of the Commerce and Treasury departments showing that commodity production and consumption for July were the heaviest, for a midsummer month, in the history of the United States.

It is indicated that when all the figures are in the month just passed may prove to have been the peak month, whether summer or winter, from a trade standpoint. Computations to date are too incomplete, however, to warrant the prediction that this will be the case.

The President is pleased with this evidence of general business prosperity, though he is aware that agriculture is depressed, in spots, and that there are many individuals and groups in the business world who will deny they are getting their share of increased trade.

Mr. Hoover knows how to interpret commercial statistics, and it can be stated on authority that he is impressed profoundly with the reports that just have been made to him, and by the significance he reads into them. He realizes, of course, that there are sore spots. Wheat prices are low. The same is true of cotton, corn, coal and petroleum, and the entire nation cannot enjoy prosperity so long as these facts remain.

FOREIGN TRADE GROWS

But on the other hand, he finds basis for satisfaction in the enormous expansion of manufacturing, in the increase in foreign trade, in the fact the railroads made more money in the first six months of 1929 than in any similar period in their history, and in the further fact that car loadings have continued to mount since July 1.

The following official statement obtained from the Department of Commerce sets forth some of the facts about current business that have been presented to the President:

"Industrial production in June, seasonal conditions consuidered, was higher than at any time on record.

"Production of steel ingots was greater than any other July on record.

"The output of copper during July likewise was greater than in any similar month, not even excepting the war period. Zinc production was greater than in any other preceding July since the war.

"The output of automobiles, usually considered a measure of consumer-purchasing power, although registering for July the third consecutive decline since the peak reported for April, was larger than any other comparable month on record.

BUILDING CONTRACTS

"The value of new building contracts awarded during July also showed that month to have been the largest July ever reported.

"The distribution of commodities, through primary channels, as reflected by freight-car loadings, was greater than any other similar month on record.

"Commercial transactions as indicated by the volume of checks presented for payments to banks outside of New York City were larger in July than in any other month this year, and greater also than in any previous July.

"Evidence of the prosperity of this period is to be found in the huge dividends and interest payments recorded for July, which were larger than in any other preceding single month on record.

"All in all, early data available covering the major lines of business activity indicate the nation's business for July to have at least maintained the high leveles reported up until that time, and to exceed records for all other Julys on record."

In addition to this, the Department of Commerce today reported that exports last month amounted to to $401,000,000, the heaviest in July since 1920. Imports amounted to $353,000,000, a greater July total than any since 1920. Exports, it was added, for the first seven months of the current calendar year were the largest of any similar period in history.

GAINS LISTED

Not long ago the Department of Commerce Year Book for 1928 was issued and it made the claim that 1928 was the greatest business year in the history of the United States.

More recently Secretary Lamont has received and laid before the President the figures for the first six months of 1929.

Industry and commerce, almost without exception, were more active during the fiscal year 1929 than in any other comparable period on record. Pig iron production, long regarded as an indicator of the preceding year; the output of steel ingots registered an increase of 22 per cent; the production of automobiles, usually regarded as a reflection of consumer-purchasing power, showed a gain of almost 53 per cent.

New contracts awarded for building construction during the fiscal year, measured in value, showed a decline of slightly more than 5 per cent from the corresponding period a year ago. Factory employment during the period, however, showed an average gain of almost 3 per cent for the year. The distribution of commodities, through primary channels as reflected by freight car loadings showed a gain of 4 per cent, while commercial transactions measured by check payments outside of New York City registered an increase of more than 7 per cent.

Sales by department stores were more than 1 per cent larger than a year ago while the volume of business transacted by chain-store systems registered a gain of 7 per cent over the fiscal year of 1928.

New York County Wants State to Abate Plane Noise and Drinking Pilots

NEW YORK, Aug. 15. (Exclusive)—At a conference to be held next Tuesday between Dist.-Atty. Edwards, airplane engineers, manufacturers and pilots of the seven airports and numerous aeronautical factories in Nassau county, the question of policing the skies will be considered.

Mr. Edwards favors the adoption by the State of laws regulating flyers and planes. The noise nuisance, which has been of considerable annoyance to residents of Nassau county, should be provided for by law, according to Edwards, as also should the handling of planes by intoxicated pilots and the transportation of passengers who are intoxicated.

SUSPECT IN EATON CASE CAPTURED

Arrest of Wealthy Young American's Assailant in London Due Soon

LONDON, Aug. 15. (AP)—Scotland Yard today began to unravel the mystery of the Eaton case.

Philip Eaton, wealthy young schoolmaster from a Massachusetts boys' school, hovering between life and death in the Oxford ward of the St. George's Hospital here after an attack by two men in his fashionable Mayfair apartment, was reported slightly improved, but still not out of danger.

Twelve hours after the attack, which occurred Monday, the American, slashed and bleeding from razor wounds, was found in his bachelor quarters near Green Park.

Scotland Yard was quick to find Oliver Moore, described by the police as having been in the company of Roland Bateman the night the latter is asserted to have assaulted Eaton. Bateman has not been found, but police say they will have him in custody soon.

Bateman, who is 23 years of age, is believed to be at large dressed in some of Eaton's clothes, which he put on when he found his own were bloodstained from the fight in Eaton's apartment.

Reynolds Death Investigators in Conference

PHOENIX, Aug. 15. (AP)—Investigation into the murder of Paul E. Reynolds Department of Justice agent, today consisted chiefly of a prolonged and secret conference between J. N. Keith, chief of the Bureau of Investigation at Washington, County Attorney Wilson and Chief of Police Detectives McGrath. The nature of the discussion was not disclosed. Keith, who arrived here yesterday via air-rail lines from Washington, took charge of the hunt for suspects.

Other Federal agents were questioning a young woman employed in the Federal Building, who they said is believed to have been in the confidence of narcotic and liquor running leaders.

Clerk Arrested for Living With Pair of Women

NEW YORK, Aug. 15. (AP)—A Brooklyn grocery clerk was arrested today after police were informed he married two women and resided with both of them in a one-room apartment.

The clerk, Frank Saal, 29 years of age, was arrested on complaint of one of the women. She told police that she was married to Saal in June, 1928, the ceremony being witnessed by another woman whom Saal introduced as his sister.

Then, she said, all three set up housekeeping and lived happily until yesterday when the two women quarreled and the supposed sister produced a marriage certificate purporting to show she had been married to Saal in 1923.

Saal was charged with bigamy.

British Police Guard Jews at Wailing Wall

JERUSALEM, Aug. 15. (Jewish Telegraphic Agency)—Strong detachments of British police under the command of the police superintendent and the district commissioner of Jerusalem stood guard last night at the western wall of the temple, commonly known as the walling wall, while the Jews of Palestine made their annual mass pilgrimage to the remnant of the temple.

Ten thousand Jews recited the lamentations of Jeremiah over the fall of Jerusalem and the destruction of the temple.

Prayers were offered all night at the wall. No disturbances occurred.

VOTE DUE TODAY ON SUGAR TARIFF

Senate Finance Committee to Reduce it Some

But How Much Remains as Unsolved Question

Refiner Says Scale Fight to be Taken on Floor

WASHINGTON, Aug. 15. (AP)—The Republicans of the Senate Finance Committee today cleared the way for their most important action, a vote tomorrow on a sugar tariff, and the indications are that the House duty of 2.40 cents a pound on Cuban raws, against 1.76 cents under existing law, will be diminished.

Tariff observers seem to agree that a reduction will be approved by the eleven Republican members, but they are in a disagreement as to the extent of the slash.

A statement by Rudolph Spreckels, New York refiner, held out hope for a sliding scale tariff, but not in committee. Abandonment of Chairman Smoot's flexible sugar duty by the majority committeemen means, he said, that a fight for a scale plan will be carried to the Senate floor.

Although representatives of the industry were unanimous in opposing the Smoot scale, Spreckels pointed out that three witnesses, including himself, had presented fluctuating rate plans of their own and that since the hearing F. L. Crawford of the Michigan Sugar Company, had indorsed the scale proposed by Spreckels's representative.

It is evident, therefore, he added, that "a proper sliding scale duty on imported raw sugar has many friends in the sugar industry and certainly informed consumers in the United States would welcome a sliding scale duty on sugar which alone can insure to them a fair price for that essential food product regardless of increased world prices for raw sugar."

A final statement by the United States Sugar Association, comprising American producers in Cuba, said the American consumer will not "silently accept an increased tax on sugar to guarantee a price to sugar producers any more than will the same protectionists fail to object to the use of the tariff as a means of price insurance."

WARRANT OUT FOR HUCKINS

Arrest of Cash Wizard on Fraud Charge Near

Head of Mystery Business Will Surrender

Complaint Based on Letter to Heavy Investor

MILWAUKEE, Aug. 15. (AP)—Confident that Elmer S. Huckins, head of a mysterious business enterprise which is reputed to pay investors an annual interest rate of 36 per cent, will not long evade them, Federal authorities tonight expected momentarily to arrest him on a charge of using the mails to defraud.

Huckins, 60 years of age, former small town grocer whose sudden rise from small means to the status of a wealthy business man prompted an investigation, is specifically charged with having mailed a letter to a Milwaukee investor who had stopped payment on a $10,000 check given to Huckins. The letter was mailed at Hancock, Wis., where Huckins maintains an elaborate summer home, and addressed to the man in Milwaukee.

The warrant was issued at a secret conference Saturday but Federal operatives, for reasons they refuse to divulge, waited until yesterday to serve it. Huckins had left the city, however. His attorney, Walter J. Barngrover, Cedar Rapids, Iowa, today told Federal authorities his client would surrender but he failed to amplify his statement.

SUIT MAY SHIFT FORTUNE IN OIL

Rio Grande and Barnsdall Wells Jeopardized

Ownership to Strip of Coast Land Contested

Interior Department to Hear Case in September

WASHINGTON, Aug. 15. (Exclusive)—An interesting controversy involving proven oil land valued at more than $25,000,000 will come to a head here on September 5, next, in a hearing before John H. Edwards, assistant Secretary of the Interior, on the application of E. W. Lloyd for a patent to certain lands about and joining the Rancho Dos Pueblos, in Santa Barbara county, California, according to a statement made public here today by officials of the Interior Department.

The effect of Lloyd's application, according to this official, is to challenge the validity of the claims of the Rio Grande and Barnsdall oil companies to a portion of the oil field being operated by them at Elwood, Cal.

LAND TITLE QUESTIONED

According to the assertions of the application, there is a strip of public land which is the property of the United States government, ranging from a few feet in width to several hundred feet wide, lying between the high tide line of the Pacific Ocean and the southerly boundary line of the Rancho Dos Pueblos, as patented by the United States government to Dr. Nicholas Den, the predecessor in interest of the present owners, who leased the land to the Rio Grande and Barnsdall oil companies.

It is this strip of land which is applied for in the hearing to be held on September 5. If the applicant succeeds in establishing his claim that the land is government land he will be entitled, according to his claim, to purchase from the government the surface rights by using Valentine scrip. This form of scrip, according to government officials, is almost exhausted. Practically all of that which remains apparently has been acquired by the applicant for the Elwood strip and is now tendered to the government in payment for it. Under the terms of the application, however, the rights to be acquired are only the surface rights, the oil rights being reserved to the government.

WELLS JEOPARDIZED

If it is established that the land is government land and not privately owned, as is claimed by the Rio Grande and Barnsdall oil companies, the government immediately can take possession of the five or more producing oil wells located on the strip. It is asserted that these wells are producing approximately 20,000 barrels of high-gravity oil per day, which is more than one-half of the production of the entire field, together with an enormous volume of casinghead gas.

Another very important phase of the matter is that if the land is government land the oil which has heretofore been produced by the Rio Grande and Barnsdall companies, which is estimated at more than 4,000,000 barrels, is also the property of the government and the producing companies may be required to account to the government for the oil which they have removed from the property.

CLAIM RESISTED

The request for the hearing on September 5 comes from the attorneys for the Barnsdall Oil Company, who are resisting the claim that the land in question is public land and assert that it is the property of the heirs and successors of Nicholas Den and within the patent granted him by the government.

The decision of Assistant Secretary Edwards will be final after thirty days, during which either side has that time to supply additional facts under an application for a rehearing. If the contending parties do not supply new or more data under the application for a rehearing at the end of thirty days the original decision is final. From this decision only an appeal to the Federal courts is offered to either side and such an appeal can be only on points of law. The records of all decisions in the Interior Department for the last few years show that the courts on appeal have sustained the decision of the department on law points raised in all appeals. The findings of the Secretary of the Interior on facts are final.

BOTTLE BLAST FATAL TO LAD

Home Brew Blows up as He's Carrying It to Father and Kills Him

ALEXANDRIA (Va.) Aug. 15. (AP)—Police today ascribed the death of Wayne Arnold Germond, 11 years of age, of Burke's Station, near here, to the explosion of a bottle of home brew. Officials said they learned that a piece of glass from the bottle, which exploded while he was carrying it to his father, William B. Germond, lodged in his throat. Wayne died en route to an Alexandria hospital.

Pardon Averts His Deportation

SACRAMENTO, Aug. 15. (AP)—Gov. Young today granted a full pardon to John Vidovich, a Jugo-Slav, six days after Vidovich had been discharged from San Quentin prison, where he served two years for larceny. The Governor's action saves the man from deportation.

Vidovich was sentenced from Los Angeles in 1927 for theft of a fish net and corks valued at $348. Judge Stephens, who sentenced him, stated to the Governor that since passing judgment he had received information which led him to believe the man was a "victim of conspiracy to get rid of him," and that he had "grave doubts about him ever being guilty of grand larceny." Vidovich entered a plea of guilty in Stephens's court.

POLICY SHAPED BY FARM BOARD

Firmer Foundation Sought for Agriculture

Organization Keynote of Initial Moves

Grain Marketing Machine Greatest Step

WASHINGTON, Aug. 15. (AP)—Far-reaching policies designed to place agriculture on a new and firmer foundation have been initiated by the Federal Farm Board which came into existence just a month ago today.

The word "organization" has been its keynote during this period in the belief that the farmers will be able to stabilize their own industry if co-ordinated effort is substituted for haphazard methods of production and marketing.

THOUGHT REDIRECTED

Each member of the board is an advocate of the co-operative marketing movement, and all of its decisions have been intended to strengthen the co-operatives dealing with the commodities accorded treatment. The ultimate aim of the board's marketing program is to have every leading crop marketed by existing co-operatives through large national corporations, governed, if necessary, by commodity advisory councils.

As part of its work, the board has undertaken a "redirection of agricultural thought." The description given the effort to make the country think in terms of specific crops, each with its own problems, rather than mass agriculture.

BUILDING CO-OPERATIVES

The outstanding accomplishment of the board during its month's existence, has been the formation of the Farmers' National Grain Marketing Corporation. Its fundamental purpose is to build up farmer-owned and farmer-controlled co-operative institutions for marketing wheat and coarse grains. It will be eligible to borrow several millions from the farm-relief revolving fund, if necessary, to carry on its activities.

The foundation has been prepared for a similar undertaking in the wool industry. The wool co-operatives will meet with the board in Chicago early in October to discuss plans for the creation of a national marketing agency and an advisory council.

FREAK BREED OF SHEEP BROUGHT FROM JUNGLE

[Copyright, 1929, by New York Times.]

BALBOA, Aug. 15. (Exclusive)—A herd of four horned sheep are grazing at the Mindi Dairy farm near Colon as the result of two months of braving tropical swamps and jungles of the Colombian and Venezuelan frontiers by L. Dunn, mariner, banana plantation owner, timber cruiser and adventurer. He arrived here several years ago in the schooner Big Bill, named after Mayor Thompson, which he sailed from Chicago.

The sheep are considered remarkable freaks of nature. They have two horns growing downwards and two standing straight up from their heads. They are under medium size and have thick wool of a brownish color.

Dunn claims he discovered these freaks two years ago when crossing from Maracaibo towards the Pacific. Two months ago he made a special trip with Indian guides and succeeding capturing of twenty-four sheep of which twenty-one have survived the trip. Dunn will ship the sheep to the United States.

Little Girl, Shot by Another, Dies

NEW CASTLE (Pa.) Aug. 15. (AP) Olga Zemack, 7 years of age, died today from a bullet wound which police said was inflicted by a playmate, Geneve Rich, 12.

In questioning the Rich child, the police learned the older girl had not wanted her companion to accompany her to a store. The Rich girl said she obtained a rifle from her home to frighten the child, but did not know it was loaded. She fired, wounding the Zemack child in the abdomen. The shooting occurred on a porch at the Rich home.

Colored Pastor Loses Pulpit in Court Fight

CHICAGO, Aug. 15. (AP)—Rev. Isaac A. Thomas, for nineteen years pastor of the Second Baptist Church of suburban Evanston, reputed to have the wealthiest negro congregation in the United States, was ousted from his pulpit today by Judge Fisher in Circuit Court.

At the request of attorneys representing the congregation, Judge Fisher granted an injunction restraining him from conducting the affairs of the church.

Rev. Mr. Thomas's trouble, according to Attorney George Schein, who represented the congregation, was not that he took insufficient interest in the church, but that his interest was so great as to verge on the confiscatory.

When Pastor Thomas declined to accept dismissal at the hands of the congregation, the case went to court.

MORROW SEES MEXICO'S GAIN

Ambassador Highly Pleased at Nation's Progress

Religious Truce Held to be of Good Omen

MEXICO CITY, Aug. 15. (Exclusive)—Ambassador Morrow is carrying with him on the occasion of his departure for Washington Saturday for a two months' vacation an optimistic feeling toward present conditions in Mexico and the effect these conditions will have on the future of the country. During his absence Herschel Johnson, first Secretary of the Embassy, will act as charge d'affaires. The Ambassador plans to be back in Mexico City not later than the middle of October, it was made known this afternoon.

He will travel to Washington via Laredo and will spend about a month of sojourn in the United States at his country home at North Haven, Md.

Ambassador Morrow feels that Mexico is now in better shape than she has been in many years. Economically, financially, politically and otherwise it is the Ambassador's belief that Mexico is showing much progress, although over-optimism should not be indulged in, judging from the manner in which the Ambassador's beliefs are conveyed to correspondents, with the diplomat himself declining to vary from his usual policy of not speaking for publication.

The settlement of the religious problem has "eased popular sentiment greatly in Mexico" in the opinion of the Ambassador and such problems as the new labor law that has created such a stir in capital centers and the internationally important land issue are "bridges still to be crossed," which may be found passable when they are reached.

A solution of the land question especially is not an impossibility, in the opinion of the Ambassador. It is an economic problem that Mexico has begun to solve, although slowly, "by not contracting new debts."

It may be said, unless an erroneous impression has been gained, that President Hoover will receive from Morrow a report that Mexico is not lost, as the pessimists would have it said, and that the Ambassador sees much in Mexico comparable to similar conditions and problems as now prevailing in the United States where, however, less popular alarm is felt at political gossip and unrest than is the case in Mexico.

ANTIWHISTLE RADIO LOCATED

Constant - Frequency Station Will Go up in December on Nebraska Site

WASHINGTON, Aug. 15. (AP) Formal announcement that the constant-frequency radio station authorized by Congress last winter will be erected at Grand Island, Neb., in December was made today by the Department of Commerce.

The contract for the station, the first of its kind, will be let soon and the department expects it to bring about the elimination of "whistle" in radio receiving sets.

MINING MAN HITS MEXICO LABOR PLAN

Genero P. Garcia Declares Many Would be Deprived of Work by New Code

MEXICO CITY, Aug. 15. (Exclusive)—Instead of helping mine workers the proposed labor code of Mexico would increase the operating expense of mining interests so much that it would cause many mines to close and throw thousands of laborers out of work, in the opinion of Genero P. Garcia, president of the National Mining Chamber.

Garcia estimated the cost of mineral production would be increased 13 per cent and most of the mines now are operated on a margin of from 2 to 5 per cent.

Establishment of a minimum salary, shortening of working hours and the provision for construction of homes for laborers are some of the items cited which "unnecessarily" would increase expenditures. The mining head assailed the clause which would give laborers a hand in executive matters, declaring workers have no knowledge of these and the inevitable result would be economic losses. Instead of assuring harmony the "pro-labor" measure would cause friction between labor and capital which might prove disastrous, he said.

Racing Plane Still Untested

ANNAPOLIS (Md.) Aug. 15. (AP)—Adverse weather again today defeated the hopes of Lieut. Alford J. Williams to take into the air for the first time his mystery plane, the Mercury racer, with which he hopes to reach a speed of approximately 400 miles an hour and win the Schneider cup.

CHICAGO AIRMEN AGAIN SEEKING RECORD

CHICAGO, Aug. 15. (AP)—Three Chicago airmen took off at 3:30 p.m. today for the second time in their Stinson-Detroiter plane, the Chicago We Will, hoping to break the 424-hour refueling endurance record set by the St. Louis Robin.

The flyers, Russell Mossman, Earl Steele and Wilson Herrin, were forced down yesterday after three hours and thirty-five minutes in the air by a faulty carburetor. The plane is powered by a single Wright Whirlwind motor.

SPOKANE FLYERS OFF ON LONG JOURNEY

SPOKANE (Wash.) Aug. 15. (AP) N. B. Mamer and Art Walker hopped off at 5:58 p.m. Pacific time here today, heading their orange sesquiplane Spokane Sun God, into the western sunset as they began their Spokane-San Francisco-New York-Spokane endurance flight.

New Acts Balk State Lawyers

SACRAMENTO, Aug. 15. (Exclusive)—California attorneys, particularly those who make a business preparing articles for new corporations or amendments to the articles of existing concerns, are proving themselves woefully deficient in knowledge of the 1929 statutes that became effective yesterday.

Secretary of State Jordan's office announced today that out of forty articles of incorporation offered for filing yesterday and today only two are in accordance with the amended corporation statutes. Consequently it is necessary to return thirty-eight of the articles to the attorneys who prepared them with instructions that they consult the 1929 statutes and correct the papers accordingly.

Trap of Thorns Laid to Woman

PHOENIX, Aug. 15. (AP)—After one boy was hurt badly, Mrs. George Anstel, 55 years of age, was arrested here today charged with putting thorns on the sidewalk in front of her home to prevent children from playing.

According to a warrant sworn against the woman, she placed the thorns thickly up and down the path in front of her house, carefully covering them with grass to hide their presence. Several youngsters playing in the neighborhood ran down the walk and were hurt by the sharp thorns imbedding in their feet.

Bremen Starts on New Jaunt

CHERBOURG (France) Aug. 15. (AP)—The North German Lloyd liner Bremen, speed queen of Atlantic liners, cleared from here for her New York run at 7 p.m. today (2 p.m., E.S.T.)

Four hundred passengers went aboard, all hoping the liner again will break the speed record of four days, seventeen hours and forty-two minutes for the westward crossing set July 22.

NAVAL AVIATORS EYE SKY MARKS

Two New Records Will be Sought Immediately

Land Plane Altitude Aim of Lieut. Apollo Soucek

W. T. Scott Plans Parachute Jump of 25,000 Feet

WASHINGTON, Aug. 15. (AP)—Attempts to establish two new world altitude records—airplane and parachute jump—are to be made by naval airmen within the next fortnight.

The Navy Department is sponsoring both ventures to obtain information on the effect of the rarified upper air on men and machinery, and their oxygen requirements.

HOPES REVEALED

Lieut. Apollo Soucek, holder of the world's seaplane record of 38,560 feet, hopes to attain a new land-plane mark of more than 42,088 feet, or 100 meters higher, than the record of 41,760 feet established recently by Willie Neunhofen in Germany.

A parachute jump of at least 25,000 feet is the hope of Air Chief Machinist W. T. Scott, expert jumper at Anacostia naval air station. This would surpass the long-standing record of 24,000 feet made by Capt. A. W. Stevens of the Army at Dayton, O., in 1922, and bring the honor to the Navy, which has sponsored many unsuccessful efforts in recent years.

PLANE IMPROVED

Both attempts are to be made at the Anacostia station. Soucek is to fly the specially equipped naval plane Apache with which he once established the altitude record for land planes at 39,140 feet. A new propeller has been installed and several innovations in parts are being applied to the air-cooled engine.

Some delay has been encountered because the new parts had to be especially made, but Soucek expects soon to have the opportunity to view the earth from a greater distance than any other pilot of a heavier-than-air machine. His oxygen and breathing apparatus has been improved and he looks for no difficulty there, but he is attempting to find a solution to place over his goggles to prevent frosting in the cold temperature six miles from earth.

NONREFUELING FLYERS FORCED DOWN

By a "Times" Staff Correspondent

LONG BEACH, Aug. 15.—Forced down by defective spark plugs, T. G. Reid and Emery Bronte, flying an Emsco monoplane in an attempt to shatter the nonrefueling endurance flight record, today failed by nearly thirty-nine hours, when they landed at 9:30 a.m. near the Emsco factory. They had been in the air twenty-seven hours and twenty-nine minutes. The world record, held by two German pilots and established in Germany, is 66h. 28m.

Even if the spark plug trouble had not developed, it is extremely doubtful whether the flyers would have been able to remain in the air long enough to equal, let alone break the German mark. Their fuel consumption, according to factory officials, averaged between fifteen and sixteen gallons an hour, whereas they would have had to keep it under twelve gallons in order to stay aloft for sixty-six hours. At the take-off early Wednesday the ship's tanks carried 830 gallons.

NICARAGUA ASKS HELP ON HIGHWAY

Request in Line With Offer of Aid by United States on Inter-American Roads

WASHINGTON, Aug. 15. (Exclusive)—A Congressional resolution approved March 4, 1929, authorized an appropriation of $50,000 to enable the Secretary of State to cooperate with any Latin-American government in reconnaissance surveys to develop the facts and to make possible a report to Congress regarding the feasibility, cost and other considerations connected with the construction of an inter-American highway or highways.

It was provided that this assistance should be extended to any Latin-American government which might make a request or signify a desire for it to the Pan-American Union.

The department today is in receipt of a telegram from Matthew E. Hanna, the American charge d'affairs at Managua, to the effect that the Nicaraguan minister for foreign affairs has formally requested him to inform the department that the Nicaraguan government, in view of the lively interest it has in the construction of an inter-American highway especially toward the Honduran frontier, desires to accept the benefits of the Congressional resolution mentioned above and requests the co-operation of the government of the United States in the terms of that resolution.

Captive Gunman Refuses Meals

CHICAGO, Aug. 15. (AP)—Willie (Baby Face) Doody, the notorious gunman who had the reputation of being one of the "toughest" of present-day desperadoes, may be on a hunger strike.

The diminutive Doody, sought for months as a mail robber and "killer," has taken little food since he was captured Tuesday. Today he refused breakfast entirely and only drank a cup of coffee for lunch.

FOUR GO TO HOSPITAL AFTER AUTO SMASH

SAN RAFAEL, Aug. 15. (AP)—Four persons are in a hospital here tonight, suffering from severe injuries received in an automobile accident near Scotia this afternoon. They are Mr. and Mrs. C. B. Cammack, 2008 Raymond street, Los Angeles, Perley Hobbs and Miles Skaggs, both of San Rafael. Hobbs's car sideswiped the Cammack automobile, he told authorities, when a tire blew out.

MUSIC OF THE OLD WORLD

Europe . . . where, through the years, genius has left its rich heritage of song and melody. Travel tonight along romantic highways of song with masters of the Old World in a program presented by Forest Lawn Memorial-Park. This is the 31st Episode in the Forest Lawn Series of Musical and Dramatic Broadcasts. Always something new and interesting on a Forest Lawn program.

KHJ.. Tonight ..8 to 9

As in music, the masters of the Old World have wrought their inspiration in brightest marble, on canvas, in the threads of tapestries, in the architecture of noble buildings, in an infinite variety of works of art.

To Forest Lawn Memorial-Park have been brought many of these great works: The gigantic statue, Moses, by Michelangelo; The Mystery of Life, by Gasseri; The Three Graces, by Canova; and numerous other famous sculptures. The churches of Forest Lawn, its mighty Mausoleum, its other buildings are replicas of some of Europe's most beautiful architecture. Many other wonders of art are gathered here — to symbolize, in a setting of marvelous natural beauty, the Spirit of Forest Lawn, an earthly reflection of the glory of life eternal.

A beautifully illustrated Art Book, "Chimes," descriptive of the works of art in Forest Lawn, may be obtained by sending 25 cents to partially cover its cost. A very fresh booklet, "The Truth About Burial Customs and Costs," will be sent free on request.

DR. EMPRINGHAM CHARGE PUSHED

New York Attorney-General to Prosecute Him

Operation of Clinic Without License Asserted

Former Dry Leader Thought to be in West Now

NEW YORK, Aug. 15. (AP)—The Attorney-General's office announced today that it is going to proceed against Dr. James Empringham on charges of illegally operating a clinic in which patients were subjected to physical examinations.

The charge will be practicing medicine without a license and it will be based on complaints of doctors and clients that Dr. Empringham, although he held no license, operated an X-ray machine, gave advice on diet and conducted examinations.

The action must await return to this State of Dr. Empringham, a former superintendent of the Anti-Saloon League in New York, who is said to be in the West, having obtained a divorce in Reno last June.

BISHOP TO GET COPY

The case was placed in the hands of Sol Ulman, deputy Attorney-General, acting for the State Board of Medical Examiners. Officials said that a copy of the complaint against the clergyman will be forwarded to Bishop Manning of the Protestant Episcopal diocese of New York, to whom health department officials said an appeal was made last year to unfrock Dr. Empringham.

Dr. Empringham was born in England but was naturalized after coming here and was admitted to the ministry on graduation from the General Theological Seminary in New York. He was rector of St. Paul's Church in Syracuse, N. Y. from 1906 to 1915, resigning to become Anti-Saloon League superintendent.

DRY STAND GIVEN UP

He was an advocate of prohibition until the results of the questionnaire he circulated among Episcopal clergymen all over the country convinced him that prohibition was not aiding the cause of temperance. He made his survey as national secretary of the church temperance society, which Bishop Manning said at the time had no official connection with the Episcopal Church.

Dr. Empringham also was head of the Health Educational Society, which was closed by the Board of Health in 1926 after investigation of complaints that he was practicing medicine without a license there. This organization was supplanted by the Emanuel Institute, against which there were continued complaints.

Dr. Empringham is 54 years of age, holds a D.D. degree from Syracuse University, and is the author of several books.

Exposition in Spain Extended

WASHINGTON, Aug. 15. (Exclusive)—Spain has asked the United States to extent its exhibit at the Seville Exposition for five and a half months beyond the original December 15 closing date, and President Hoover, granting the request, probably will ask Congress soon for additional appropriations for that purpose.

The exposition has proved such a success that the Spanish government has decided to continue it until June 1, of 1930. It was estimated that $700,000 would cover the expenses of the United States at the exposition until the December closing date, but the extension requested can be compiled with only if Congress supplements this first appropriation by an amount not yet officially revealed.

"Ad" Men Close Berlin Meeting

BERLIN, Aug. 15. (AP)—The International Advertising Congress closed its sessions today after a formal farewell between President Charles C. Younggreen, representing the 5000 delegates from many countries, and ex-Chancellor Luther, representing Germany as host to the convention.

President Younggreen, summing up the work of the week, pronounced the congress "the greatest gathering of its kind ever assembled." The sessions, he said, had demonstrated advertising as a powerful factor for world peace and prosperity.

Senators Evade First Quorum

WASHINGTON, Aug. 15. (AP)—An opening session of the Senate without a quorum present is in prospect for the first meeting after the summer recess on Monday.

Hidden away in vacation retreats from coast to coast, the scattered membership of the Senate apparently is going to accept the gentlemen's agreement reached by the party leaders to take up no business until September. Many of the Senators already have sent word to their secretaries that they will not return before September.

Father Accused of Slaying Son

ANDERSON (S. C.) Aug. 15. (AP) Charged with slaying his 15-year-old son Maxie, whose life he had insured for more than $10,000, J. R. Thomas was held in jail here today.

Maxie and his father went to the Saluda River on the 3rd inst. to fish and Thomas said his son slipped into the water and drowned.

Dr. B. F. Robinson, Clemson College chemist, testified before a Coroner's jury he found traces of two poisons in the boy's stomach.

CARBUNCLE STARTS RUN ON BANK IN BROOKLYN

NEW YORK, Aug. 15. (AP)—A carbuncle on the back of the president's neck indirectly helped to start a run today on the Bay Bridge Savings Bank in Brooklyn.

Two thousand depositors rushed into the place and before they had quieted down—and before some of them, rather sheepishly, had come back and reopened their accounts—they had drawn out $2,000,000.

Several days ago Dr. Maurice T. Lewis, president, went to a hospital in Connecticut to have a carbuncle removed from the back of his neck.

False rumors were circulated that he was dead and that his death had caused a run on the bank. Rumors of a run started the actual run.

In addition, officials of the bank said today, a man who had tried to borrow $16,000 on only $10,000 collateral went to a near-by speakeasy and said he had been unable to get any money because the bank was short of funds.

officer class is woefully topheavy." While in time of war, he added, one major-general will command 30,000 to 35,000 men, today "in time of peace on the Canal Zone alone we have 9000 men with four major-generals commanding them."

YOUNG PAIR FACE LONG CRIME LIST

Fresno Prosecutor Files Another Charge Against Boys at Bakersfield

FRESNO, Aug. 15.—Charging theft of an automobile here on June 16, a complaint was issued by the District Attorney's office today against Virgil Nelson and William Woodward, local youths, who are in jail in Bakersfield on Federal charges of violation of the Dyer Act, a law prohibiting interstate movement of stolen motor vehicles.

According to advices received by the local authorities the youths are charged with a long list of automobile thefts subsequent to that here two months ago which was the start of a long trip in assertedly stolen cars.

Their plan, the authorities charge, was to steal a car in one city, drive to another and abandon it and steal another. Their route in this way, according to local advices, took them from Fresno to Oakland, Seattle, Pocatello, Idaho; Salt Lake City, Los Angeles and Bakersfield, where they were apprehended. Nelson is on probation from the State School at Ione, where he was sent on a charge of issuing fictitious checks.

PAIR HELD WHEN TUG RAMS BOAT

Sacramento River Crash Periling Eighty Lives Blamed on Drunkenness

PITTSBURG (Cal.) Aug. 15. (AP)—Details of a collision near the mouth of the Sacramento River last night between the river tug Keith and the river steamer Capitol City, which endangered eighty Stockton-bound passengers aboard the latter vessel, were learned here today with the arrest of the captain and deckhand of the tug on charges of drunkenness.

The tug rammed the Capitol City shortly before midnight, according to Capt. Eugene Lee of the steamer, who added the smaller vessel "was running wild, without lights." Approximately $15,000 damage was suffered by the steamer, which proceeded to Stockton after the collision, he said.

Capt. John Novathy and Richard Doreth, tug deckhand, were arrested when the tug reached here last night. They will have a hearing tomorrow before Police Judge Moore at Pittsburg.

Air Comrades Meet Again

LINDSAY, Aug. 15.—Another of those little incidents proving the world is not so large is reported by Roland Fitton, oil company agent here. Fitton served with the Royal Air Force in France during the World War and was an interested visitor at Lindsay airport a few days ago, when the Continental Air Express plane landed. Following his introduction to the pilot of the plane, Capt. McKenzie, a brief conversation disclosed that they had been members of the same squadron at the same time in France.

Among the several hundred serving with the squadron, they found many to be mutual friends. Fitton promptly transported McKenzie to his home where he dug out a few war pictures, which served to recall more momentous days.

Jacob Wild Changes Plea

VISALIA, Aug. 15. (AP)—Jacob Wild, charged with the attempted murder of Mrs. Ethel Shaw and her two children, this morning, changed an earlier plea of not guilty to not guilty by reason of insanity. Two alienists will be named by Superior Judge J. A. Allen to study the case. Trial has been set for September 11.

SPORTSMEN GATHER FOR DISCUSSIONS

VISALIA, Aug. 15.—Important matters were discussed this evening at a meeting here of the San Joaquin Valley unit of the Associated Sportsmen of California. Trout planting bases of the present and methods of fish planting and distribution were studied. Reports of standing committees supplied data as a guide for future construction of holding ponds. Sportsmen representing clubs from Bakersfield on the south to Madera on the north were in attendance. Lloyd Bacon is chairman of the valley unit and Charles Carlton secretary.

Chinese Changes Testimony About Crash Fatality

VISALIA, Aug. 15.—Justice of the Peace J. S. Clark has taken under advisement manslaughter charges against Samuel Ramsey of Fresno, resulting from death of William Absher, Tulare rancher, on the morning of July 27, when Absher's car was struck by a truck on which Ramsey and Joseph C. Woo, also of Fresno, were riding.

Woo, a Chinese truckman, at first shouldered the blame for Absher's death, declaring he had gone to sleep while driving. At the inquest, Ramsay, who had given his name as Silva at the time of the crash, declared that, in reality, he had been driving the truck and was responsible for the accident. Woo corroborated this, declaring he had believed he should say he was driver of the machine and take the responsibility because he owned it.

Preliminary hearing against Woo on the same charge is yet to be heard.

Two-Time Loser Sentenced Again

BAKERSFIELD, Aug. 15.—Clifford Holt, former "two-time loser," having served time in San Quentin and Folsom penitentiaries, is a "three-time loser" now. Holt was sentenced to Folsom for an indeterminate number of years today after he had pleaded guilty to grand theft with prior conviction of grand theft. He was sentenced by Judge E. F. Britton in Kern Superior Court.

Holt was arrested by City Traffic Officer H. V. Grayson last week on suspicion of charges that would have meant a life sentence in Folsom had they been proven, police said. At headquarters he was booked for theft of two automobiles, one in Glendale, and one here, and for carrying a deadly weapon. The latter charge, against an ex-convict, carries a life term.

PEACH MARKET GETS KINGS COUNTY CARS

HANFORD, Aug. 15.—Kings county's contribution to the fresh peach market this season was 223 carloads, according to L. O. Haupt, county agricultural commissioner. Of this tonnage 220 carloads went to eastern markets. The average price paid to growers for their shipping peaches this year was $47.50, Haupt reported. Armona was a large contributor to the shipping activities of the season.

COUNTY POLITICS TALKED

Tulare Sheriff's Office Appears to be Most Coveted Plum in Pie; Incumbent and Others Mentioned ...

VISALIA, Aug. 15.—In spite of the heat, automobile driver examinations, new laws, hunting and fishing gossip, sun-tan ensembles, pajama parades, and what have you, county politics continues one of the chief questions of interest in Tulare county. Many of the so-called possible candidates warily agree "that's dealing a long way in futures," while others come out boldly and express themselves.

Dist.-Atty. Leroy McCormick's office started the excitement when he announced that he would not be a candidate for re-election next term, but would support his chief deputy, Walter G. Haight, who in turn declared he would be in the field for the post of his retiring superior. McCormick declared he had no desire to serve as Sheriff, rumor to the contrary, but would devote his time to private practice.

With McCormick's retirement and Haight's possible advance to the higher position, it is expected there will be a general movement all along the line in the District Attorney's office. Also various attorneys about the county may cast their eyes toward the District Attorney's office.

Thus far the Sheriff's office appears to be the most coveted plum in the political pie. Sheriff R. L. Hill has not committed himself, but is being considered as a possibility. Chief of Police John R. MacDonald of Tulare has definitely announced himself for this post. Chief of Police Harry Davis of this city, formerly a deputy sheriff, is reported as a candidate. Police Chief W. E. Maston of Porterville, a former deputy sheriff, and Constable Delos Howard of Pixley are also mentioned. Howard has served as constable in the Pixley-Tipton district for sixteen years.

Maston served as constable at Porterville thirteen years prior to entering the Sheriff's office, later becoming Chief of Police at Porterville. If Hill is again a candidate, Maston is reported to have said he will not be in the field.

FRIEND WILL NOT RUN AGAINST SUPERIOR JUDGE

DINUBA, Aug. 15.—If Judge J. A. Allen runs for re-election as Superior judge of Tulare county at the next election, he will not be opposed by his friend, J. E. Green, local attorney. Persistent rumors that Green was about to cast his hat into the political ring, brought forth the statement that he would not run against Judge Allen.

GREAT MEDICAL CENTER TO RISE

New York Plans $16,000,000 Hospital Group

Sites Picked for Thirteen Large Structures

Work, Starting at Once, to Require Three Years

NEW YORK, Aug. 15. (AP)—Building plans for a new medical center, to consist of thirteen buildings and to cover the major portion of three city blocks along the East River, just above the Rockefeller Institute for Medical Research, were filed today by New York Hospital and Cornell Medical College. The cost will be $16,000,000.

The center will consist of a main hospital, a maternity hospital, a children's hospital, a hospital for the treatment of mental and nervous disorders, a nurses' home, five laboratory buildings, a medical library and the administrative offices of Cornell Medical College, a central heating plant, a service building and a four-story garage.

Construction of the buildings will begin at once. It is estimated that it will take nearly three years to build.

BAKERSFIELD PLANE IN WOMEN'S DERBY

BAKERSFIELD, Aug. 15.—The name of Bakersfield will be borne through the clouds from Santa Monica to Cleveland as the National Women's Air Derby, scheduled to begin next Sunday, gets under way, it was announced here today by C. M. Richardson, State secretary of the Affiliated Exchange Clubs of California, which is sponsoring the event along with the Exchange Club of Santa Monica. The plane which will bear the name of Bakersfield in huge printed letters has not been announced as yet, but will be decided upon within the next few days, Secretary Richardson reported.

VICTIM OF BULLETS BLAMES DRY AGENTS

RICHMOND (Va.) Aug. 15. (AP)—Pete Miller, 33 years of age, of Sweet Hall, Va., in a local hospital suffering with bullet wounds in the abdomen, told police tonight that two prohibition agents whom he said wounded him represented themselves as "insurance agents."

McGraw Says Sargon "Picked Him Right Up"

"It's wonderful the way this new Sargon toned up my whole system. I've gained 11 pounds in five weeks and am in better physical condition than in years.

"I had a severe case of grippe about six months ago and it left me in such a weak, rundown condition that my whole system was affected. It looked as though I'd never regain my vitality and my appetite was so poor, I didn't eat enough to keep up my strength. My nerves were shaky; I never got a good night's rest and my weight dropped from 167 to 156 pounds. Constipation and a sluggish liver were also helping to pull me down. I was in no condition to attend to business and would tire out before the day was half gone. My condition had me so badly worried that I felt depressed all the time. I had read of many cases similar to mine, where Sargon had brought lasting relief so I decided to give it a trial.

"And now, I feel no hesitancy in endorsing the Sargon treatment because I can honestly say that it has completely restored my health. My appetite is excellent now and I not only eat three hearty meals every day but even eat between meals. My strength and energy have returned; my nerves are in fine shape and I've gained back the 11 pounds I had lost. My sleep is sound and restful and I get up fully refreshed and ready to attend to business. My liver has been regulated perfectly and I'm rid of constipation. That tired, listless feeling is gone and to sum it all up in a few words, Sargon just picked me right up, put me back on my feet and made me feel like a new man physically and mentally."

The above statement was made by F. M. McGraw, 729 Parkview St., Los Angeles.

A special Sargon representative at the Owl Drug Store, 6th and Broadway, is explaining the therapeutic action of this revolutionary new medicine to hundreds daily. Sargon may also be obtained at all Owl drug stores in Los Angeles and other cities.—[Advertisement.]

Let Your Real Estate Grow Up

The man who plants a fruit tree knows it must be given TIME.

He knows the tree will grow daily but that he cannot detect that daily growth.

Yet he confidently awaits the outcome, knowing that in due season the accumulating growth will manifest itself in FRUIT.

This is the basic real estate investment law.

Simple—known to all—yet easily overlooked!

But veteran real estate investors never forget it: TIME! FAITH! HARVEST!

These experts are buying real estate today.

They realize that the development of a community, like that of a tree, is imperceptible; that even when they cannot measure daily enhancement there are invisible values being woven into their property; that at the right moment these values will materialize.

You may be sure that mighty forces are at work in Southern California and that values are being created in its real estate.

If you would participate in this development, follow the time-tested rules:

Buy wisely;

Look upon your carrying charges as so much irrigation and fertilization—just as you would have to give your living tree.

Do not try to detect the invisible daily growth.

VILLAGE PRIMPS FOR PRESIDENT

Madison, Va., Will be Host to Hoover Saturday

Whole Countryside Helping Clean Fair Grounds

Gov. Byrd Will Introduce Chief Executive

MADISON (Vir.) Aug. 15. (AP)—Madison is finding the prospect of entertaining so distinguished a guest as the President of the United States altogether thrilling and just a bit disturbing.

Proud and grateful that he chose a spot within its confines for his fishing preserve and desiring to tell him so, the citizens of the country invited Mr. Hoover to pay them a visit next Saturday. He accepted and has promised a short, informal address in response to the expressions of thanks. So Saturday was designated "Madison county day", and mighty preparations were begun.

ADVICE SOUGHT

Not often is it the good fortune of a small Virginia village to play host to such an important personage. There has been much frantic searching of precedents and seeking of advice. The members of the community are unanimous in their anxiety and determination that the Chief Executive be received in true Presidential fashion with all the customs and traditions associated with a Presidential visit fully observed.

Today, an unusual stir of activity replaced the accustomed quiet and serenity of the village. From the number of farm people driving into town it might have been "court day," but for the fact that they were attired in work-a-day overalls instead of Sunday best and were directed toward the county fair grounds on the edge of town.

Rakes and shovels, hammers and saws were ready there for willing hands. The debris from the last county fair and numerous picnic parties had to be cleaned up, a speaker's stand built, and an ornate gateway constructed at the entrance.

In addition, the roadway over which the Presidential party will pass after entering the grounds had to be graveled and smoothed over generally. The day was designated "clean-up day."

BYRD TO INTRODUCE

Mr. Hoover plans to go to his fishing preserve in the near-by Blue Ridge Mountains tomorrow, and motor to Madison for the ceremonies on Saturday morning. Representative Garber of the Congress district which embraces Madison, will introduce Gov. Byrd, who will tell the President of the county's gratitude. President Hoover's address will follow.

The ceremonies over, the Chief Executive will return to his fishing lodge. The people of the county, however, will make a day of it. There will be the barbecue and then the afternoon will be filled with sports, fly-casting contests and a horseshoe-pitching tournament. Plans for another "clean-up day" have been left for the future.

ADVANTAGES OF AUTOGIRO

Aeronautical engineers tell us that, theoretically, there is no reason why autogiros should not be every bit as efficient, as regards speed and lifting capacity, as airplanes, says the New York Times. They may prove themselves to be in practice, but that day is not yet and it is unlikely that it will come in this generation. The progress of new inventions is ever slow, and in the case of the autogiro there are still many problems to overcome.

It might be asked what the advantages of the autogiro are compared with the airplane. In the first place it can land on a spot—almost in anybody's back yard, as one writer has put it. There can be no reasonable doubt that when it is perfected it will be able to rise in the same space in which it now requires to land. In that case it will obviously be the ferry machine, able to take passengers from the hearts of big cities into the outlying airports. It may also become the ideal plane for short distance flying. High speeds are theoretically possible, but whether they will ever be able to exceed the growing performance of high-speed airplanes, and particularly high-speed flying boats, is at present doubtful.

Another advantage is in the extraordinary stability of the autogiro in the air. It is said that it is extremely difficult to stall and impossible to spin, and probably impossible to loop, although there is no record of any one having tried to do that. It can be stalled, however, only by prolonged misuse of the controls. Here, then, is a safety factor that aeronautical engineers have long been trying to discover. On this account it is highly probable that it will be the training ship of the future, and it is just as likely to become the favorite private plane of the sporting air-minded.

One of its worst draw-backs lies in having the vanes rotating above the cockpit, making it impossible, under pain of instant death, to use a parachute in case of an accident in the air. This bad feature will doubtless be overcome by the use of cabin constructed fuselages.

Phophecy is a thankless and a dangerous indulgence, but on the facts and on the record to date of the autogiro it seems safe to say that the present windmill machine will doubtless look like the Wright brothers' first plane when that machine is compared with the airplanes of today and when the present autogiro is compared with the autogiros of tomorrow. What the autogiro will develop into in the next twenty-five years can only be remotely guessed at.

Fight at First Sight

The "cichlids" of the fresh water carp family are said to be among the most ferocious of fish. They are quite difficult to mate and have to be kept separate, for they fight and kill each other with little delay. When they are once mated, however, they take great care of their progeny. A flower pot of hollow stone is found, which they clean spotlessly and in which they rear their family. They guard their eggs in alternate shifts, fanning them with their fins. Just before hatching, the female digs a pit in the sand or shingle and transfers the young fish to it. They are then a wriggling mass of black jelly. After two or three hours she digs another pit, and this process goes on till the youngsters can swim about.

MANILA TO GET VALLEY GRAPES

Twenty Carloads Slated for Shipment Tonight

Movement Heralded as New Trade Beginning

Vessel Under Construction Miles from Sea

BY WAYNE B. CAVE

Twenty carloads of grapes arriving from the San Joaquin Valley today will go out for Manila tonight in the refrigerated holds of the fast Norwegian motorship Tai Ping, inaugurating the new Pacific-Oriental and globe-girdling service for the Barber Line.

This shipment is heralded as the trail-blazer of a new trade, with greater and regular shipments to follow to new oriental markets, which will absorb a material amount of the valley's great output.

Incidentally, it emphasizes Los Angeles Harbor's pre-eminent service to this great back country, whose citrus fruits and cotton likewise now issue through here after years of diversion through San Francisco.

AIDED BY NEW SERVICE

While the grape movement is new, it is coincident to and aided by the new direct service of the Barber Line, whose fast ships will deposit the perishables in Manila just twenty days after they arrive in Los Angeles Harbor.

"We also are shipping oranges and our idea is to develop perishable offerings from even farther inland," explained Perry S. Newcomb of Dodwell & Co., agents for the Barber Line. "The outlook is splendid."

The Barber Line, when it gets its full schedule going, will have five ships of the Tai Ping type, each with 750 tons of refrigeration space, in the trans-Pacific run, and five Castle ships continuing around the world.

GRAPE RATES CUT

Simultaneously with the Manila grape movement comes a cut in rates on grapes from $40 to $25 a measurement ton between California and the east coast of South America, effective at once on all conference lines. This is expected to put California grapes on a competitive basis with those of the Mediterranean in Latin markets, now coming at the rate of 4500 tons annually. The Westfal-Larsen Line next month will start five new ships in that service, each refrigerated to foster the movement.

SEAGOING YACHT

BEING BUILT INLAND

A fifty-six-foot yacht designed for the sea is being built twenty-five miles inland at the yards of the Los Angeles Manufacturing Company. The vessel is for two Los Angeles sportsmen.

Another feature is that the craft is all steel-welded, one of the few welded boats on this Coast, as the process is new. A forty-foot welded craft was constructed by the same concern experimentally two years ago and is giving a good account of itself.

The new boat will be powered with a 170-horsepower Cummins Diesel engine, giving a speed of twelve to fifteen knots, and with double bottom tanks for enough fuel to cruise 5000 miles. Lamble propellers and remote control are features, according to Paul Bateman, builder's engineer.

The boat will cost $30,000 and will be completed in three weeks, when a truck and trailer are to transport it to sea.

Bookings for the globe-girdling special cruise of the Belgenland next winter show Los Angeles leading New York in number of passengers to date, according to officials of the Panama Pacific Line. The liner is due here from New York January 6, 1930. Seventeen have been booked by the D. P. Robertson Travel Bureau alone. Indications, it is said, are that all accommodations will be taken long before the sailing.

Continuing the movement of California's golden fruit abroad, 48,500 boxes of oranges will go out on the Donaldson Line carrier Modavia for the United Kingdom tomorrow. The vessel will load 2147 tons of Los Angeles products, including 435 tons of borax and twenty-three tons of honey.

In tonight for Balfour, Guthrie & Co. will be the Danish motorship Chile of the East Asiatic Line, to discharge 2500 tons of European cargo.

Dr. F. MacLean Campbell and Howard Wickersham flew to San Diego yesterday to arrange for the arrival of several score local members of the Marine Service Bureau en route south for the bureau's coastal convention. All will return tomorrow after a visit with Gov. Rodriguez at Agua Caliente today.

More than 2000 applicants will take the examination in California ports the 24th inst. for customs inspectors in the Pacific Southwest area. Under the new Welch law the job carries a salary of $2100 to start. Vacancies even with new authorizations are extremely few.

The Java Pacific motorship Bintang will go to the dry dock of the Los Angeles Shipbuilding and Drydock Corporation tomorrow night for survey of damage, including a broken stern post, sustained in backing out of a berth at Long Beach Tuesday. Bids for repairs are expected to be called Tuesday.

New charges for storage of pipe at the harbor, which were to apply beginning yesterday, have been suspended until 7 a.m. next Monday, it was announced by Burt Edwards, port manager. The charges are to apply forty-eight hours after the pipe has been landed from ships. They were adopted by the Harbor Commission this week on recommendation of a committee from the Los Angeles Steamship Association. The delay in enforcement, Edwards said, is to avoid undue hardship on the pipe handlers, as the ruling caught them unawares.

LOS ANGELES MADE FOR WESTERN TRADE

You cannot see the QUALITY but you can see the NAME!

TING the best tire value
e your money would be a diffiproblem—except for one thing.

e thing is the great name GOOD-boldly cast into the sidewall of a tire.

resemble one another in general con-good rubber and poor look much the eye cannot easily penetrate weaknesses or strength.

whenever you find that name Goodyear fe you can be sure that tire embodies thing that so far is peerless and supreme!

TY is this true? What are the facts behind the Goodyear Tire that give its this priceless meaning? Briefly, they Tires are the chief product of the rubber company in the world.

Tires are the beneficiaries of dily advancing science of the largest tire engineering and development corps in the world.

Goodyear Tires are built under the most closely controlled processes, and strictest inspection, to insure uniform tire quality, exercised in the world.

Goodyear Tires are subject to continual 24-hour-a-day testing, to check such control and inspection, on the largest tire testing fleet in the world.

Goodyear Tires are sold and serviced by the greatest and most successful body of retail merchants in the tire business.

Goodyear Tires are so outstandingly superior in quality that last year their percentage of gain in sales was nearly three times the percentage of gain in sales recorded for the industry as a whole!

THESE are not claims; they are facts. They enable better tires and better values.

That is why the leading motor car manufacturers, seeking the best in tire equipment, use more Goodyear Tires than any other kind.

That is why the cost-wary owners of the great truck fleets of industry, seeking utmost economy, use more Goodyear Tires than any other kind.

That is why the purchasing experts of the urban, interurban and transcontinental bus lines, seeking safe and profitable operation, use more Goodyear Tires than any other kind.

That is why throughout the world it is true this year as for fourteen years past, that "more people ride on Goodyear Tires than on any other kind"!

SO don't be misled by the specious plea of the tire dealer who would take your good money for something less than Goodyears, when he says, "All tires are about alike." You know the answer.

You cannot see the quality but you can see the NAME!

Tread and carcass: these are the two main parts of a tire.

There is greater traction in the Goodyear All-Weather Tread.

There is greater vitality in the Goodyear Supertwist carcass.

Evidence? Any Goodyear Dealer will demonstrate. Proof? "More people ride on Goodyear Tires than on any other kind!"

NEWS OF SOUTHERN COUNTIES

WOMAN VICTIM OF STARVATION

Inquest Today on Lifeless Asserted Captive

Wife Declared to Have Been Imprisoned in Home

World War Veteran Husband Calls Police

ALHAMBRA, Aug. 18.—Inquest into the death by starvation of Mrs. Helen Konarski, 28 years of age, of 421 East Hellman avenue, whose nude and lifeless body was found today on a couch at her home where police assert she had been virtually held a prisoner for the past four months and denied medical aid by her shell-shocked World War veteran husband, will be held tomorrow morning at the F. A. Utter & Son mortuary. The husband, Sigmund Konarski, 42, a deputy county tax collector, still refusing to believe that his wife is dead, is being held by local police pending the outcome of the inquest.

Mrs. Konarski, once a handsome woman, but an emaciated figure at the time of her death, was found dead in the living-room of her home by two firemen who answered the call of the husband for an inhalator at noon. Her body was covered by a blanket. Near the couch stood a small table bearing a partially filled glass of barley water and a piece of raw beefsteak.

HOUSE LOCKED

Battalion Chief Arthur Sackett and Capt. Bert Speer, summoned by the husband, found the home locked and no one about the premises when they arrived. Konarski appeared a few seconds later, pulling on a shirt that he had carried with him when he had raced from his home to telephone for assistance. The husband led them to the rear of the house, where they gained entrance.

Mrs. Konarski apparently had been dead for several hours. Oxygen and artificial respiration failed to revive her, although firemen worked over her twenty minutes before the arrival of Dr. Dee M. Rees, who pronounced her dead.

Dr. Rees stated that the woman had died of starvation or tubercular trouble, but, in either case, she had had little to eat for several months. The physician stated that the woman apparently had weighed about 120 pounds in good health, but had wasted away to no more than seventy pounds at the time of her death. He refused to make a positive statement as to the cause of death.

NATIVE OF POLAND

His report was substantiated by the story told Detective Lieutenant M. Boone of the local police department by Konarski, who said that his wife had eaten very little for several months. The husband said that his wife had been suffering from asthma and that he had fed her on barley water for several months.

Konarski was said to have been under the influence of liquor at the time of his arrest and was unable to give a coherent statement to police.

Konarski is a native of Poland. He came to California about nineteen years ago. Correspondence indicating that he was receiving compensation from the United States was found in his home by officers. The couple had lived in this city for about six months.

Autopsy Asked in Mysterious Death of Child

BUENA PARK, Aug. 18.—An autopsy was being planned here this afternoon to determine cause of the death of Lillian Davis, 6-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Davis, who live on Tenth avenue.

The child arose this morning, apparently as healthy as when she went to bed last evening. She declined breafast, saying that she would eat a peach instead. Taking the fruit she stepped to the rear porch from which she fell screaming an instant later.

The Fullerton Fire Department was called with its pulmotor, but its efforts proved futile. The attending physician was unable to ascribe a possible cause of death, and joined the parents in calling for an autopsy, which is to be conducted by Coroner C. D. Brown.

CHILDREN'S POOL APPLICATION MADE

INGLEWOOD, Aug. 18.—Application has been made to the Los Angeles county health department for a permit to operate the new swimming pool for children constructed by members of the American Legion in Centinela Park. The new plunge, which will be known as City Park pool, is 40x40 feet in dimension, sloping from a depth of three feet at one end to four feet on the other. The pool will be fenced and surrounded by a concrete walk five feet wide.

Though the maximum depth is only four feet, there will be a life guard on duty and the bacteria count in the water will be duly checked by what is known as the orthotoluidin test, and chlorination will be resorted to if necessary.

NOSES COUNTED AGAIN AT NORTH HOLLYWOOD

NORTH HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 18. This city, formerly the old Lankershim district, has a population of 19,281, according to figures announced following a survey made of the townsite and immediate environs. Several years ago the Lankershim district was a small settlement with about 2000 persons residing in an area several miles square. This section adjoins Hollywood.

Fire Chief Gets New Badge of Honor

Chief William Mohr of Santa Monica presents emblem signifying presidency of Pacific Coast Fire Chiefs' Association to Chief Engineer R. F. Coop of the Pasadena department.

MAN BURNS TO DEATH IN SEDAN

Victim Connected With Sherman Institute at Riverside

LAGUNA BEACH, Aug. 18. (AP)—Charles M. Sims of the Sherman Indian Institute at Riverside was burned to death in his automobile today following a collision on the Coast highway three miles north of here. C. H. Hosler, Los Angeles hotel man, who was driving the other car, was held by the police as a material witness.

Sims's closed car overturned and burst into flames, trapping him within. Identification was made by Sims's daughter, who was here with him visiting relatives.

Vineyard Crop Purpling Into Early Maturity

ONTARIO, Aug. 18—The vividly green expanse of the Italian Vineyard Company's 10,000 acres of grapes is taking on an added color now, a deep, dark purple, and an air of hustle and bustle is evident.

Warm weather of the past week has hastened the grapes toward maturity, and the colonies of Mexicans and Italians are making ready to harvest the huge crops when the signal is given.

In a few instances only, grapes have reached a stage here where they need picking, but it will be some days yet before the harvest is on in full force.

Within one month busy hands will begin stripping the grapes from the vines, now carrying what is thought to be the heaviest crop in many years.

COUNTY AID FOR SEPULVEDA

MANHATTAN BEACH, Aug. 18.—County aid in the construction of this city's sector of Sepulveda Boulevard has been promised to the amount of $30,000 it was made known today. Sepulveda will traverse the city from the north to the south limits on what is now El Camino Real.

ARCADIA, August 18.—With fire chiefs from various cities in the San Gabriel Valley, Los Angeles, and surrounding cities, E. F. Coop, Chief Engineer of the Pasadena Fire Department and recently elected president of the Pacific Coast Fire Chiefs' Association, was formally presented with the badge of his new office this morning by William J. Mohr, Chief of the Santa Monica Fire Department.

The presentation ceremonies were conducted at the Foothill Breakfast Club here, as a highlight of the morning's program, witnessed by more than 200 members of the club and guests.

Allan Bixby, newly-elected president of the club, presided, and Jimmy Burtiss acted as master of ceremonies. The Pasadena Fire Department Orchestra honored the chief with special music and Miss Jean Cowan, of KFWB, sang request numbers for the firemen.

In response to Chief Mohr's praise in presenting the badge, Chief Coop made a brief talk on the duties of a fireman and stressed his appreciation of the honor bestowed on him when elected to the presidency of the Pacific Coast association, which, he declared, is "the largest organization of its kind in the world."

Big Baby Lima Crop to Bring Tip-Top Price

OWENSMOUTH, Aug. 18.—Several early planted baby lima bean fields in San Fernando Valley were laid by this week, and growers will commence cutting within the next two or three days. They state there is every prospect for fine yields and good prices for this year's crop.

Leslie Hadley, manager of the Porter estate of 11,000 acres, which has a large planting of beans, says that recent hot weather has not been injurious. Bert Mann of the Art Hoefer ranch says that the bean fields in all parts of the valley are looking exceptionally well and that there is every indication of a large yield per acre.

Max Pfaffinger of the Van Nuys district reports he was visited by a buyer from Los Angeles who offered him 8 cents for black eyes, 10 cents for baby limas and 11 cents for limas. This offer was not accepted, but it is taken as indicating a high trend of the bean market for the coming autumn.

According to surveys made by growers it is stated that there are about 11,500 acres planted to baby lima beans in the valley this season.

JUNIOR COLLEGE PROPOSED

Santa Ana Invites Neighboring School Authorities to Conference on Proposed Union District

SANTA ANA, Aug. 18.—Representatives of various high school districts adjacent to Santa Ana as well as of the Anaheim High School District will confer at the high school cafeteria here September 17 on the proposal that the districts join Santa Ana in the formation of a union junior college district. This announcement was made here today, following a meeting of the Board of Education at which it was voted to invite the districts to the meeting.

Action of the Santa Ana board was taken at the request of a special committee which appeared from the Associated Chambers of Commerce. The committee included all of the Anaheim High School board and Principal J. A. Clayes of the Anaheim High School, beside representatives from virtually every other district in southern Orange county. W. C. Jerome headed the committee.

Expressing themselves in favor of one union junior college for the county and deploring the action taken by the Fullerton district, which virtually makes it impossible for one district to be formed, the delegates from Anaheim declared that they were open to an invitation from Santa Ana as soon as possible and expressed themselves as desirous of becoming a part of the biggest of the two junior college districts which now seem to be under consideration.

Members of the committee included Dr. J. W. Harpster, president of the Anaheim board of trustees; George Baker, E. E. Smith and Henry Ramm, Anaheim school trustees; L. W. Evans, Orange trustee; Joseph Vavra, Huntington Beach; H. A. Lake, Garden Grove; T. E. Stephenson and W. C. Jerome, Santa Ana.

At the session to be held here September 17 the high school boards of Garden Grove, Anaheim, Orange, San Juan Capistrano, Tustin and Huntington Beach will be invited, as will representatives of the Newport Beach, Balboa and Costa Mesa districts.

SIERRA MADRE CHIEF REMOVED

City Council Accepts Two Resignations

City Engineer, Street and Water Heads Out

Changes Preliminary Step to Reorganization

SIERRA MADRE, Aug. 18.—Followed by the acceptance of resignations submitted by O. A. Gierlich, city engineer, and James Carpenter, water and street superintendent, the City Council last night unanimously ordered the immediate removal of Chief of Police George Cox.

Carpenter's resignation, filed with City Clerk Dietz on May 27, last, came as an aftermath to the Isaacs and Belohlavek recall. The resignation was accepted last night to take effect on the 20th inst. Gierlich's resignation will also take effect at that time.

"The resignations were accepted as the preliminary step in a reorganization plan of city departments," Councilman Stewart stated today. "It is our intention to combine the engineering department with the street and water departments, and within the next two weeks, we will appoint an executive head to handle the three departments."

As a temporary appointment, the Council named Gordon McMillen as acting Chief of Police. McMillen has served as night patrolman with the city police department for six years. Chief Cox had served in his capacity for the past year.

Pioneer Santa Ana Man Dead

SANTA ANA, Aug. 18.—Pioneer residents of Santa Ana were saddened today when it became known that its first City Marshal, Charles H. Peters, 73 years of age, brother of George E. Peters, assistant cashier of the Santa Ana branch of the Bank of Italy, died early yesterday at his home at Palms.

Peters left here about forty-one years ago and for many years was employed by a Los Angeles trucking company. In this capacity he assisted in the construction of the cable car line in the Boyle Heights section. He had resided at Palms about twenty-eight years. He was for some years employed at the studios of the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer Picture Corporation. He suffered an attack of influenza last spring, from which he never fully recovered. He leaves a widow.

Private funeral services will be conducted at the Pierce Brothers' mortuary, Los Angeles, at 10 a.m. tomorrow. The funeral cortege should reach Santa Ana Cemetery at approximately 1 p.m. There interment will be made.

George Peters is now the only surviving member of a family of ten children.

Ventura to Ban Gaming Devices

VENTURA, Aug. 18.—All slot machines and punchboards must be out of this city by the 20th inst., or owners of the establishments in which they are allowed to operate will be arrested, it was announced today by Chief of Police Clarence Mattson. Arrests will be made under the State law prohibiting gaming devices. An ordinance designed to have a similar effect has been submitted to the City Council, but the board has delayed action on the matter, and the police department has decided to act under the powers delegated by the State law rather than to allow the devices to continue in operation.

A conference between City Attorney Walter Fourt, Sheriff Robert E. Clark and Chief Mattson was held yesterday concerning the Sheriff's announced intention to rid the county of asserted gaming devices. It was decided at that time that the police department would co-operate to the fullest extent with the Sheriff's office.

RABID DOG LASSOED

Woman Ropes Snapping Canine Which Soon Drops Dead

HUNTINGTON PARK, Aug. 18.—When Mrs. Edward Hall, who resides on Marconi street in this city, caught a small fox terrier by lassoing it yesterday she did not know that she had captured a dog suffering with rabies, but learned this fact later in the day after the canine's head had been severed from its body and taken to the county health officer.

The dog had been in the neighborhood during the morning snapping at children and dogs, and ran into the yard at the Hall home. Mrs. Hall lassoed the canine and tied it to a tree. Officer Henry Haddon took the canine to the County Humane Society. On its arrival there it dropped dead.

BEHYMER GIVES MUSIC TALK TO VALLEY CLUB

VAN NUYS, Aug. 18.—L. E. Behymer, Los Angeles impresario, in speaking before members of the San Fernando Valley Music Association today at the Woman's Club here, told of his forty years' experience in bringing drama and music organizations to the Pacific Coast. Mrs. Fred A. Kellogg, head of the valley organization, presided at the meeting. It is the aim of the organization each year to present high types of programs and Behymer's presence here was to lend his co-operation to local plans now being made. In the concerts given last year in the valley a number of nationally known artists were sponsored.

GADD PIPE OPPOSITION NOT HEARD

Plea Against Securities Company Project Fails to Get Enough Signers

SANTA MONICA, Aug. 18.—The threatened referendum against the pipe-line franchise granted to Peter Gadd's Center Securities Company failed to materialise today, the last legal date, when no petition was filed.

Lack of the required 4250 valid signatures was declared to have been responsible for the failure of the franchise opponents to act. The Public Affairs' Association, which conducted a vigorous campaign with petitions, was said to have obtained within 650 of the requisite number. However, checking usually throws out many names, it was said, and officials declared a total of 6000 would have been required to make the petitions safe.

Robert Brenke, head of the Public Affairs body, declared that lack of time and funds had hindered the Troop, No. 51. A full day and night He stated that without ample signatures his group did not desire to proceed further with the fight at the present time, nor put the city taxpayers to any unnecessary expense.

The Gadd franchise permits the contractor's company to lay a pipe line through Santa Monica to carry "slurry," or earth solution, from coastal hills and canyons north of the city, to be used for filling lowlands in Venice. Gadd asserts the pipe line will mean a big development in land reclamation, and that earth for filling can be carried through it at a cost far below trucking charges. He also asserted that through use of the pipe line an enormous amount of heavy trucking over city streets would be saved. He has paid $5000 for the franchise, and after five years will pay 2 per cent of the gross revenue into the city coffers. It was estimated this revenue would amount to about $5000 a year.

Authority on Fruit Fly to Start Cruise

Quayle, University of California entomologist and an authority on the Mediterranean fruit fly, left here tonight for Washington, where next week he will take charge of arrangements for a year's cruise to foreign countries for the purpose of gathering information about the citrus pest.

Dr. Quayle and a group of fellow-scientists appointed by Secretary Hyde of the Department of Agriculture, will sail the 28th inst. for the Azores and Mediterranean ports and citrus-growing communities, and the West African coast.

A permanent experiment station to be operated by the American government may be established abroad as a result of the voyage, Dr. Quayle said.

BANDIT SUSPECT GIVES SELF UP

Marcel Dellon Questioned on Money-Car Murders

Only One Other Asserted Accomplice at Large

Fugitive Avers Innocence of Agua Caliente Deed

SAN DIEGO, Aug. 18.—Marcel Dellon, long wanted as a suspect in connection with the Agua Caliente money car robbery and double murder of May 20, last, surrendered to Sheriff Ed Cooper shortly before noon today. He was arraigned in township court this afternoon.

Surrender of Dellon leaves only one suspect at large of the total number of seven originally accused. Marty Colson and Lee Cochran, principals, who admitted murder of the money car guards, Nemesio Monroy and Jose Perez Borrego, are in prison serving life terms.

Jerry Kearney, Mrs. Agnes Grace Kearney and Mrs. Lee Cochran, accused as accessories after the fact, are to be tried later this month, according to plans announced by the District Attorney.

The suspect still at large is Jean Lee, vivacious and red-headed, who disappeared simultaneously with Dellon. She was believed to have accompanied Dellon and both were accused by County Detective J. D. Cornell of having received the $5000 or so in cash obtained in the robbery. A clew to the whereabouts of Jean Lee is now being traced by the county detective.

Dellon's surrender was said to have been effected by his wife, who is reported to be in Los Angeles. Sheriff Cooper was approached by Mrs. Dellon last month with a proposition to bring about his surrender. The wife expressed her opinion that Dellon is innocent and wished him cleared by law, Cooper said. However, in one of the few statements vouchsafed by Dellon when questioned in the Sheriff's office, he denied emphatically that his wife brought about his surrender.

"I came in myself, voluntarily, to face the music," he declared. "I am innocent."

Asked if he was aware that officers had been looking for him since May 20 or soon after, he said "not at first." Then he became silent and refused to elaborate on this.

Bus Line to Tie Bay City With Valley

NORTH LOS ANGELES, Aug. 18.—Word has been received here from William Courtney, manager of the local Chamber of Commerce, who is now in San Francisco conferring with Southern Pacific officials, that by the first of the year a bus line will be established by that railroad from Santa Monica, to connect with its trains running through San Fernando Valley and stopping at the North Los Angeles depot.

The busses, it is stated, will run from Santa Monica to San Fernando, via Reseda Boulevard. It is understood that the purpose of the plan is to connect Santa Monica and its surrounding area with the main Southern Pacific lines that run through this part of the valley.

Time will be made, it is asserted by passengers leaving trains here and using the bus line instead of going into the Los Angeles depot.

MOTOR PATROLMAN SAYS HE'S NOT DEAD

UPLAND, Aug. 18.—L. E. Kronmyer, motor patrol officer for this district, today declared confidentially to his friends that he is not dead. Reports circulated through the community yesterday and today were to the effect that Kronmyer had been instantly killed in an automobile crash. Several hours were spent by police in checking the rumor, and when Kronmeyer appeared in person and made a personal denial of the story it was taken for granted that he is still alive.

OKLAHOMAN SUCCUMBS

SAN LUIS OBISPO, Aug. 18.—Mrs. Jennie Ronne, Tulsa, Okla., died at a hospital here today from heart trouble, following an attack last night. Mrs. Ronne was touring the State with her daughter, Mrs. Arnold Cochran, Los Angeles, her son-in-law and another daughter and son from Tulsa.

MILKMAIDS TO VIE AT COUNTY FAIR

All Set For Contest

With their milk bucket and suitable attire. Left to right: Helen Bart and Barbara Ainsa, two fair entrants in dairy competition at Pomona Fair.

POMONA, Aug. 18.—During the past twelve months the average consumption by man, woman and child in California was 27.7 gallons of fluid milk, it was announced today by Jay Dutter, southern representative of the California Dairy Council, in connection with his work as superintendent of the dairy department of the Eighth Annual Los Angeles County Fair to be held here September 17 to 22. In 1921 the per capita consumption was only 16.1 gallons. Dutter points to these figures as a reason for the fact that the dairy department at the fair has experienced one of the most rapid growths of all.

HEAT WAVE CAUSE OF VIOLENCE

Chino Motorist Runs Amuck in Pomona; Officer Halts Him by Shots

POMONA, Aug. 18.—Apparently temporarily deranged by the heat wave which descended upon this section yesterday, J. H. Bowler, 60 years of age, of 311 Twelfth street, Chino, caused a flurry of excitement in the business section, when he ran amuck while driving his automobile.

Motor Officer J. R. Browning, called to the scene at First and Thomas streets, attempted to halt the man, but was ignored. Browning was forced to shoot several times at the motorist before he was able to bring him to a stop. The gasoline tank, distributor and carburetor of the machine were pierced by bullets from the officer's gun before Bowler came to a halt at Fourth and Main streets, where he put up a terrific battle when Browning attempted to quiet him. Brought to the police station, he was later released to Chief of Police Harold Henry of Chino.

Bowler, who is well known in this section as an inventor of deep-well water pumps, was removed to the San Bernardino County Hospital this morning on a complaint signed by relatives, for observation.

MOUNTAIN ROAD ORDERED

State Contracts for First Section of Highway from Arroyo Seco Around to Azusa

PASADENA, Aug. 18.—The contract for immediate construction of the first segment of the new $3,733,889 State highway from the Arroyo Seco to Azusa via Pine Flats, has been won by H. W. Rohl Company of Los Angeles, it was announced today by Wallace Woodworth, former president of the local Chamber of Commerce. A telegram received by Woodworth this morning from B. B. Meek, State Director of Public Works, indicates the first unit of the highway will cost $344,532.

This first segment will be part of the twenty-five-mile highway that will extend from La Canada, northwest of this city, to a point behind Mt. Wilson, where it will connect eventually with the Azusa-to-Pine Flats road. The La Canada-to-Mt. Lowe road will cost about $1,680,556, while the twenty-eight-mile Azusa section will cost approximately $2,053,333.

It was stressed by Woodworth, who is chairman of the State Chamber of Commerce highway committee, that the new highway will not be part of the Arroyo Seco-Palmdale road, although the section the Rohl company will build from La Canada lies along part of the same route.

The Arroyo Seco-to-Azusa road will be routed along the Arroyo Seco to a point north of Big Bear Canyon, where it will turn east, skirt the north sides of Mt. Lowe and Mt. Wilson, and drop into Azusa through San Gabriel Canyon.

The new road, according to William Dunkerley, local Chamber of Commerce secretary, will enable motorists to drive into the heart of the mountains north of Pasadena, and along the lakes to be created by the proposed county flood-control dam and Pasadena's proposed Pine Canyon dam in San Gabriel Canyon. One of its practical uses will be in rushing men and supplies to areas cut off by forest fires.

A PARTMENT HELD TO BE "HOME"

Search Warrant Required as in Private Dwelling, Court Declares

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 15. (AP)—United States Commissioner Williams today ruled that an apartment-house is as much a private dwelling as a one-family home and cannot be entered by prohibition agents without a search warrant.

The ruling was in connection with the case of Mrs. Elizabeth C. Smith, which was dismissed on the ground that entry to her apartment had been illegal.

Bathing Suits as They Wear 'Em in Old England

Swimming suits of woven wool, jersey and Angora jersey may be particolored, the body of one shade and the skirt, or trunks, of another, a slim belt dividing the two; or they may be striped in various colors, with horizontal, vertical or zigzag stripes in so-called "modernist" designs," says the London Times. Some are worn with matching scarfs which are knotted upon one shoulder, or with little jackets or capes of the same material, bound or lined with some color introduced in the stripes, monogram or embroidery of the suit. One very smart English outfit consists of blazer and shorts of blue and white-striped flannel, pulled over a blue and white regulation swimming suit.

For women who take swimming seriously there is nothing better than the "Annette Kellerman" suits, which improve in practically every year, being now made with a double gusset and "real ease pleat" to combine complete freedom of movement with fit and comfort. A curved skirt is also supplied on some of these models, and all are made in flat or rib-stitched materials with rubber buttons and, of course, the new low neckline—far better than the old type of Kellerman suit, which incased body, legs and feet in stockinette and became horribly clumsy when wet.

The French bathing dresses are made to be decorative rather than practical. Any silks manufactured to withstand sea water (and some that are not) are used—particularly taffeta—usually black taffeta decorated with vivid motifs, rubber boutonnieres, or piped and banded with color. The tunic models are usually made with godets or circular fullness; some have irregular hemlines, while others are cut on princess lines. A very popular model has a simple jersey top which tucks in or fits over short trunks which can be straight, made with a hip yoke or full. Some of these suits have detachable skirts of crepe de chine or floppy beach trousers, which are discarded on entering the water.

Beach coats of printed crepe de chine, with scarf, parasol and a rubber-lined bag to hold wet garments, are supplied with bathing dresses made of one of the colors found in the printed design.

In Vienna capes, coats, jackets and beach rugs of chenille toweling are made with large geometric designs in gorgeous colorings, and beach accessories of woven raffia such as shore sandals, luncheon bags and even sun shades are seen, with a pattern of gay flowers—cornflowers, poppies or sunflowers cut out of felt and appliqued upon them.

The latest novelty is the sun bath suit, an airy, skimpy affair of light embroidered cotton or crepe de chine, made on the lines of a child's romper; sleeveless, of course, and cut very low at neck and shoulders, with a deep-dipping opening at the back to gain the much-desired sunburnt effect. Most of the bathing dresses are now cut on these lines to avoid the ugly variegated appearance when wearing evening dress. Nothing is uglier than a brown neck and arms and a white back.

Huge hats of rough Italian straw are supplied to protect the face while arms and shoulders undergo sunburn treatment.

Cinema Finishes Picture

Invented by a blind man, a camera which takes pictures and makes prints at practically the same time, has appeared in London. It has two lenses, one being the ordinary camera "eye," and the other admitting only ultraviolet rays. Films and paper are inserted together, and whenever the shutter is opened a secret "gas" is released from a small cylinder to develop, fix and print the exposures. When the spool is removed the photographs are unwound at the same time.

Mass Thefts in Moscow

Newspapers of Moscow, Russia, are professing dismay at the continuance of mass thefts by workers in state factories. Appeals to the honor of the workers have been made in vain, according to reports, and the Bolshevik heads seem unable to cope with the situation.

SEVERE NAVAL SLASHES LOOM

Dawes-MacDonald Parley Results Predicted

Cruiser Cut May Go Below Geneva 1927 Program

Possible Five-Power Meet Seen in Prospect

WASHINGTON, Aug. 15. (AP)—The suggestion was put forward in official circles here tonight that the naval limitation conversations now going on between Prime Minister MacDonald of Great Britain and American Ambassador Dawes may result in an even more severe reduction in the cruiser strength of the two countries than contemplated at the Geneva conference of 1927.

The purpose of the conference at the White House yesterday between President Hoover and the officials of the Navy and State departments, who are dealing with the questions, was to acquaint all of the interested officials with the situation to date.

FIVE-POWER PARLEY

While the State Department officials have been considering mainly the present Dawes-MacDonald negotiations, the naval experts have been studying all feasible points to prepare for a possible naval parley of the five interested powers, United States, England, France, Italy and Japan.

The Chief Executive is known to hold the view that careful preparation is essential before this country will enter a five-power conference. There have been reports current in Washington that such a parley is likely to be held in December probably in London. The President's conference also has given rise to the opinion he is hopeful for an agreement between Dawes and MacDonald on the major political aspects of the situation as far as America and England are concerned within a few weeks.

TAKE CRUISERS FIRST

Authoritative sources tonight expressed the belief the question of cruisers will be dealt with first in the discussions by the United States and England to the exclusion of other warship categories, such as destroyers and submarines. The feeling here is that a settlement of the cruiser problem is the paramount necessity in obtaining a basis in agreement between the two powers and that its settlement will leave an agreement on submarines and destroyers only as a matter of course.

So far the negotiations have been occupied principally with a settlement of the cruiser question and the fact that the naval general board today is taking up the question of submarines, is interpreted in some quarters as an indication that the cruiser problem is rapidly approaching settlement.

Two Interesting Irrigation Plans

R. C. Snelgrove completes an interesting account of two important irrigation schemes in the Bombay Deccan in Engineering for June 21. The first is on the River Pravara and the second on the River Nira, both of which rise in the Western Ghats. The scheme on the Pravara River included the erection of the Bhandardara Dam for impounding water in Lake Arthur Hill, while that on the River Nira included the erection of the New Bhatgar Dam for storing water in Lake Whiting. The rainfall on the Ghats reaches as much as 250 inches per annum, but it is confined to the four monsoon months.

The Bhatgar Dam, which took sixteen years to build, is by far the biggest masonry dam in the world, while the Bhandardara Dam is only exceeded in height by the Pacoima Arch Dam, California. The Bhandardara Dam is 1663 feet long, 278 feet high above the lowest foundation, and cost £560,000, while the storage capacity of Lake Arthur Hill is 10,086,000,000 cubic feet. The Bhatgar Dam, replacing an older dam of the same name, is 5333 feet long, 190 feet high, and contains 21,500,000 cubic feet of masonry, or nearly 3,500,000 cubic feet more than the Assuan Dam; it cost £1,170,000. Mr. Snelgrove compares the cost of these three great dams, and says that 100 cubic feet of masonry in the Bhandardara Dam cost £4 13s. 4d., in the Bhatgar Dam £5 10s., and in the Assuan Dam £12 17s. 4d. He also says that protecting the land by irrigation increases its value by 200 per cent, and that while charges for water have increased by less than 40 per cent, the value of crops has increased by about 85 per cent.—[Nature.

Stamp Mail Boxes Liked

Mail boxes in which letters are stamped as they are mailed are proving popular in Germany. They have been installed in Berlin and other large cities. The letter is pushed into an opening to rest on some scales, and if the right money is put into a slot, the missive is automatically stamped and dropped into the receptable below.

BABY GIRL BAIT IN DUAL KILLING

Mother Lured Into Trap by Hope of Seeing Child

Husband Kills Her and Then Takes Own Life

Tragedy Follows Quarrel and Separation

CHICAGO, Aug. 15. (AP)—A 3-year-old girl today was left an orphan by her father, Clarence Plener, who killed his 21-year-old wife and then took his own life.

Mrs. Flora Plener was found yesterday beneath the running board of her husband's automobile, which was in a ditch on a road near West Chicago. Her throat and abdomen slashed, she was barely able to whisper, "My husband stabbed me" before she died.

HUSBAND'S BODY NEAR

Today they found Plener's body in a clump of weeds near by. He had stabbed himself to death with the same knife he had used to kill his wife.

The baby daughter Dorothy is believed to have been the innocent bait that lured her mother to tragic death.

Plener, estranged from his wife, kidnaped the girl last Monday and took her to a boarding-house. Neighbors and relatives said he often threatened to kill the baby and his wife.

COUPLE QUARRELED

Fearing for the child's safety, the mother eagerly accepted when Plener appeared yesterday and offered to take her to the baby. Plener's brother, at whose home she was living, sensed impending tragedy and warned her not to go, but Mrs. Plener said she would risk anything to get to her baby. The baby was found safe early today at the boarding-house.

During the five years the Pleners were married, neighbors said, the young wife was abused constantly by Plener and often beaten while the child cowered in a corner.

Welfare Work on Fiji Island Saves Children

The scene is in one of the native villages surrounding Suva, Fiji. The whole populace has assembled on the lawn in front of the Town Hall. They are seated in rows—children in front, mothers with their babies on their backs next, and spectators in the rear. In front of the assemblage, at a table equipped with scales and other apparatus, stand a half-dozen women—one a white woman.

The white woman claps her hands. All stand at attention. A mother advances with her baby and gives it to the little group. The baby is examined and weighed.

"He has gained a pound. He is a fine youngster," announces the doctor, for the white woman is a doctor.

A loud cheer rises from the crowd, while the baby is returned to the mother, who walks proudly back to her place in the line.

The doctor claps her hands again and the scene is repeated. When the baby has not gained there is no cheering and the downcast mother listens to instructions for better care of the infant.

Dr. Regina Flood-Keyes Roberts, wife of Quincy Franklin Roberts, American Consul-General at Suva and a volunteer welfare worker for the British colonial government, describes the foregoing as part of her activities in looking after the health needs of twenty villages in the vicinity of Suva which constitute her territory.

Dr. Roberts was in San Francisco last week en route to her home in Buffalo, where she practiced medicine before making her home in the South Sea Islands.

Her welfare work, she said, is concentrated on the babies in an effort to reduce the appalling death rate among native infants. Such work was started a comparatively short time ago, and has already shown encouraging results. It began in Western Samoa in 1926 and in Fiji in 1927.

There have been hospitals and clinics in the islands since they became European colonies, but welfare work for the prevention of diseases and promotion of sanitary conditions is comparatively new.

Dr. Roberts visits her villages every two weeks, taking with her trained nurses from Australia or New Zealand. After the regular examinations a small group of Fijian women is selected from among the wives of chiefs, and they are taught to carry out orders during the absence of the doctor, and to look over the entire village once a week, inspecting houses, food, dishes, medicine, etc.

At Dr. Roberts's fortnightly meetings the village Turaga-ni-Kora, or Mayor, is always present. Often he is a well-educated man; sometimes a graduate of an English or American college. He talks to his people, explaining to them that certain sanitary measures are their "friends," that flies and other evils are their "enemies," and they understand. They take the advice seriously and will not eat their taro if a fly lights on it.

As a result of this work, not only in Dr. Roberts's section, but on other islands under other doctors, the death rate has dropped below the birth rate. Formerly it was the reverse.—[San Francisco Chronicle.

Timid Tiger Kills Self

Escaping from a circus at Nuremburg, Germany, recently, a tiger made his way to the street and strolled quietly behind a woman. Shouts of warning caused her to turn around, and she fainted. The tiger was so surprised that he jumped through a glass window of a saloon, causing a speed-record exit by the barmaid. The animal then ran out through the back of the building, and in trying to vault a high-spiked fence, injured itself so badly that it died.

French Women Take to Pipes

Pipes are becoming popular among women of France. Feminine artists are leading in the departure. Among them is Mme. Chantal Quenneville, the landscape artist, who enjoys her puffs while working in the open. While in London recently she made a tour of the pipe shops to add to her pipe collection.

ONE SHOT IN PRISON BREAK

Wounded Convict and Two Fellow-Prisoners Caught After Escape from Utah Institution

SALT LAKE CITY, Aug. 15. (Exclusive)—George Clawson, 25 years of age, is in the prison hospital and Joseph Tobin, 26, and V. A. Wilson, 23, are in solitary confinement at Utah State Prison after the three escaped over the north wall. Clawson was shot in the right leg as guards and others joined in the chase.

A rope was thrown over the top of the wall and fastened itself by a hook the men had made from a drill stolen from the prison shop.

Cheers of convicts interspersed the rattle of rifle fire when the desperate trio cast their hook-equipped rope over the gray wall and swung hand over hand toward freedom.

Bullets sang dangerously close to the three men as S. T. Smith, guard in the northeast wall tower, unlimbered his 30-30 rifle. One slug pierced the rope but it failed to give way and the convicts gained the top of the wall.

Deputy Warden Giles leaped into an automobile and emerged from the prison driveway just as the trio dashed among the houses between Fourteenth and Fifteenth streets. Guided by occasional glimpses of the fleeing figures, he finally got ahead of the fugitives and captured Wilson, whom he turned over to an unidentified peace officer from the southern part of the State who approached the prison just as the break occurred.

In the meantime George Brown and other guards, following Giles, cornered Tobin and Clawson in a garage, where they were attempting to hide.

Sands of Sind Reveal Ancient Cultured Tribe

Probably the last thing any archeologist ever imagined was that contempories of Abraham would be found in India, and yet H. George H. Frank, member of the Indian Historical Records Commission, writes in the Christian Science Monitor, the recent diggings in the sands of Sind have revealed the secrets of a wonderful civilization hitherto unknown and almost undreamed of, which undoubtedly dates back to the time when Ur of the Chaldees was flourishing.

In view of the latest romantic discoveries in the home of Abraham, the results of the researches at Mohen-jo-Daro, in the Indus Valley, a little less than 300 miles from Karachi, are of considerable value, especially as they probably give a more intimate picture of the life and civilization of the people who lived about 5000 years ago than any other archeological investigations ever made.

By good fortune the workers in India have happened upon the very houses in which these ancient people lived, and as a result of the great variety of relics unearthed from the three top layers of the six cities which have rested for more than two millenniums, one on top of the other in silent decay, it is possible to know the appearance of the people, the manner in which they lived, the food they ate, the clothes they wore, the games they played, the extent of their culture, the tools they used, the writing they had evolved, the ornaments they put in their houses, the jewelry they carried on their persons and the animals they domesticated and hunted. About the only thing we do not know is how they fought their enemies, for no implements of war have been found.

It is too early to ask, perhaps, whether Abraham ever visited this flourishing corner of Northern India and sailed down the mighty Indus, but it is certain that his people were contemporaneous with the Mohen-jo-Darians and that fairly intimate commercial relationships had been established. When the full story of the present discoveries is told, and when it is possible to make a closer side-by-side comparison between the antiquities of Ur and those of Sind, it is almost certain that a most romantic tale of early culture will be related.

Perhaps the most spectacular and most interesting of all the finds are the pictographic seals—little engraved tablets with animals and queer signs running all over them. Many of the symbols occur again and again in the thousands or more seals, thus suggesting that the art of writing, even in pictures, had been well systematized; although in the absence of any large stones or tablets containing lengthly inscriptions, it is doubtful whether these seals will ever give up any other secrets than the names of their owners.

The children appeared to have a good time, for, in addition to a delightful series of figurines and painted clay models which would equal any modern equipment of a toy Noah's ark, there have been found some very interesting mechanical toys, one being a horse which moved its head by the pulling of a string, and another being a fully equipped chariot with driver and gabled roof.

Various flint and bronze tools and implements have been unearthed with which many of the household untensils were made. The knowledge of saws, chisels, razors and knives reveals a high state of culture and more or less explains the liberal discoveries of the carvings, the polishings and the designs of the different ornaments. The to many a modern craftsman of the West, and if only the necklaces, beads, bangles and earrings could be put up for sale in these times, they would have as great value for the excellence of their workmanship and for being unique. In addition jewelry, for example, would do credit to graceful common pots, there was an amazing variety of ware decorated with designs in swastika, flowers and animals which would stir modern designers to a high pitch of admiration, for while many of the shapes re-echo old Elam and Mesopotamia, others recall fine old jars and bowls of Greece and Etruria.

There have been unearthed two large earthenware busts which depict respectively a man and a woman of this ancient race. The former is particularly life-like and in striking contradistinction to the other haphasard and crude models which have been found. From these busts it would seem that these people were of a Mongolian type, with high cheek bones. They have an old-fashioned type of ear, almost circular, with a hole in the center, and on the whole possess facial and cranial characteristics which are somewhat remarkable for a race of such antiquity.

There is not the slightest doubt that there are many features common between this newly found culture and that of Mesopotamia and Babylon, even as there is just as striking evidence that each was very different from the other. Then, again, there is the faience seal on which is a row of four standards carried aloft by men on the top of each of which is a figure for all the world like the famous Egyptian totem poles, and this feature suggests a connection with predynastic Egypt.

This Man Ran First American Railroad Engine

Put yourself in Allen's place, Horatio Allen's, says the Baltimore Sun. A hundred years ago, on August 8, 1829, he stepped into the Stourbridge Lion and pulled the throttle on the first steam locomotive ever to run in America. It took nerve. Neither he nor any of the crowd there to watch him had ever run a locomotive.

A lot of things might have happened. It might have exploded. But this was perhaps the least likely. It might have been improperly assembled by inexperienced American workmen, or he might have been burned with escaping steam. But more likely the rails might have given way, flimsy things as they were, for this locomotive bore twice the weight they were intended for. And there were sharp curves and a quarter-mile of trestle work over a canal.

But he passed the first sharp curve safely, crossed the canal, and was off for a three-mile run over nearly straight track through the forest. Clouds of smoke and steam followed in his wake through the forest trees. It was a great event for Horatio Allen. It was a great event for the Delaware and Hudson Company. It was a great event for America. The thing worked.

Years after, in 1884, Mr. Allen wrote the following account of his trip.

"When the time came, and the steam was of the right pressure, and all was ready, I took my position on the platform of the locomotive alone, and with my hand on the throttle-valve handle, said: 'If there is any danger in this ride, it is not necessary that the life and limbs of more than one be subjected to danger.'

"The locomotive, having no train behind it, answered at once to the movement of the handle. . . . Soon the straight line was run over, the curve was reached and passed before there was time to think as to its not being passed safely, and soon I was out of sight in the three-mile ride alone in the woods of Pennsylvania. I had never run a locomotive nor any other engine before; I have never run one since."

Most marvelous of all, of course, was that she came back. At the end of the line he reversed the engine and returned.

But in spite of this apparent success the whole thing must have been a dismal disappointment to Allen. On September 8, 1829, he wrote: "On Wednesday last we had the engine in motion again and its operation and effect upon the road carefully observed. The railroad as it now stands is not sufficiently stable for the operation of the locomotive. Before it is put to work on the road it ought to be carefully examined and strengthened; without doing so it would be unsafe to put the engine at work."

But it never was. It was removed from the track and stored beside it under a rough covering of boards for twenty years. It was then dissembled, the boiler put to use in the company's shops and other parts adapted to various services. The boiler and most of the pieces came into possession of the Smithsonion Institution in 1889 and it is now on exhibition, partly reassembled. The engine had cost a lot of money, $2914.90 delivered, and with only its weight against it, it deserved a more successful life.

Birds Find Unusual Homes

CENSUS CHECK PLAN OFFERED

State Statistician Evolves System of Estimates

In and Out Travel Ratio Basis Proposed

Official Tells of Defects in Usual Methods

SACRAMENTO, Aug. 15. (AP)—Estimating the population of cities is decidedly a hit-and-miss proposition and there is yet to be employed an accurate system, L. M. Ross, State registrar of vital statistics, declared today. He said that even the Federal census figures, which are generally accepted as accurate, are far from being so.

Ross has the theory that almost accurate estimates may be obtained by determining the ratio of persons who travel to and from a city in a given period and taking the difference as representative of the number of permanent residents.

HAS NO FUNDS

A check on such a basis would necessitate co-operation of railroad, bus and steamship companies and auto checking stations on the State's border, Ross says, adding that he has not found anyone willing to undertake the task and that the State is without funds to do so.

Neither the arithmetical or geometric system of determining population, employed by the United States government and other countries, is accurate because they do not take into consideration local influences such as real estate or industrial booms, depressions or other factors affecting migration and stability of humans, Ross said. He believes these are primarily responsible for the status of a community's population.

Ross explained that the Federal arithmetical system is to find the yearly rate of a city's increase during the ten years preceding the last, or at present 1920, census and add that number yearly to determine the probable change during the past ten years.

Ross has attempted to determine population by vital statistics, births and deaths, but finds the method inaccurate because it is checked against the Federal figures.

TOTAL TOO HIGH

The statistician believes that estimates made by chambers of commerce and other civic agencies are incorrect when based solely on public utility records of gas, electrical, telephone or water connections because the company records usually are multiplied by arbitrary estimates as to how many persons use each connection. Ross said that the resultant total is usually too high.

Ross would like to experiment with his theory. He said he would like to take a city like Modesto or Stockton, cities surrounded by rural areas, check the number of persons entering and leaving, take the difference as representing permanent residents and check the figure against public utility records. He believes he would gain a nearly accurate population estimate.

Tale of Lounger's Inheritance in Two Chapters

Clarence Lounger lit a nonchalant cigarette and crossed one prettily creased leg over the other.

"My aunt," he remarked to his closest friend, Texas Torner, "is what one might call wealthy. I've heard it said that in Consolidated Pies alone she has 3000 shares."

"Does she, that is, favor you to any great, er, that is—monetary extent?" asked Texas.

"Well, not so you could spend it," confessed Clarence, ruefully. "But I've been pretty nice and helpful to the old girl. And I flatter myself that she has taken quite a shine to me lately. I think I've gotten around her at last, although she thought at first that I was, er, a shiftless sort and all that, y'know.

"I became interested in her charity schemes and helped her quite a lot—hunting up the worthy poor and all that rot, y'know. Yes, I think the old girl is fond of me now, for only the other day she told me, with her hand in mine, that I would be very happy when I heard her will read."

Texas gave Clarence a congratulatory pat on the shoulder.

II

"Now, is he really?" asked Mrs. West Wind, interestingly. "Why, I never thought that nephew of yours would amount to much. Well, I'm very glad to hear it."

The old aunt beamed with pride.

"You know, Clarence surprised me with his kindly heart. I didn't think at first that he had it in him. He helps me with all my charities and even hunts out the deserving cases himself."

"Isn't that lovely!" cried out Mrs. West Wind.

"Yes, Clarence has a very generous spirit—very unselfish. It cuts him to the heart to see so much poverty in the world. I know he will be delighted when he finds out I have left all my money to homeless widows, orphans and cats."—[Detroit Free Press.

Says "Smellies" Will Come

"We have already the talkies, the tinties, the singies and the weepies, soon we shall have the smellies," said S. Rawson, a member of the British Board of Trade advisory committee, speaking to the cinematograph exhibitors' conference at Yarmouth, Eng., recently. "When the irate husband in the pictures scornfully asks his submissive wife whether she describes that as a fresh kipper the odor of a kipper will float into the proscenium," he declared.

Los Turcos Dejan los Baños de Aire Caliente y Piden Bañeras

ESTAMBUL (Turquía), Agosto 15. Las bañeras y la plomería al estilo yanqui están desterrando los baños turcos de Turquía. Los nuevos otomanos exigen ya bañeras occidentales en las nuevas casas de apartamientos, que en racimos se están levantando en las siete colinas de la vieja Estambul, y los antiguos baños públicos están, en tal virtud, perdiendo su parroquia.

De los 185 establecimientos de baños turcos que han hecho buenos negocios desde hace siglos, sólo 82 siguen abiertos. El más viejo y famoso de ellos, el de Mahmoud Pasha, que existe desde 1497, ha apagado sus grandes lumbradas, y cerrado sus viejas portales de arpo. Estos espaciosos baños revestidos de mármol, donde la alegre vida de Estambul bullía ardiente y festiva, fueron, en su mayoría, edificados por los constructores de las mezquitas.

DISC PROBLEM STILL UNSOLVED

Mt. Wilson Astronomer Tells of Difficulties

It May be Year Before 200-Inch Reflector Ready

"Biggest Eye in Universe" May be Collapsible

PASADENA, Aug. 15.—[Special.]—A solid glass disc that will not warp can be made for the proposed 200-inch reflecting telescope to be constructed under the auspices of the California Institute of Technology and Mt. Wilson Observatory, will not be determined for a year, according to Dr. John A. Anderson, Mt. Wilson astronomer in charge of the plans.

The success of the proposed solid glass reflector disc now being cast by the United States Bureau of Standards for the institute, Ohio Wesleyan University has solved the problem of making a telescope, Dr. Anderson said.

OTHERS NOT CONSIDERED

The Wesleyan telescope is a seventy-inch lens, less than one-third of the proposed "biggest eye in the universe," so does not involve the same problems of expansion and contraction.

"The disk for the 200-inch telescope, I said Dr. Anderson, "may be cast in my yard, or there may be a better form. There is a possibility that a cellular form of disk, with glass particles welded together, may be found a better plan for an instrument of such gigantic proportions.

"Experiments to determine the best type of reflector are now being carried on in four different laboratories of the United States. The disk for one of the United States Bureau of Standards and will be finished in less than a year to complete. The disk will not carry on such tests because of lack of equipment."

SITE UNCERTAIN

Dr. Anderson asserted the site for the 200-inch telescope has not been decided upon, but that tests of atmospheric conditions affecting "seeing" have been made on in California and Arizona.

In view of the fact that the disk will be developed in Pasadena, it will be erected on the California Institute of Technology campus, engineers are of the opinion. The new observatory will be located within a fifty-mile radius of the city.

BRITISH COTTON ROW NEARS END

Arbitration Terms in Wage Dispute Agreed On

Work at Former Pay May be Resumed Monday

MacDonald Takes Hand in Settling Strike

MANCHESTER (Eng.) Aug. 15. (AP)—Terms of arbitration of the dispute in the Lancashire cotton industry were agreed upon tonight at a conference begun early this afternoon between representatives of the employers and operatives with Sir Horace Wilson, permanent Secretary of the Ministry of Labor, in the role of conciliator. Full liberty of action was given individual mills to reopen for work Monday.

While the wage dispute which brought about the great stoppage two weeks ago last Monday still remains to be settled, it appeared tonight that work at the old standard of wages will be resumed Monday.

The dispute arose when the manufacturers declared a wage reduction of about 12 1-2 per cent was necessary for them to meet foreign competition, especially in Asia.

As the result of the personal intervention of Prime Minister MacDonald and the Labor Ministry the employers recently agreed on the principle of arbitration, to which they previously had been opposed.

It is expected that the majority of the mills will take advantage of the agreement to resume work Monday at the old wage scale pending the arbitration award.

PIOUS SCOTS RAP PREMIER

MacDonald's Sabbath Talk With Dawes Condemned Duke and Duchess Also Criticised

[Copyright, 1929, by the Chicago Tribune.]

LONDON, Aug. 15. (Exclusive)—The Duke and Duchess of York and Prime Minister MacDonald were admonished today by a meeting of the Assembly Commission of the Free Church of Scotland for breaking the Sabbath.

At Forfar last Sunday the Duke and Duchess presented ambulance medals, while a month ago Prime Minister MacDonald talked disarmament with Ambassador Dawes at Forres on Sunday.

Speaking right up at the meeting, Rev. William Fraser, Scottish minister, remarked that it is regrettable that the Duke of York and his lady would lend themselves to such a thing. He asked the assembly to send a resolution to the Duke, demanding that "such an insult to Scotland should not take place again."

Archibald Macneillage, another church worthy, said that MacDonald's talk with Gen. Dawes, as far as he knew, "had not advanced the interest of world peace by one iota by taking place on the Sabbath."

The Free Church forms a small dissenting body which refused to join the United Presbyterian Church. It has some 100 churches, mostly in the highlands, where they make Sundays really blue. A very austere body, they sing psalms, but no hymns, and do not allow a worldly thing like an organ in their plainly furnished churches.

Ambassador Dawes incidentally divulged recently that he has received a protest from Iowa from a group of citizens who praised his work on disarmament, but regretted it was done on the Sabbath.

Chicken Theft Case Delayed

ARCADIA, Aug. 15.—Continuance of the case of Mrs. Dorothy Stewart, charged with chicken stealing, for two weeks, was granted this morning by Police Judge Horidck on request of the defendant's attorney, William E. Fox of Pasadena, who contended that two material witnesses would have to be located before he was ready to proceed with the trial.

Mrs. Elsie Burbank, said by the defendant to be a twin sister now living somewhere in Arizona, and a Mrs. Caples of San Diego, are the missing witnesses who are expected to identify the chickens, said to have been stolen by Mrs. Stewart.

The case will come up on the 29th inst., and Donald Stewart, arrested as an accomplice, will appear for trial at the same time. Young Stewart has repeatedly declared to police officers that the defendant is his mother while she contends that she is only his aunt.

M. J. Russel from the District Attorney's office will prosecute the case.

Knox Impeached by Mississippi

JACKSON (Miss.) Aug. 15. (AP)—Atty.-Gen. Knox was impeached by the House of Representatives today for asserted high crimes, misdemeanors, corruption and malfeasance in office by a vote of 97 to 40.

The article upon which the House voted impeachment involved $1610.60 in fees collected by the Attorney-General from the inheritance taxation paid on the estate of John Knox Dunn of McComb. The tax when paid was not delinquent and its collection was unlawful, the article set forth.

WOMAN IN BAY CITY LOSES $50,000 GEMS

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 15. (AP)—Jewels valued at $50,000, the property of Mrs. Langdon Harris, wealthy New York society woman, were the object of a police search here today following their reported disappearance last night between a beach cafe and a fashionable hotel.

Thrown overboard from a liner in July, 1927, at a point between New York and the Azores, a sealed bottle was recently picked up off Rochfort, France. It had been carried across the Atlantic by the Gulf Stream. The object of the experiment was to test the strength of the currents.

BEBAN WILL MEETS SNAG IN NEW YORK

Eastern Judge Scores Haste in Handling Plea for Probate Here

NEW YORK, Aug. 15. (AP)—Criticising the haste in which California courts handled a petition for probate, Surrogate O'Brien in a lengthy decision today denied the application of Mary Beban Smith for ancillary letters testimentary in the estate of George Beban, actor-manager, who died last October in Los Angeles.

The application had been opposed by the lawyer's trust company on the ground that the actor was not a resident of California and that a petition for probate of the estate granted in Los Angeles to Mrs. Smith had not been obtained in good faith.

Mrs. Smith, a cousin of the actor, is executrix and trustee of his estate and guardian of his only child, George Beban, Jr., in her Los Angeles petition for probate, she declared Beban was a resident of California when he died.

A petition for probate of the will in New York county was entertained. Under its terms Mrs. Smith received a bequest of $25,000 and $6000 yearly annuity on condition that she maintain a home for George Beban, Jr., until he is 25 years of age and also maintain a home for the actor's father-in-law, William J. MacBride.

The son is to get one-fourth of the residue when he is 23 and the remainder when 30 years of age.

Inspection of Air Bases Ends

SAN DIEGO, Aug. 15.—Congressman W. Frank James of Michigan, who as chairman of the Military Affairs committee of the House of Representatives, is making inspection of army and army air activities at San Diego this week, spent two hours today in the Defender, the trimotored Ford plane in which he is making an aerial inspection of army posts. Report from Rockwell Field, where Congressman James is staying during his visit here with Major Albert L. Sneed, commanding officer, states that today's aerial inspection took in San Diego's coast defense units, inspections of Ream Field, the Otay mesa and Imperial Beach as well as observations of San Diego's back country.

During the flight Congressman James and his pilot, Captain Harry A. Dinger, watched several naval planes making landings on the aircraft carrier Langley. The Congressman arose early today, being up at 5 a.m. He plans to stay here until Saturday afternoon, when he departs for forts and army stations north of San Diego.

Four Leap From Flaming Roof

CHICO, Aug. 15. (AP)—Four workmen on the roof of the two-story Oakdale school were forced to jump into a fig tree to save their lives this afternoon, when they suddenly found themselves surrounded by flames which broke out in the upper portion of the building and destroyed the structure.

The school roof was undergoing repairs when the fire broke out. B. F. Steffen, one of the workmen, suffered a fractured foot when he dropped from the fig tree to the ground. The other three, who escaped uninjured are Fred Hignell, G. Boyd and Tom Stuart.

FASCIST GAINS HERE DERIDED

Asserted School Subsidies Branded Fanciful

Reports Furnished Italians Declared Erroneous

American Propaganda Claim Called "Unbelievable"

WASHINGTON, Aug. 15. (Exclusive)—Reports published in Rome last Saturday by Piero Parini, secretary of Fascist organizations and activities in foreign countries, showing tremendous progress of the Fascist propaganda campaign among Italians in the United States, were branded by Federal officials today as fanciful statements, probably intended for domestic consumption.

REPORT GIVEN ROME

Cabled dispatches from Rome quote Signor Parini, who works under the immediate direction of Premier Mussolini in the Italian Foreign Office, as asserting in his reports that 35,000 students are registered in schools maintained in the United States and Mexico by subsidies from the Italian government. The reports also declare that Signor Parini's department has established 351 colleges in the United States, to carry on the program to "foster patriotism and pride in Italy among Italian citizens" in this country.

Officials of both the Federal Immigration Bureau and the Bureau of Education asserted Signor Parini's figures were "so astonishing as to be unbelievable" and declared that a propaganda campaign on a scale involving the establishment of schools and colleges could not possibly be undertaken without attracting their attention. It is probable, they agreed, that in order to make an impressive report of progress, Parini may have counted as potential Fascist propaganda agencies schools maintained in Italian districts as well as classes in Italian art, literature and history in American universities and colleges.

NONE ON LISTS

"If there were any such schools in the United States as Signor Parini says, some of them would undoubtedly have applied before now, for the sake of prestige, for certification as schools for the education of immigrant students under the 1924 immigration law," declared Assistant Secretary of Labor W. W. Husband. "And so far as I know there is not what could be known as an Italian school among the 1291 accredited institutions on our list."

Mexican Slayer Suspect Beats Return Attempt

For the second time a United States court refused to return Telesforo Salcido to Mexico to stand trial for murder, when he appeared yesterday before United States Commissioner Head. The Mexican government sought the return of Salcido to Chihuahua to stand trial for the asserted murder of Benigno Bongorio, a Mexican customs officer at Juarez, on September 24, 1928. On account of defective papers, Salcido previously was released by a commissioner's court at El Paso.

Evidence was brought out yesterday by David G. Taylor, defense attorney, that Salcido is an American citizen, having been born in Texas, close to the border. The evidence was said to be slight that the defendant fought except in self-defense. The court ordered his release.

ALL MANNER OF BUGS FOUND ON BUGGY RIDES

SACRAMENTO, Aug. 15. (AP)—Many a "buggy" ride is being taken into California by the traveling public. And it's very queer what traveling companions some people pick, according to W. C. Jacobsen, chief of the Bureau of Pest Control, State Department of Agriculture.

It may be just a fad or it may be a habit, Jacobsen does not know which, but border quarantine stations stopped 1517 automobiles during the last twelve months and required the "buggy" riders to unload their bugs.

There were 2125 bugs forced to quit traveling in those 1517 automobiles, Jacobsen reported.

Some people, he insists, choose the funniest bugs to take on a long trip with them.

Three fellows took horse flies, but then, somebody said "you can't fool a horsefly," Jacobsen doesn't deny that but declares it's possible to make even a wise horse fly get out and walk.

Another fellow took along his pet mud-daubing wasp and five others carried just ordinary wasps. Two others took yellowjackets.

Three more hardy brethern carried a scorpion each while several aesthetes carried butterflies.

The most popular bug was the caterpillar, 202 of them being found in 111 different cars, which goes to prove something or other about fuzzy worms, Jacobsen thinks.

Just to prove there is nothing in a name, Jacobsen calls attention to the fact that the bug with the highest-sounding monicker is nothing but a low-brow. Only one tourist had him for a companion. It was a "melanophia acuminata atropurpurea"—otherwise called a flat-headed boring beetle, or "Ophilia" for short.

Only three motorists carried bugs that might prove of any value to them, Jacobsen said. These three carried lantern bugs that might have been utilized had it chanced they'd burn out their tail lights or something.

Caddice bugs were found in eight cars and Jacobsen wouldn't be surprised if there were some golf bugs doing the driving.

Pacific Indemnity Profits at Annual Rate of $21

Company's Statement for Six Months Shows Progress

Premium Income for Year Placed at $7,000,000

Pacific Indemnity Company during the first half of 1929 showed substantial improvement in every department over the comparative period of 1928, according to the semiannual financial report released yesterday following a directors' meeting, by M. R. Johnson, vice-president and general manager.

The company's report showed earnings before dividends at the annual rate of $21.36 per share, based on the figures for the first six months of 1929 and after giving effect to the stockholders' equity in increased unearned premium reserves. This was comparable to $15.13 per share per annum based on operations for the first six months of 1928, an increase of 41.2 per cent or three and one-half present dividend requirements.

Gross premiums written in the six months totaled $3,991,915, an increase of $580,768 over the corresponding period of 1928. Resulting in proportionately heavier net writings, the company retained a greater proportion of the gross premiums for its own account through a change in its reinsurance treaties. Net writings totaled $2,823,716, an increase of $625,889 over the 1928 period, or a net increase of 33 per cent.

The investment department reported total gross income of $260,-947. After deducting investment department expenses and setting up all necessary reserves for depreciation on the company's home office building the net income from investments was $212,906. Underwriting disbursements amounted to $2,807,167. Various reserve accounts were allocated $650,827, $90,000 was declared in dividends and $68,820 was credited to surplus account.

According to Mr. Johnson, the substantial increase in reserves was largely accounted for by the necessity of creating additional unearned premium reserves in keeping with the substantial increase in net writings.

During the first quarter the loss experience was slightly higher than the company's average, but this was offset during the second quarter, resulting in a satisfactory average for the half-year period, it was stated. Expenses were 3 per cent lower than for the similar 1928 period.

Premium income for the entire year is expected to exceed $7,000,000, based on the half-year showing. The company is now actively operating in California, Oregon, Washington, Utah and Arizona, while for convenience in handling certain California accounts operations have also been extended into other neighboring States.

The quarterly dividend of $1.50 a share for the third quarter of the current year was declared payable October 1 to stock of record September 20 on the 50,000 shares outstanding.

The stock of the Aero Corporation will be called for trading Monday, while the Richfield listing is effective immediately.

Authorized capital of the Aero Corporation consists of 500,000 shares of common and 50,000 shares of $50 par value preferred. The company, through its subsidiary, Standard Air Lines, operates an air line to El Paso from Los Angeles for the carriage of passengers and express; operates a taxi service, flying school, airports, and holds sales and service contracts for airplanes and motors.

Operations for the first seven months of the year resulted in a net loss of $35,203.60, although the month of July showed a profit of $7753.13, equal, after preferred dividends, to an annual rate of 21 cents on the common stock. Revenues for July of $9038.33 were 33 per cent over the month of June, and number of passengers carried increased 25 per cent.

Figures supplied by the company place considerable importance on the contracts for sales and service with airplane and airplane motor manufacturers. Aero Corporation now has the exclusive sales and service rights in its territory for Fokker trimotored and single-motored planes. Fokker planes in use in this territory, it is stated, represent an investment of $1,500,000, and are used by Western Air, Mid-Continent Air Express, Standard Air Lines, National Parks Airway and West Coast Air Transport.

Sales of parts and service on Pratt & Whitney motors are running about $30,000 a month, the company states. Users in this territory include Western Air Express, Scenic Airways, Inc., Pickwick Airways, Mid-Continent Air Express, West Coast Air Transport, Continental Air Express.

In 1928 Aero Corporation sold seventy Alexander Eaglerock planes, and a total of 150 is in use in this section.

OIL PROCESS HELPS STOCK

Hydrogenation Method for Gasoline Extraction Exploited by Standard of New Jersey Followers

BY EARLE E. CROWE

Catalytic hydrogenation is a term over which the stock market is beginning to puzzle. The people interested in the market for Standard Oil of New Jersey shares have trotted out this one as a reason for the rise of the stock to leadership in the oil group, claiming that this mysterious process will elevate the Jersey company to the undisputed commanding position in the oil industry.

Broad statements are made by friends of the company as to the powers of catalytic hydrogenation. By this process of producing and refining of oil products, it is said that it is possible to convert 100 per cent of fuel oil or low-gravity crude oils into gasoline. If this is true, and the cost is low enough, the New Jersey Standard company is in a position to introduce revolutionary changes in the refining business and harvest handsome profits through its control of the process.

ROYALTIES EXPECTED

In touting the stock of the company on the basis of the hydrogenation process, it is pointed out that substantial income should accrue through the licensing of other companies. A recent statement by the company indicated that the process will be made available to the industry after the operations from the 5000-barrel experimental plant at Bayonne, N. J., are known.

Not much is known about the process itself, except that the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey acquired it through a patent and development contract made with the I. G. Farbenindustrie A. G. in 1927. The process covers new methods developed by German chemists for the production and refining of petroleum products by catalytic hydrogenation. In the 1928 annual report, Walter C. Teagle, president, made this reference to the process:

"A considerable program of research and experimental work on this line was initiated by our technical staffs in 1927 and actively prosecuted throughout 1928. It seems clear that these new processes will find substantial use in the oil industry in future years, although no accurate estimate can yet be made. It may be said, however, that one important effect of the adoption of catalytic hydrogenation methods by the oil industry, even on a small scale, will be to produce a more definite overlapping of the field of the oil industry and the industries known as chemical."

DOUBTS EXPRESSED

Royal Dutch-Shell officials, it seems, are skeptical about the claims made for the Standard Oil process. Chairman Loudon was recently quoted from Amsterdam to the effect that he doubted whether the Standard Oil Company could produce 100,000 barrels of gasoline daily under the new process. He added that he would be considerably surprised if the cost price of manufacture did not greatly exceed the production price of the Royal Dutch's own processes.

Keen rivalry exists between the Royal Dutch-Shell and the Standard of New Jersey over petroleum patents and processes. The Jersey company was reported at one time to have stolen a march on the Royal Dutch in the matter of the Bergius process for the production of gasoline from bituminous coal. Both companies purchased a one-quarter interest each in the process, but the Standard Oil strategists effectually blocked the Royal Dutch later when they obtained an exclusive manufacturing and selling contract which restricts the Royal Dutch only to a share in the profits.

Manufacturing cost is the factor that will determine the success or failure of the hydrogenation or any other process for the manufacture of gasoline. The industry, however, is greatly interested in the claim of 100 per cent extraction from fuel oil and low-grade crude, since these oils constitute a large portion of storage at refineries and are a financial burden to the industry.

THOMPSON NET UP

CHICAGO, Aug. 15.—John R. Thompson Company reported today for six months ended June 30, net income of $675,828, equal to $2.42 a share on 278,984 common shares outstanding, compared with $667,-606, or $2.79 a share on 240,000 shares outstanding last year.

Reeser Sees Oil Industry Improvement

E. B. Reeser, president of the American Petroleum Institute and of the Barnsdall Corporation, who is in Los Angeles for a few days, yesterday issued a brief summary of conditions in the petroleum industry covering current developments and early prospects. Relative to the new California gas wastage law, he expressed the opinion that the law will curtail the State output by about 200,000 barrels daily, and will largely solve the national problem of surplus production.

His summary of conditions follows:

That the oil industry is making a steady and consistent improvement in every phase of its activities.

Gasoline is the cheapest commodity in universal use, priced lower now than the average of the past eleven years, and consumption is increasing at a faster rate than in any other single product.

The well integrated units in the petroleum industry are, without exception, showing satisfactory, and in many cases exceptional, earnings.

Gasoline and other petroleum products consumption in the United States has outstripped even the greatly increased production. Consumption is now increasing two-to-one over the production increase.

The petroleum industry is not a trust; the smaller and independent companies set the prices.

Overproduction, the major problem of the industry, will be solved within a year. California holds the key to this, as the volume shipped by California to the Atlantic seaboard almost exactly corresponds to volume of nation's overproduction.

Bearish propaganda on oil securities is put out by traders short in oil stocks.

There is greater co-operation now than ever before between large and small units of the industry.

For the first time in the history of the industry there is real assurance that the natural resources of this country will be preserved.

Normal increase in consumption is 10 to 11 per cent, but the increase in 1929 has been almost 16 per cent higher than for 1928.

NATIONAL BANK TOTALS OFF

Resources Drop $1,500,000 in Three Months' Time, Comptroller Reports; Speech Recalled

WASHINGTON, Aug. 15. (AP)—Resources of national banks in the United States, Alaska, and Hawaii dropped more than $1,500,000 between March and June.

This was announced today by J. W. Pole, Comptroller of the Currency, who said total resources of the 7336 banks on June 29, last, when the last national bank call was issued, were $227,440,238,000. Compared with March 27, the date of the previous call, when there were 7515 banks, this represented a decrease of $1,861,684,000 and was $1,068,011,000 below the total for June 30, 1928, when there were 7691 banks.

While Treasury officials declined to comment today on the decrease in resources, it was recalled that Comptroller Pole in a speech last May before the Maryland Bankers' Association advocated a change in the national banking laws which would give State banks and trust companies "an opportunity to gain a wider field of banking operations under the national charter."

LOANS SHOW DROP

In the report today Pole said that the national banks' loans and discounts, including rediscounts, on June 29 were $14,801,130,000, a decrease of $48,796,000 since March 27 and a decrease of $116,120,000 since a year ago.

Holdings of United States government securities totaled $2,803,860,000, a decline of $292,900,000 since the previous call and $27,207,000 for the year, he added. Deposit liabilities which totaled on June 29, $21,-506,068,000, showed a decrease of $1,274,792,000 since the March call, while compared to a year ago there was a reduction of $1,041,249,000.

The report of the comptroller showed an important gain in the trust activities of the national banks compared to a year ago. On June 29, Pole said, 2443 national banks reported they held permits to exercise trust powers and of this number 734 were engaged in the fiduciary business, administering a total of 75,988 trusts. The individual trust assets of these banks totaled $4,237,648,662, recording an increase of $940,382,000, or 28.52 per cent over the March 27, 1929, report.

ALARM EXPRESSED

In his speech before the Maryland bankers Pole pointed out that "within recent months the trend toward trust-company charters by national banks has been alarmingly accentuated, and great bank consolidations of national banks and trust companies are taking place in which the national charters are being given up." He added that in the first half of this year seventy-nine national banks with aggregate resources of $2,750,000,000 had passed over under State jurisdiction.

Pole said it was within the power of Congress to "turn the advantage in favor of the national banks and thereby make it to the interest of all banks to operate under the national charter." He declared "the time appears opportune to re-examine the basic structure of our entire banking system and to formulate a new banking policy to meet present-day conditions."

RESERVE ACTION BULLISH

Detroit Banker Asserts Rediscount Rate Rise Good for America But Hard on Europe

BY JOHN F. SINCLAIR

[Written exclusively for "The Times" and the North American Newspaper Alliance]

NEW YORK, Aug. 15. (Exclusive)—I was talking with a leading Detroit banker this week about the Federal Reserve policy and its effect on future business.

"Nothing in the last year has done more to discriminate against Europe and make one bullish on America than the action of the Federal Reserve Bank of New York in increasing the rediscount rate on its paper from 5 per cent to 6 per cent, said this bank leader.

"Yes, the bank rates in Europe—that is, in the central banks—are considerably lower than they are in the United States. Some people draw the conclusion that this kind of a condition is bad on American business. High rates are not good for a country trying to get on its feet. But the United States can stand high rates far better than can any other nation. When a nation like the United States increases its rediscount rate to 6 per cent the idle money of all other nations flows in the direction of the highest rate. That money is international. In the narrow sense it is not patriotic—it goes where it can get the highest rate consistent with safety. So, European money by the millions will gradually seek investment in the United States, where it can receive much more for its rent than it can receive at home.

"That's why I am bearish on European securities and very bullish on Americans. I believe that America will be the center of attraction for money for another twenty-five years.

"But let me say in passing that the high rediscount rate will have a rather bad effect on Europe. We may want to feel that European affairs are really no business of ours, but in the long run that's a weak narrow policy. Europe should be considered when any rate is to be revised. For as New York goes today, so goes the world. We do have an international as well as a national business policy to reckon with.

"Too often in recent years it has been ignored."

Detroit employers of labor no longer give out employment figures. Formerly it was customary to show tabulated statistics from this great manufacturing city each month. As the automobile business developed into that of the major industry of the nation, these figures were watched very carefully by the business world as a sort of barometer on future business conditions. But they are no more.

The reason given is that when it was announced that the number of laborers had increased a few thousand during the month the city found itself flooded with more labor during the next few weeks than it could possibly handle. Ford's high wages had become known nationally and other Detroit corporations had followed suit.

This change in policy marks a new epoch in industrial thinking. In the old days employers of labor thought it desirable to have a few hundred or a few thousand idle workers at their gates. It acted as a healthy antidote against unreasonable demands of labor, thought the manufacturer. The old policy of having more labor than needed held wages down to the minimum. This, too, was considered an ideal condition.

Now, employers of labor have completely changed front. They believe in giving work to as many men as possible, and in paying the highest wages consistent with good business. High wages in time means more purchasing power for the masses and more general prosperity.

No stock in the Company owned by any of the executives or associates of E. H. Rollins & Sons is included in this offering, but on the contrary their stockholdings have recently been increased through additional purchases. None of the money raised from this financing will be used for the purchase from E. H. Rollins & Sons of any securities now owned by them.

American Equities Company was incorporated in July, 1929, under the laws of the State of Delaware, for the purpose, among others, of acquiring all of the voting common stock of a substantial and rapidly growing public utility holding corporation; and generally to control, manage and operate enterprises; to buy, sell, hold and exchange securities of any kind; to participate in syndicates, underwritings and other financial transactions; and to exercise such other of its charter powers as its board of directors may from time to time determine. Its principal operations will be the acquisition of majority or substantial minority holdings in the common stocks of public utility and other corporations with a view to aiding in and benefiting by the growth and development of such companies. It will maintain a technical personnel for its own use and for the use of such companies, in which it has or may have substantial holdings, as desire to avail themselves of its services.

The formation of American Equities Company is the result of the successful operations of a corporation of substantially the same name which was incorporated in December, 1925, all of whose voting common stock has at all times been held by executives and associates of E. H. Rollins & Sons, and the assets of this older company are in the process of being acquired by American Equities Company.

The earlier company during the period of its existence from time to time owned substantial interests in the capital stocks of a number of public utility holding companies. Certain of these capital stocks were sold at substantial profits which, together with profits derived from the sale of other securities forming a small portion of the holdings of the earlier company, enabled the earlier company in the years from 1925 to 1929 to distribute to its Class B common stockholders the equivalent of 175% of their investment.

Upon the acquisition of the securities in the portfolio of the earlier company, American Equities Company will own all of the outstanding voting common stock of a substantial and rapidly growing public utility holding company, and substantial holdings in the common stock and other securities of similar concerns. In these situations the holdings of American Equities Company will be sufficiently large to entitle it to participate in the formulation of their policies and in the direction of their business. Through these stockholdings American Equities Company will have interests and contacts not only in the United States but also in Europe, South America, the Philippine Islands and the West Indies. In addition the Company is acquiring participations in the promotion or development of certain hydroelectric power projects in France, Spain and Italy and certain other substantial but less important stock interests in utility, industrial and other corporations.

Upon the completion of this financing American Equities Company will have total assets (including those acquired from the earlier company) in excess of $36,500,000, of which over $27,000,000 will be in cash.

The management of the Company will be closely associated with that of E. H. Rollins & Sons, and in addition thereto the Company will have an experienced personnel who, over a period of years, have demonstrated their ability. Their experience—and that of Howe, Snow & Co., Incorporated, merged in May, 1929—in governmental, municipal, industrial and public utility financing, both domestic and foreign, for a period of over 53 years, and the facilities of E. H. Rollins & Sons International Corporation, will be available to the Company and should prove of benefit to it. E. H. Rollins & Sons will receive no management or other fees for their activities in connection with the operations of the Company, but may, in the event they render unusual services, charge and receive fees from the Company, but in respect of these fees and in any other transactions between the Company and E. H. Rollins & Sons, the latter will accept full responsibility for the fairness of such transactions.

The Company may issue and sell in the future bonds, debentures, preferred and common stocks and warrants and other securities as from time to time determined by its board of directors and with such vote of stockholders, if any, as may be required by the laws of the State of Delaware. Stockholders will have no preemptive rights to subscribe for additional stock or securities convertible into stock.

A majority of the board of directors will, in the first instance, consist of executives of E. H. Rollins & Sons. It is proposed to add additional directors to the board from time to time.

NEW YORK BOND PRICES

NEW YORK, Aug. 15. (F)—The bond market was steady today in the dullest full-day session in three weeks. Inquiry for domestic investment bonds, particularly rails, was almost at a standstill, and traders paid much less attention than usual to the convertibles. Some speculative issues in the various groups showed a little activity, but price changes throughout the list ruled small.

The sluggishness of the market was illustrated by the light trading in American Telephone convertible 4½s. These debentures, which usually turn over to the extent of at least $2,000,000, sold under the million dollar mark today and other share privilege bonds were equally dull. Fluctuations kept within narrow limits and the only instances of consequence at the close were net gains of 3 and 3 points, respectively, in General Asphalt 4s and Reading Coal and Iron 6s.

The rails, neglected after several days of moderate activity, managed to hold firm. Nominal advances appeared in Central of Georgia 5s, Denver and Rio Grande Western 5s, New York Central debenture 6s and St. Louis and San Francisco 4½s.

Weakness of the foreign sugars closed out prominently. Cuba Cane debenture 6s and convertible 7s went to new lows, while Manati Sugar 7½s also found a new bottom on a loss of 3½.

Industrials and utilities shared in the general stagnation and fractional sales and fours were about evenly distributed. Otis Steel 6s, profiting by the demand in some time, strengthened slightly.

Rails were firm. Prices were mostly and inactive. Kingdom of Belgium 7s, Canadian 5s, 1965, and French Republic 5½s, registered, were buying, but British United Kingdom 4s sounded the new low of 90.

Small blocks of Liberty bonds changed hands at irregularly higher levels. Treasury certificates were firm. Contrary to expectations, the Federal Reserve Bank's portfolio of government securities showed a slight decrease this week.

The quotations represent sales of bonds (in thousands of dollars) and the high, low and closing prices in the order given. To expedite transmission, the close is omitted when the same as the low. Rails both low and close when same as high.

PUBLIC NATIONAL BANK AND TRUST COMPANY OF NEW YORK

Sisto Financial Corporation has been formed under the laws of New York to buy, sell, trade in or hold stocks and securities of any kind, to originate and to participate in and act as manager of syndicates and underwritings, and to exercise such other charter powers as its Board of Directors may from time to time determine.

It is expected that the Corporation will commence business with $5,000,000 in cash, upon the sale of 100,000 shares of its capital stock, and as J. A. Sisto & Co. will pay all of the expenses in connection with the organization and the issue and distribution of this stock, the above sum will be net to the Corporation. Of the 100,000 shares being issued, 20,000 shares are being purchased by J. A. Sisto & Co. at $50 per share.

A majority of the Board of Directors will be composed of the partners of J. A. Sisto & Co.

Under the terms of the management contract which the Corporation has entered into with J. A. Sisto & Co., that firm will receive no compensation whatsoever, except standard commissions on brokerage transactions, unless the Corporation earns at least 8% and pays dividends annually of 8% on its stated issued capital (based on $50. per share) as of the beginning of each year. In any year, however, in which the realized net profits and dividends equal or exceed this 8%, the firm will be entitled to receive as compensation equal to 20% of the total net profits, but only to the extent that the payment thereof will not reduce the net profits or dividends paid below 8%. For the year 1929 the firm will become entitled to compensation when the Corporation shall have earned and paid dividends at the rate of 8% per annum on its capital for the portion of the year during which the management contract shall have been in effect. The requirement for the annual earning of net profits and payment of dividends of 8% shall be cumulative, so that if in any year the Corporation shall fail to have net earnings or pay dividends of that amount, the deficiency must be made good in subsequent years before the firm will be entitled to compensation.

The certificate of incorporation and/or the management contract contain provisions to the following effect, among others:

1. All stock now issued or authorized is of the same class, and all shares have identical rights as to voting, dividends and otherwise.
2. All stockholders shall, as a matter of right, be entitled to subscribe to any additional stock of the Corporation authorized for sale.

J. A. Sisto & Co. may deal freely with the Corporation, but in any transaction between them, J. A. Sisto & Co. will accept responsibility for the fairness of all transactions.

There are no options on any issued or unissued stock. The Corporation has no other agreement or commitment except the management contract referred to herein.

The above is subject to the complete statements contained in the certificate of incorporation and the management contract, copies of which may be obtained from the undersigned upon request.

ALLIED KID COMPANY

$6.50 Cumulative Convertible Preferred Stock

(No par value)

This $6.50 Cumulative Convertible Preferred Stock has preference over the Class A and Common Stocks as to assets and dividends; is entitled to cumulative dividends at the rate of $6.50 per share per annum, payable quarterly on the first days of August, November, February and May; and is redeemable in whole or in part at $110 per share on any dividend date upon 30 days' written notice.

This $6.50 Cumulative Convertible Preferred Stock is convertible into Class A Stock of the Company, at the option of the holder, on terms given in detail below.

Transfer Agents: The Peabody Trust Company of Boston

Registrar: The First National Bank of Boston

The accompanying letter of Mr. S. Agoos, President of the Company, has been summarized by him in part as follows:

HISTORY AND BUSINESS: The Allied Kid Company, incorporated under the Laws of Massachusetts, is a consolidation of the businesses and properties of The McNeely Company, Quaker City Morocco Company, The Standard Kid Co. and Standard Kid Manufacturing Company of Delaware, well-known and successful kid manufacturers and distributors.

Existing plants of modern construction located in Philadelphia, Pa., Camden, N. J., and Wilmington, Del., are conveniently located for the discharge of raw stocks from foreign ports and for the direct shipment of finished products to factors and agents throughout the world.

Plant and real estate were taken at the depreciated values at which they were carried on the books of the constituent companies and no account has been taken in the financial statement of the good will and advertising value of the trade names.

The Company, the largest producer of kid in the world, manufactures a complete line of stock in black, brown, and colored kid; also suedes, prints, and linings of kid for men's and women's shoes. These products are sold from branches and agencies throughout the world under well-known trade names—McNEELY SUPERTAND, QUAKER CITY, STANDARD, and VODE.

Style and serviceability demand the light weight and fashionable shades so well produced from kid skins and the result has been a 34% increase since 1924 in the use of goat and kid in men's and women's footwear.

The consolidation will result in savings due to the joint buying of raw stock, the unification and simplification of manufacture and selling, and particularly the allotment of goat skins to the factory best equipped for the tannage of the particular weight and size.

CAPITALIZATION: The capitalization of the Company is as follows:

(all stocks of no par values)	Authorized	Outstanding
$6.50 Cumulative Convertible Preferred Stock (this issue)	25,000 shs.	25,000 shs.
*Class A Stock	300,000	none
Common Stock	200,000	200,000

*200,000 shares reserved for conversion of Common Stock, share for share.

The Class A Stock which is non-voting is entitled to receive non-cumulative dividends at the rate of 75 cents per share in any calendar year before any dividends are declared on the Common Stock in such year. After a dividend of 75 cents per share has been paid on the Common stock in any year, then the Class A Stock and Common Stock are entitled to equal additional dividends at the same rate per share. Both Class A and Common Stock are entitled to share equally and ratably share for share in the net assets of the Company upon any liquidation and dissolution.

CONVERSION PRIVILEGE: Preferred Stock shall be taken at $100 per share in exchange for Class A Stock on the basis of

$25 per share prior to January 1, 1931	$35 per share prior to January 1, 1933
$30 per share prior to January 1, 1932	$40 per share at any time after January 1, 1933

Provision is made for the protection of the conversion privilege in the event of the issue of additional shares of Class A Stock or Common Stock distributed as a stock dividend.

If the $6.50 Cumulative Convertible Preferred Stock is called for redemption the conversion privilege may be exercised as above at any time up to and including the date set for redemption.

SALES AND EARNINGS: The combined net income of the constituent companies for the four fiscal years 1925-1928 inclusive, after eliminating a non-recurring loss of $71,220 in subsidiary investments, and after eliminating interest to the extent of $34,000 on indebtedness retired by part of the proceeds of this financing, and after depreciation and taxes at present rates, as certified by Messrs. Ernst & Ernst, has averaged 3.72 times dividend requirements on this issue, and was 4.11 times such requirements in 1928.

Sales in June, the first full month since the formation of the new Company, showed an increase of almost 20% over the total sales of the constituent companies in June, 1928, and in July an increase of 49% over July, 1928.

During the first quarter of this year Preferred Dividend Requirements for the entire year were earned by the constituent companies.

ASSETS: The pro-forma consolidated balance sheet of the Company as of December 31, 1928, after giving effect to this financing, shows net tangible assets of $4,607,998, equivalent to over $184 per share of Preferred Stock. Current assets amount to $5,390,315 and current liabilities to $1,852,482. Net current assets are $3,537,833, equivalent to over $141 per share of Preferred Stock.

MANAGEMENT: The Company continues under the same experienced management of executives and tanners who have devoted their entire time to the kid business and have been responsible for the success of the constituent companies.

The Company has agreed to apply for the listing of this stock on the Boston Stock Exchange.

We offer the above stock when, as and if issued and received by us, and subject to the approval of all legal details by counsel.

When Beethoven Went to Jail

From the sublimities of the "Sonata in C Minor" to the ridiculous was but a step. Early one morning in 1820 Beethoven rose with his mind full of the sonatas, slipped into a ragged old coat and set out for a hatless walk. By evening he was famished and had lost his way. Still deep in thought, he was arrested as a vagabond.

"I am Beethoven," he declared.

"Sure, why not indeed?" mocked the policeman. "You're a tramp, that's what you are. Beethoven doesn't look like that." (This idealist among policemen resembled such painters as Neugass and such writers as Romain Rolland, who have insisted on attributing to the squat, ugly and highly human little master a Jovian front, a Roman legs and the character of a seraph.)

The captive was put in jail for the night, but made such a hullabaloo hour after hour that he forced them to get the police commissioner out of bed, who aroused the musical director of the Wiener Neustadt, who identified the turbulent jailbird as Beethoven.

Whereupon the man who had not only received the freedom of the city, but free lodging at the expense of the city, was sent home in state by the burgomaster in the magisterial coach.—[The Outlook.

Wears Nine Suits in Tropics

When it is hot in Singapore it's hot without any maybe, and when a Chinaman appears on the streets all bundled up in torrid weather there must be a reason. So thought the police when they investigated and found that the Chinaman was wearing nine suits of clothes while the thermometer continued to climb. Displaying the best Chinese brand of stoicism the man was arrested charged with "fraudulent possession of clothing."

MILLENNIUM IN REACHED IN OUR OWN DAY

A street car which apparently approaches millennial perfection has recently been put in service in Pittsburgh. The car is made of aluminum. The interior is Castilian ivory and sable black. The exterior is shellbrake and verdansia green. Seats are form fitting. Windows are continuous on all four sides, except for the thin separations absolutely necessary. A speed of forty-five miles an hour can be maintained with comfort to the passengers. Pretty good, eh?

But you've heard nothing yet! The windows are equipped with the same sort of "gadget" which is used to open the windows of automobiles. A few easy turns on a pretty aluminum crank and, behold, an open window! Perspiring brows, relief at last.

No more will Samaritans across the aisle need to come to the assistance of milady vainly seeking to undo the doodads which cement windows in our present cars to their sills. No longer will manly shoulders strain against inevitable defeat in search of the breeze without. A simple turn of a crank—oh, this is too much!

Let Pittsburgh keep its ivory, black and assorted greens. Let Pittsburgh have its aluminum. For us that window "gadget" alone is enough. Just a turn of a crank, as in an automobile—oh, commutation, where then would be thy sting?—[Milwaukee Journal.

Moonlight Outings Popular

Moonlight outings are the latest craze in London. Auto bus companies have taken up the idea, and are running excursions into the country. They start from Whitechapel at 9:30 o'clock each moonlight night and make a trip of forty miles, with a half an hour stop somewhere in the country. The outings have become so popular that people in the Thames Valley are complaining that their slumbers are disturbed by the merry makers.

Packaged Fish Now on Market, Mostly Frozen

Package fish has appeared on the market to vie with the dried, the smoked and the canned, says the New York Times. This is the latest phase of the story of the fish industry, which since its beginning has been one of effort to extend the range of consumption beyond the landing time and place.

A vast business has grown up in the last eight years, devoted to packaging fish, until now it is said to rank with the canning of shrimp, oyster, tuna and salmon. Last year this industry consumed 160,000,000 pounds of fish in the round, to produce 65,000,000 pounds in the package form, valued at $10,000,000. It consisted mainly of fillets of haddock, accounting for 87 per cent of the total.

The fish shipped thus is both fresh and frozen. The frozen, naturally, has greater possibilities for an extensive market. Upon it, in consequence, inventive genius has concentrated to produce a product that will vie with the fresh. Frozen fish in the past has had none too good a name, it having been the practice, in case of an oversupply on the market, to freeze fish which was not fresh.

The fish-packaging factory, on the other hand, is not interested in last-minute efforts to save a stock. It goes in for freezing for its own sake.

As soon as the fish are brought in from the sea the flesh is stripped off the bones and the fillets are placed on the aluminum plates of an automatic, continuously operating freezing machine. These plates have projections underneath dipping into calcium chloride brine at about 20 deg. below zero. The plates move on a conveyor through a room where the temperature is well below zero, and in about thirty-five or forty minutes the process is completed. Each machine freezes a carload a day.

WHERE MEGAPHONES ARE NOW OBSOLETE

"Holding the megaphone" has become an obsolete phrase, says the New York Post.

Back in the days when motion-picture directors wore puttees, riding breeches and frick or open-front shirts, some writer originated the expression, and it was a true one—then!

Megaphones and directors were inseparable. Most of the director's orders were given through one of the big, speaking-trumpets, and as likely as not his name was printed on it in large letters. It was his most conspicuous badge of office.

But no director "holds a megaphone" nowadays. The talkies have changed all that, and a megaphone is just as useful to a director as a plug hat or a mandolin. For the talkies, paradoxically, have reduced the director to silence. With both camera and microphone at work, it is his object to be neither seen nor heard.

These powerful and formerly very vocal gentlemen have, therefore, had to master a new technique, which has been quite as difficult for some of them as it has been for some stars of silent drama to learn to speak parts. Each of them has had to work out his own salvation.

William A. Seiter has just finished directing Colleen Moore in the First National-Vitaphone picture, "Smiling Irish Eyes. His method is to start a scene into action by snapping his fingers, and he has learned the deaf and dumb language so as to signal the players with both hands. They have had to learn it, too, in order to understand him.

Frank Lloyd, who has been directing Jack Mulhall in "Dark Streets," uses a tin "cricket" as a signal to "shoot." Then he sits in quiet repose until the scene is over, for better or worse. He is going to carry on this same system when he starts directing Richard Barthelmess in "Young Nowheres."

An exception to the general rule is John Francis Dillon, who is one of the very few directors who never used a megaphone, even in making silent pictures. But he has always had a very effective scowl, which is just as valuable as ever. He recently completed "Past Life," with Douglas Fairbanks, Jr., Loretta Young and Chester Morris, and is now directing Marilyn Miller in "Sally."

William Beaudine, in charge of "The Girl from Woolworth's," the Alice White picture which follows "Broadway Babies," wears headphones so that he can hear the dialogue through the microphone as it is spoken. He doesn't need "playbacks" to tell how the scene sounded.

Alexander Korda, directing Billie Dove in "Her Private Life," controls the doings and sayings on the set with his very expressive Hungarian eyes, giving each cue with a separate glance.

Directors, as is well known, are just as temperamental as stars; and Reginald Barker controlled the surgings of his emotional nature during the shooting of a scene for "The Great Divide," starring Dorothy Mackaill, by crushing a Panama hat in his nervous hands when things were not done to suit him.

But Mervyn LeRoy, director of "Little Johnny Jones," the George M. Cohan musical comedy which will be Eddie Buzzell's first film vehicle, has the most individual method of all. He became so used to carrying his megaphone in the old days that he can't do without it. So he still carries it—in eloquent silence.

Three Mountains in Wrangell Range Reported Rising Ready to Erupt

CORDOVA (Alaska) Aug. 15. (AP)—Arrivals here from the interior today reported three mountain peaks in the Wrangell range showing signs of volcanic activity. The display at Mt. Wrangell was said to be spectacular, but the eruption is not expected to be serious.

and is one of several tests drilled in that area, it is said.

The company's Doty No. 1, drilling ahead below 4700 feet, red shale. Stringers of oil sand have been encountered higher up, it is asserted. Its Linton-Bell No. 1 has been cemented at 3319 feet, and top of the Vaqueros formation will remain idle for a while.

Completes Two More

The Union Oil Company has completed its Farwell No. 12, at feet, for a flow of 2500 barrels 22.6 deg. gravity oil per day; Bell No. 44, for 4000 barrels 22 deg. gravity oil per day from a depth of 6880 feet, both from O'Connell sand at Santa Fe Springs.

Union's completions this week total four from the O'Connell sand, it having recently brought in Howard No. 12, for 2500 barrels, its Farwell No. 14 for approximately 3500 barrels of oil per day. Additional projects are said to be nearing completion in the Santa Fe sand before end of the current week.

Bring in One

The Dabney-Johnston Oil Company is reported to have completed for a flow of approximately 1500 barrels of 28 deg. gravity per day from a depth of 6980 feet, is washing and is reported to be nearing completion.

Into Carpinteria Area

The Honolulu Consolidated Oil Company is reported to have four acres in block, north of Rincon at Carpinteria, and is preparing to start operations at an early date, it is said.

The only operator in the field is the Continental Oil Company, which has been fighting for control in its Kitty Ballard No. 1, across the State highway from the Pinkerton No. 1, gusher with a standing suspended pending the outcome there.

The Exeter Oil Company has forty-five lots near Continental, but does not contemplate development work until there are more favorable indications, it is said.

Coring Ahead

The Milham Exploration Company's Kennedy No. 1 well at Tiseman Hills, is coring ahead at 7200 feet, and is more than 100 feet deeper than the depth when the Elliott No. 1 blew in entirely in October, 1928.

Showings in the Kennedy are said to be promising, according to reports. Structurally the area has been penetrated and the oil flow is considerable, it is said.

The Beal No. 1 is reaming and preparatory to setting nine-inch casing to about 6823 feet, and the Elliott No. 2 is drilling ahead below 6835 feet.

Kern Campaign Anticipated

Considerable activity is expected when the Santa Barbara Board of Supervisors ask for bids for the operation on the County Farm in the foothills just west of Santa Barbara, according to field reports.

The Standard Oil Company has leased a 142-acre tract just west of the County Hospital; and the Jennie Hale, twenty-five-acre tract, near by, including a dozen parcels totaling about 40 acres just west of the hospital. Operators will be filing soon.

Operators will be filing soon on St. Vincent's Orphanage property, approximately 100 acres, it is said. Standard Oil Company and other major companies are said to be negotiating for this property.

History Unfolded in Pomp and Splendor

SANTA BARBARA, Aug. 15. (Exclusive)—Two days were lived over in Santa Barbara today, as the old main street of the city, quaint and beautiful in its Spanish garbing, was the spectacle during the "Fiesta Days," when many thousands of people in Spanish dress of all the days of the annual fiesta. The spectacle was at its height in bright weather, and throngs of visitors were present from distant places. It is a fiesta that grows more attractive with each celebration.

The pageant today was unfolding a soul-stirring history of the city from its discovery by Juan Cabrillo down to the days of gilded horse cars and of motion as peasantry if the present was in the days and up to the minute of daily mushroom life. "HOW TO LIVE" TOLD BY COLE ON 103rd BIRTHDAY

Young Man Offers Congratulations

Galusha Cole, left, being congratulated on the occasion of his 103rd birthday by C. R. Hodges, 73 years of age, of Alhambra.

Galusha Cole, who celebrated his one hundred and third birthday over in Pasadena yesterday, gave out his recipe on how to live to be 100 or more years old.

Here it is:

Just live!

In short, Mr. Cole does not believe there is any recipe or program of living that will bring one to a life of 100 years or more.

"Why," he hesitated and looked around for a moment as he sought an answer to such a silly question, "there isn't any rule to follow if you want to live to be 100. You just live. If you are to live to be 100 you will live to be 100; and that's all there is to it."

NO DAILY DOZEN

"You never went through any daily dozen or followed an eighteen-day diet, did you?"

He let out a snort of ridicule at such nonsensical stunts.

"Land sakes, no!" he exclaimed.

The outstanding feature about Mr. Cole is the fine state of preservation that the world finds him in at 103 years of age—physically and mentally. The visitor upon meeting him would never guess that he is 103 years of age. In the first place, his features do not tell the story of 103 years of life. He is really living, not just existing. He is up every day after a regular night's sleep of about eight hours. He has a breakfast of cereal, fruit once in a while, coffee, perhaps a doughnut, pancakes occasionally and if there happens to be meat, then a bit of it.

The heavy meal of the day is at noon, when he has meat and potatoes, vegetable, bread and butter, and dessert. Light lunch in the evening.

READS PAPER DAILY

He reads the papers daily and takes a very active interest in the affairs of his community and the news at large. He is keenly alive to what is going on. His eyesight is very good, though he wears glasses. He sits in his rocking chair and reads.

Once in a while Mr. Cole takes a short walk. He is not walking in the past year as much as he used to. It will be recalled that on his ninety-fifth birthday he walked up to the top of Mt. Wilson.

"It was a crazy thing to do," said Miss Irene Wilbur, who has kept house for Mr. Cole ever since his wife, Susan, died eight years ago. Mr. Cole laughed at that comment, although somewhat sheepishly.

"Do you credit your long life to any particular program of living, that you followed?" he was asked yesterday.

"Not a bit of it," he came right back. "I have just lived, that's all. I have lived a perfectly normal life. I guess I was meant to live a long life and that's all there is to it. I never have taken over a few spoonfuls of medicine in my whole life. I never was really ill."

WORKED ON FARM

"It's just like this," broke in Miss Wilbur, "when the Lord is ready to take him He will take him."

"Certainly!" agreed Mr. Cole, "that's it."

"Do you smoke?" he was asked.

No, he has not smoked since he was married, many, many years ago. His wife bet him he could not quit and he just showed her he could.

Mr. Cole has done various types of work in his day, from hard work on the farm to teaching singing lessons. He went out in the back yard yesterday and took a few swings at the corn patch with his hoe just to mark the day in more ways than one.

He has seen a number of old friends pass on. One, Jonathan Foulk, in particular. Mr. Cole took Jonathan a birthday cake when he was 100 years of age and also on his one hundred and tenth birthday, just a few years ago.

Oil Transport Companies Give Playground Board Assurances Concerning Beaches

Co-operation by the oil transport companies was assured yesterday to the Playground and Recreation Commission in answer to letters sent out more than a week ago, asking the companies to direct the masters of their tankers to discharge oily water ballast at more than the prescribed three miles from the beaches.

Supt. Hjelte informed the board that the Richfield Oil Company and the Pan-American Oil Company stated they will direct masters of their craft to get rid of the water ballast fifty or more miles from the harbor. The Union Oil Company stated that regular ballast tanks instead of oil tanks are used for ballast in that company's vessels.

Favorable replies are expected from companies with eastern headquarters.

W. A. Robertson Picked for Post

Mayor Porter yesterday submitted to the City Council the nomination of W. A. Robertson as a member of the Board of Social Service Commissioners to replace M. C. Bettinger, whose term expired. The nomination was referred to the Public Welfare Committee.

The nominee lives at 317 Lucerne Boulevard. He is a retired dry-goods merchant, has been a resident of the city for twenty years and is said to have interested himself in welfare work.

THURSDAY JONAH DAY FOR BAIL BONDSMEN IN COURT

Yesterday was a bad day for representatives of bail-bonding companies in two divisions of Municipal Court.

Following inquiry into his status by Presiding Judge Turney of Municipal Court, R. E. Wilson, representative of a bonding company, was fined $100 with the alternative of two days in jail for contempt of court.

Earlier in the day August Nardoni, bail-bond operator, drew the judicial attention of Municipal Judge Bogue when he came into court with a partially finished cigar. Should he make future appearance in court under similar circumstances, he faces the possibility of jail, Judge Bogue informed him. Addressing the court, Nardoni denied any intent to breach the rules of the court.

Wilson is asserted to have on the previous day appeared in Judge Turney's court in behalf of the bonding company and caused the court to gain the impression that he was an attorney. Appearing in court again yesterday with an attorney for the company Wilson was given the penalty. He denied he intended to represent himself as an attorney.

New York Men Inspect Plant of Columbia Company

Coast Manager Denies Plan to Make Purchase

Rumored Building Site Deal Steel Persists

Two vice-presidents of the United States Steel Corporation of New York, I. L. Hughes and John Hulst, are in Los Angeles and yesterday inspected the Torrance plant of the Columbia Steel Company which was reported earlier in the month to have given the larger corporation a ninety-day option on its plants.

The two vice-presidents were accompanied by A. T. De Forrest of San Francisco, who has charge of the corporation's western activities. Mr. De Forrest yesterday denied rumors current that the official visit here is for the purpose of selecting a site for the erection of a plant.

"Mr. Hughes and Mr. Hulst are in Los Angeles to look over our property here. This is their first visit to the Coast and I am just showing them about a bit," De Forrest declared. "As to the purchase of the Columbia plant I know nothing of it. Such matters are decided in New York. Nor do I know anything of the building of a factory here."

Recent purchase by the Columbia Steel Company of thirty-four acres of land adjoining its Torrance plant gave rise to the report the company planned the erection of tube mills on the property. The plant at present consists of a three-unit rolling mill, sheet mill and foundry. Products include angles, channels, reinforcing bars, sheet and blue annealed steel and castings.

The visit to Los Angeles of the corporation officials was intimated by J. D. Grant, San Francisco, president of the Columbia company, recently when he verified the report that United States Steel had been given a ninety-day option on the Columbia properties and that officials of the larger concern would inspect the Torrance property.

The Columbia Steel Company operates four plants in the West, the others being at Provo, Utah, Pittsburg, Cal., and Portland.

SKYSCRAPER HOTEL SKETCHED

Forty Stories to Tower Over Wilshire

Architect's Drawing of $5,000,000 Structure That Will Adorn Boulevard

THE first photograph of the sketch of the proposed $5,000,000 forty-story hotel for the Wilshire district released yesterday by Kenneth MacDonald, Jr., the architect, reveals a striking similarity of the structure to the design of the new City Hall.

Like the municipal structure, the proposed hotel, to be erected in the vicinity of Wilshire Boulevard and Ogden Drive, the first few stories extend over a large area and are topped by a central tower, which, however, will rise considerably higher than the City Hall tower.

Charles E. Cooper and A. W. Ross, local real estate brokers and developers, have the option on the site for the proposed hotel, and the financing program is understood to be well under way. The location is outside the city limits and the builders will not be handicapped by the limit-height ordinance.

On completion of the structure the builders and developers plan to acquire sufficient contiguous acreage on which to lay out a golf course and gardens for the hostelry.

PARRISH TO ASK CLOSING OF CITY JAIL

Health Commission to Get Report Showing Menace Through Poor Ventilation

Dr. George Parrish, city health officer, yesterday stated that today he will recommend to the Health Commission that the Central Police Station Jail be closed as a menace to the health of the prisoners and the city because of its poor ventilation and foul air.

He described conditions at the jail as very bad and also that offices in the building, used by the police, have no outside light or air, while some of them are connected directly with the cell blocks, getting foul air.

A new State law which became effective Tuesday provides for a regular physician being on duty at all times in all jails containing more than 250 prisoners and Dr. Parrish stated that he also will recommend that the Health Board ask the City Council to provide for such service.

For the two city jails, he said, seven physicians will be required, providing each is on duty eight hours, with one for relief.

Wagy Estate Bond Million

A bond of $1,000,000 was required of Miss Lelia Wagy, 267 South Arden Boulevard, daughter of the late A. C. Wagy, broker, when Superior Judge Dunne considered naming the daughter administratrix yesterday. The only other heirs mentioned are the widow, Anna M. Wagy, and another daughter, Elisabeth A. Wolcott.

The estate consists largely of stocks and bonds. Wagy was one of the organizers of the Los Angeles Stock Exchange and was in the brokerage business here for many years. He died at Hermosa Beach July 24, last.

PHONE CHARGES CUT CONTESTED

State Railway Board Hears Schedules on Rates

Engineer and Werner Vary on Extent of Slash

Company's Counsel Combats Reduction Programs

What is a fair earning rate for a telephone company servicing Los Angeles.

At yesterday's investigation by the State Railroad Commission into Los Angeles telephone rates there developed a wide diversity of opinion.

Lester S. Ready, consulting engineer for the commission, declared on the witness stand that 7½ per cent is an adequate rate for the Southern California Telephone Company to earn.

City Attorney Werner told the commission that 6½ per cent will be sufficient.

Oscar Lawler, attorney for the telephone company, declared that the company cannot operate successfully for less than an 8 per cent return.

BOARD TO CONSIDER

There was only one point of agreement, and that developed at the afternoon session when Dion Holm representing the City Attorney's office of San Francisco, interposed and asked permission to file briefs with the commission to prove San Francisco's contention that the rate of 6½ per cent, as proposed by City Attorney Werner, is an adequate rate of return. The commission took all recommendations under advisement.

The hearing, launched in June on the commission's own motion to investigate the rates and practices of various public utilities companies operating in California, was resumed yesterday when the commission's engineer submitted a report recommending that the Southern California Telephone Company's rates be reduced $2,200,000 a year. At a former hearing he testified that the company is earning better than 9 pe rcent, and that 7½ per cent will be a fair rate of return.

Ready's schedule, submitted yesterday, will result in annual savings in the various classes of service as follows: Residence service, $860,000; hotels, $160,000; commercial private branch exchanges, $430,000; one-party business, $680,000; reduction in service at present outside of primary rate area through extension of this area, $180,000; reduction of charges for service connections, moves and changes, $70,000.

Under Ready's proposed reduction, a one-party service now costing $4.75 a month will cost $4.25; two-party service costing $3.50 will cost $3.25, and four-party service now costing $2.75 will cost $2.50. These rates were based on wall set service. Existing rates for desk sets are 25 cents higher and will be that much higher under the proposed schedule. Extension rates, now $1 per phone, will be 50 cents.

WERNER ASKS CUT

In addition, Ready proposed a reduction in the cost of service connection charges on P.B.X. stations from $3.50 to $1.50 and on residence primary stations from $3.50 to $3. Reductions in the rates for P.B.X. service and for hotel service were also proposed by the commission's engineer.

City Attorney Werner urged the commission to order a reduction in annual earnings of the telephone company $1,208,610 greater than that recommended by the commission's engineer. Werner told the commission that the city seeks a total reduction of $3,550,610, based on a contemplated rate of return of 6½ per cent.

Humane Board Decides to Ask His Resignation; Charges Threatened on Failure to Quit

By a vote of three women against one man, the Humane Commission yesterday passed a resolution in secret conclave to ask for the resignation of Rodman Robeson, general manager of the Humane Department for the last four years. The secretary was directed to forward a communication to him stating that unless he resigns formal charges will be preferred against him. The job pays $300 monthly.

Considerable secrecy surrounded the action of the board and it was not until the minutes of the meeting had been transcribed that the result could be obtained. The nature of the charges threatened against Robeson in the event of his failure to quit was not revealed but it is understood they may have some connection with the handling of his work. At present he is on

It's Still Warm and Will be So for Day or Two

More of yesterday's weather is promised for today by the United States Weather Bureau.

Predicted thunder showers which have struck Southern California mountain areas during the last forty-eight hours may be expected to repeat, the weather men said.

The thermometer climbed to 85 deg. shortly after noon from its low mark at dawn, 69 deg. The accompanying humidity still continued relatively high with 45 per cent saturation.

Today and tomorrow will be fair and warm, the observers predicted, and humidity readings are expected to remain about the same.

EXTENSION PETITION FILED

Property owners yesterday filed a petition with the City Council asking for an allocation of $15,000 toward the proposed extension of Doheny Drive, southerly from Pico Boulevard. This was referred to the Street Opening and Widening Committee.

WORLD GOSSIP DRIFTS IN OVER SHORT WAVES

Casual conversations about the weather in London, Eng., carried on with a friend in Sydney, Australia—Russian propaganda from Moscow calling on the workers of the world to rise—a naval officer in the Philippines asking for a leave of absence from Washington, these take the place of the usual radio selections of what happened to "Barnacle Bill, the Sailor," and kindred subjects, on the radio of Donald Wright, 1123 South Meyler street, San Pedro.

Wright has a short-wave-length radio and the entire world is his lemon. He gets radio on 28.5 waves and what he gets is easy on the eardrums.

"No static on the short wave," he said last night. "I have been listening to a man in London give his dying mother good-by in Sydney, Australia. I get German opera from Nauen and listen in on Java and the Fiji Islands. I have confirmations from all over the world. I have been greatly interested in the talk between two experimenters in London and Sydney. I get it as plainly as one does an ordinary telephone conversation. The ordinary radio can't stop these waves; the frequency is too high. The set is not electric, either, as the high frequency, connected with a current, makes a loud humming noise. It is the most mysterious thing I ever heard."

The Lancer

by Harry Carr

AN ITALIAN scientist says the earth is leaning over on the starboard side, the waters of the seas are rushing toward the North Pole. Hence the overdose of earthquakes.

I don't see how he knows; but it has happened before and might again. The Cheyenne Indians hav a tribal legend—superstition or whatever you wish to call it—that this is due to happen. Their medicine men tell them that another Ice Age is due to creep over the world.

When the ice comes—according to their belief—the white folks will perish, and only the Indians will survive. It is to that end that the Great Spirit has provided hardships for the Indians and the butter side of the bread for the whites—in order that the Indians may be hardened for the ordeal.

TOO MANY FOULS

No one except the contestants will ever know exactly what happened in the darktown prize fight at the Olympic Auditorium Tuesday night. But the fact seems to stand out that we have plenty of other mysteries without needing this one. As neither of these fighters seems to have a very clear idea as to where the belt is located, the State Boxing Commission could safely retire both of them—permanently.

WHY OLYMPIC?

For some reason it is proposed to turn Tenth street into a boulevard—and to name it "Olympic Boulevard."

The Olympic Games in Los Angeles will be a good show; but we don't have to build a monument to them. Especially as we have to neglect our own traditions to do so.

WHO CARES?

In New England the memories of Plymouth Rock are preserved far beyond its historic merit. Throughout Europe the history and legends of every town are treasured like precious jewels. Our City Fathers—most of whom have just gotten off the train—sweep all our historic associations (which, by the way, have a high money value) into the ash heap.

NAMING OUR BOULEVARDS

Los Angeles is a part of the life story of some of the greatest names in history. Our Plymouth Rock was trodden by some of the greatest explorers and pathfinders in the history of the world. We have ignored them all. But—sing hoch and hosannas—in our great boulevards we have made immortal the names of two real estate subdividers.

IGNORING OUR HEROES

Look around Los Angeles and see what you can find to the memories of these great early-day pioneers who left their names ringing down through history, but who have not as yet been discovered by the City Council:

Juan Rodrigues Cabrillo, who discovered California.

Sebastian Viscaino, who named nearly everything in California not named for a Los Angeles real estate subdivider.

Junipero Serra, the padre who rescued California from barbarism.

Gaspar de Portola, who first visited the present site of Los Angeles and explored California.

Felipe de Neve, who founded Los Angeles under the banners of the church and the Spanish crown.

Tenant in Pantages Building Supports Pringle Girl's Story of Attack

TWO TELL HOW SHE SCREAMED

Theater Magnate Declared to Have Been on Floor

Asserted Victim Again Near Collapse at Inquiry

Demands Made by Defense for Physical Examination

Two State witnesses late yesterday and last night gave graphic descriptions from the witness stand in Municipal Judge Wilson's court of what they said they saw and heard last Friday afternoon just as 17-year-old Eunice Pringle ran screaming from the private office of Alexander Pantages, millionaire theater owner, who the girl asserts criminally attacked her.

The witnesses were William L. Gordon, a tenant in the Pantages Theater Building, where the asserted attack took place, and Fred Taylor Wise, 1137 West Eleventh street, who, accompanied by his wife, was passing the theater building at the time the girl began screaming.

NIGHT SESSION HELD

Wise's testimony was taken at a special session of court held until 10 o'clock last night in an effort by Judge Wilson to hasten the hearing, which now promises to run at least two days more.

Both of the witnesses' testimony agreed in the following particulars:

(1.) That when they appeared almost at the same time before the door of the office where the girl declares the attack occurred that they saw her hands protruding from the partially opened door, and that she evidently was trying to force her way out. Gordon declared that he observed that Pantages, on his knees on the floor, was holding her by one limb.

(2.) Both declared that Pantages's clothes were in disarray and that he was helped in rearranging the silky a man who rushed to his assistance and who slammed the door in the faces of the onlookers.

HELPED GIRL OUT

Wise declared that a few minutes later he helped the Pringle girl to Pantages's other offices on the second floor and that when she saw the theater man again she pointed to him and said:

"There is the beast."

At this Pantages rose up and declared that it was "just a deliberate case of blackmail," Wise asserted.

Wise's testimony was somewhat dimmed upon cross-examination by the admission that he was a sufferer from nervous trouble and at one time had been under observation in the psycopathic ward of the General Hospital, but had been discharged as sane.

TESTIMONY UNBROKEN

Efforts to break Gordon's testimony, however, were futile.

He was the second State's witness and took the stand shortly after 2:30 p.m., when the defense attorneys had finished a searching cross-examination of the Pringle girl, during which she again was required to recite all of the details of the asserted attack on her by Pantages and during which she again was near collapse, forcing a recess of court.

The second State's witness had been on the stand only a few moments before his testimony grew colorful. He testified that he is the proprietor of a dress shop occupying space on the third floor of the Pantages Theater Building. Late last Friday, he declared, his attention suddenly was arrested by the continued screaming of a woman.

SCENE DESCRIBED

He hurried down to the second floor and, following the woman's voice, finally came to the room on the mezzanine floor where the girl asserts the attack took place.

The door of this room was a few inches ajar, Gordon testified, and a woman's hand was protruding. Gordon pushed on the door and a girl later identified as Eunice Pringle, hatless and screaming, fled past him and down the steps toward the street.

"What did you see then?" asked Chief Deputy District Attorney Stewart, handling the direct examination of the witness.

"Pantages was on his hands and knees on the floor of the room," testified Gordon, "and his clothes were in disarray."

As he stood there, the witness declared, a man rushed by him into the room and helped Pantages to his feet and aided him in rearranging his clothing.

DOOR SLAMMED

At the same time, Gordon continued, a woman appeared from somewhere and tried to dislodge him from the position where he could view the interior of the room. Gordon did not budge, and the man assisting Pantages, reached over and slammed the door.

On further questioning by Stewart, Gordon declared that when he first arrived at the entrance of the room the Pringle girl was screaming:

"Help, help, save me!"

And Pantages cried, Gordon asserted:

"Keep quiet and close the door!"

After arranging his clothes, it further was testified, Pantages ran out of the room and up toward the second floor, followed by the man and woman. The witness was unable to state positively whether he would be able to identify the man and woman again if he saw them, declaring that in the excitement he paid little attention to detail.

Gordon's cross-examination was acrid, Defense Attorneys Ford and Gilbert striving their best to break down the testimony. The witness, however, stuck to his story in every detail. At the request of the defense attorneys, he even got down on his hands and knees in the courtroom and demonstrated the position in which he said he had seen Pantages.

GIRL NEAR COLLAPSE

Before the Pringle girl left the witness stand she was subjected to the most searching cross-examination and was forced to go back step by step over each asserted detail of the attack.

She described black and blue marks that were on her body and other marks that she said were made by Pantages's teeth on her arms and shoulders.

"Oh, it was awful!" she cried at one point in her testimony.

As the more sordid details were drawn from her lips under cross-examination, she burst into tears and slumped back in the witness chair, her hands to her face. Recess was called until she recovered.

Following her testimony, the defense demanded the right to appoint Dr. Maurice Kahn to accompany prosecution physicians in making a physical examination of the girl.

The prosecutors resisted this move, declaring that she already has been examined by reputable and competent doctors, and that Mr. and Mrs. Lewis A. Pringle, her father and mother, object to further ordeals for their daughter.

RULING DUE TODAY

Judge Wilson, however, declared himself as convinced that the defendant's physician should be afforded the right to the physical examination, but reserved ruling until today to give the prosecutors time to present authorities in objection to the move.

Pantages and his attorneys again yesterday refused to accede to requests that spectators be allowed in the courtroom. The District Attorney's office was ready to enter into a stipulation that exemption be made in the case of newspaper men, but the defense lawyers, after a conference with their client, again declined.

Despite the seeming hopelessness of the situation, a crowd hung about the entrance of the courtroom all during the day and at 5 p.m., the hallways were jammed.

The first move of the prosecution yesterday was to describe Dep. Dist.-Atty. David Coleman, former newspaper man, in the case.

MANY QUESTIONS

The morning was spent entirely in cross-examination of Miss Pringle, who was subjected to questioning by Attorney Gilbert of the defense. A model of the Pantages Building, showing doors, corridors and the little room where the asserted attack took place, was placed on a table and admitted by the court as an exhibit.

The interrogation shifted suddenly from time to time. For a while questions covered her actions prior to entering the theater and then turned to the length of time that she was in the company of Mr. Pantages. Particular attention was paid to the furnishings of the room where the asserted attack occurred. Miss Pringle said that she was unable to describe the furnishings of the room with accuracy as she is near-sighted.

Later details of the asserted attack again were the subject of the questions. Attorney Gilbert quizzed Miss Pringle as to distances between chairs and again the time element was the subject of investigation.

Dist.-Atty. Fitts was called to testify in another case and the morning session was adjourned with Miss Pringle still on the stand. At 1 o'clock when the afternoon session opened she was subjected to further cross-examination.

BRUISES DESCRIBED

Taking up the inquiry Attorney Gilbert asked detailed questions of the asserted attack. Over and over again Miss Pringle was asked to give an account of her actions while in the little room on the mezzanine floor of the theater building. Attorney Gilbert drove question after question with relentless persistence at her. At times it was necessary for the court to instruct her to speak louder.

She described bruises on her body which she asserted were inflicted by Pantages.

The clothing worn by Miss Pringle on the day of the asserted attack then was taken into the courtroom. The clothing was in charge of the city chemist, and was purported to be in the condition that it was when removed from Miss Pringle.

GOING WITH BOYS

Then the attack shifted again. Miss Pringle was quizzed as to her visits with friends. It soon was turned to her dancing act. She denied that she did acrobatic dancing and said that her dances were largely Spanish in character.

Questions then followed as to when she started keeping company with boys, to which she said that it was at the end of the senior year in high school or about a year and a half ago.

She stated that she first went out professionally, with Nick Dunave about May 1 and that it was in connection with her dancing act only.

A conference between the attorneys then followed and Mr. Welch, city chemist, was notified that he will be asked to testify some time today. The clothing was turned over to him.

Then followed questions on Miss Pringle's work at the University of Southern California.

EXAMINATION ASKED

Attorney Ford here asked for a physical examination of Miss Pringle, the examination to be conducted by two or more reputable physicians. He stated that he understood that she already had been subjected to several examinations, one at the hands of the police surgeon, another at the hands of Dr. Beatty, the Juvenile Court physician, and that the District Attorney also has had an examination made. The name of Dr. Maurice Kahn was suggested by Attorney Ford as one to co-operate with two reliable physicians or more whom the District Attorney might see fit to name. He asked for a court order for the examination.

The State objected to the examination. Asst. Dist.-Atty. Stewart declared, that after a conversation with the girl's father and mother, he was authorized to state that they objected to the physical examination of this young girl at this time, it appearing on the records that she is under 18 years of age.

"If this defendant is held to answer on this charge and an application is made in Superior Court to make such an ordeal before trial or at time of trial, it then remains with the Superior Court to make such an order," he said.

On request of this court, Dist.-Atty. Stewart stated that Dr. Jack Sunderland and Dr. Pierce were the examining physicians for the State. Attorney Stewart made vigorous objection to the issuing of an order for examination.

REASONS OFFERED

"Her father objects at this time to putting this young girl through this ordeal," Attorney Stewart said. "Her mother also objects. There is a right of privacy. We are willing in case the defendant is bound over to have the court, the Superior Court, make an order."

"I realize, gentlemen," said Judge Wilson," that it is humiliating and that, of course, the father and mother would not want to consent to it, but, at the same time, here is a defendant charged with a crime, the facts of which are difficult for him to meet. I think it is proper to permit this, gentlemen."

Objection again was voiced by the State.

Judge Wilson held the matter off until today, and following argument indicated that unless he is convinced the order for physical examination will be issued.

The cross-examination of Miss Pringle then came to an end.

ANOTHER WITNESS

W. L. Gordon then was called for the State. He stated that he lives at 729 St. Andrews Place and that he is engaged in the ladies dress business at 411 West Seventh street in the Pantages Theater Building. His place of business, he told the court, is located on the third floor, and is right next to the stairway, and facing toward Hill street.

He told of hearing a woman scream on the afternoon of the 9th inst., at approximately 5 o'clock. He said that he ran down on the second floor and still heard continued screaming.

He stated that he then ran down a broad flight of stairs to the mezzanine floor.

When asked what he saw there he stated that he saw a woman's hand protruding from the door and heard screaming coming from inside the door but the door was not sufficiently open for him to tell who was inside.

"A woman was screaming and I pushed open the door," he said.

He said that when he pushed the door open a girl ran out and that the defendant, Alexander Pantages, was in the room. When asked to describe Mr. Pantages's position he said that he was on the floor on his hands and knees and that his clothing was disarranged.

SCREAMS DESCRIBED

He said that a man rushed past him and helped Mr. Pantages to his feet and commenced to arrange his clothing and he then slammed the door. He said that this man, who came in and whom he could not describe very well because of his own excitement, helped Mr. Pantages on with his suspenders.

He declared that Miss Pringle was screaming, "Help, help, save me, he is ruining me."

He said that Mr. Pantages was crying out, "Keep quiet, close the door."

He spoke of a girl who was behind him who tried to keep him from opening the door and of the man, whom he was unable to identify except that he was wearing a blue suit. He said that Mr. Pantages left the office first and went upstairs.

SHOWING CHARGED

He went into detail as to directions taken by certain persons, describing flights of stairs and offices entered. Also he narrated his encounter with the second girl, who, he said, was trying to shove him.

He said that he saw the principals enter the Pantages office on the second floor, meaning the man who he thought was trying to shove him and others.

He said that Miss Pringle came back with a man who he afterward learned was Mr. Weiss and that she was crying and hysterical.

He declared that when he saw Miss Pringle again she was pointing at Mr. Pantages and saying, "There is the beast; do not let him get away." She was saying this in a loud, high voice, he declared. He told of the arrival of Officer Courtney from his station on the corner.

CROSS-EXAMINED

Cross-examination then followed, attorneys for the defense inquiring as to the nature of his business and his quarters in the Pantages Building.

He reiterated his statement that when he ran down the stairway he saw a woman's hand sticking out of a doorway in an office on the mezzanine floor and about forty-five inches from the floor. He said that when he opened the door she "sort of fell in a heap."

Gordon testified that he did not observe closely whether the girl's clothing was disarranged when she ran past him.

"You did not look to see where she ran, did you?" he was asked.

"No, sir," Gordon testified. "I was so dumfounded I just remained standing there as if I were paralyzed."

Attorney Stewart asked twice for permission to ask the witness a question which he had forgotten. Attorney Gilbert declared it would keep despite the weather.

He again went into detail under the fire of the defense attorneys on the position he asserted he found Pantages when he burst into the room.

McGEE TRIAL DATE SET FOR THE 28th INST.

William R. McGee, accused of attempting to bribe a police officer to give favorable testimony for Mrs. Lois Pantages during a Coroner's inquest recently, will be tried in Department Twenty-five of Superior Court on the 28th inst., Judge Ageler ruled yesterday after the defendant had pleaded not guilty to the charge.

It is charged that Mrs. Pantages, wife of the millionaire theatrical man, Alexander Pantages, while in an intoxicated condition, drove her automobile into one driven by Juro Rokumoto causing his death. McGee is accused of attempting to influence a witness against Mrs. Pantages, who later was charged with second-degree murder as a result of the accident.

TRAIN HOLD-UP LINK FORGED

Suspect Identified Here as Buyer of Auto Found Near Scene of Robbery at McAvoy

George C. De Moss, said to be a former physician who served thirty-two months overseas with the United States Army Medical Corps, was positively identified yesterday, according to police and postal inspectors, as the man who purchased a Hudson automobile later used by two bandits in holding up a Southern Pacific passenger train near McAvoy. The identification was made, the officers reported, by three employees of a used car agency at 5760 Sunset Boulevard, shortly after De Moss was brought here from Peoria, Ill., where he was taken in custody as suspect.

The employees said the car was purchased April 18, last. It was found abandoned not far from the scene of the McAvoy train robbery June 22.

Another sensational robbery with which De Moss is linked, according to Postoffice Inspectors Milne and Lowe and Detective Lieutenant Lloyd of the police postoffice detail, is that assertedly committed May 28, last, by the notorious Fleagle gang at La Marr, Colo., in which four men were killed and $200,000 in cash and bonds stolen from a bank there. The officers charge that when arrested in Peoria, De Moss was in possession of one of the Fleagle gang's automobiles. Fleagle, the leader, is now in jail at Garden City, Kan., and his two sons in jail at Colorado Springs.

In custody of Deputy Sheriffs Condon and Harrison of Santa Clara and Contra Costa counties respectively, De Moss left last night for San Jose and Martinez, where he will be questioned in connection with other robberies. Then he will be taken to San Francisco and quizzed concerning the train hold-up.

The motion was made by Commissioner Weldon, recently appointed by Mayor Porter, and seconded by Commissioner Terrell. Commissioner French voted the same way. President Bradbury, the only man at the meeting, voted no.

While this action was being taken the Mayor received and forwarded to the consulation "for its attention and consideration" a letter from Mrs. Jay Thomas Nash of 123 Gramercy Place lauding the work of Robeson as manager. She wrote that largely through his efforts the Humane Department had been placed on a self-supporting basis that there has been a great improvement in the treatment of animals in the city and that the fine new animal shelter constructed at a cost of $60,000 is largely the result of his efforts.

She quoted: "He prayeth best who loveth best all things both great and small."

According to Mrs. Robeson, she has learned that the Mayor has received numerous letters of a similar nature lauding her husband.

Robeson also has received two crank death-threat letters, which have been referred to the District Attorney's office and which are being investigated. The letters were unsigned.

Well, Mr. Cole could not sit there all day entertaining the reporter, because it was going to be a big day. That was followed by a basket picnic at Tournament Park, all under the auspices of the Indiana colony. Enjoy those things? Why, he gets a real thrill out of a day like that! He had many callers, among them a "young man" only 73 years of age, C. R. Hodges of Alhambra.

School Addition Plans Ordered

The Board of Education yesterday instructed its architectural division to prepare plans and specifications for the construction of an addition to the Fifty-fourth-street school, which will consist of eight class-room units. It will cost $48,000.

This is one of eight additions to existing schools which were authorized by the board last Monday. The eight additions will add sixty-four class-room units to the school facilities of the local district and the total cost of the program will be $425,000.

Hangars Escape Garage Rulings

Airplane hangars do not come under the provisions of the ordinance regulating public garages, the Fire Commission was informed yesterday in an opinion given by City Attorney Werner. The ruling follows:

"In answer to your request for an opinion as to whether or not an airplane hangar constitutes a public garage within the meaning of Ordinance No. 61592, which ordinance regulates the construction and maintenance of garages, I beg to advise you that I am of the opinion it was not the intention of the City Council in passing the above-mentioned ordinance, to attempt to regulate airplane hangars by the same."

ANNIVERSARY BRINGS FLOOD OF GREETINGS

Mr and Mrs. Martin Prenter of 4543 Pickford street yesterday still were receiving congratulations on the occasion of the recent celebration of their fifty-fourth wedding anniversary. Some came from as far as Ulster, Ireland, where Mr. Prenter was born on a farm. The couple were married August 13, 1875, at Utica, O., and reared ten children, causing President Roosevelt in 1905 to characterize Mrs. Prenter as the "most useful citizen I have seen to date." After spending forty years in Pittsburgh Mr. and Mrs. Prenter came to Los Angeles in 1913. They attend the First United Presbyterian Church.

the stand by Attorney Lawler. Fleager testified as to the book value of the company's property, quoted figures to show the actual performance appraisal of the plant, the actual expenses and revenues for 1928 and the company's estimate of revenues and expenses for 1929.

There is a total of $94,195,154.44 invested in the business in Los Angeles, Mr. Fleager said the company's books reveal. Exhibits as offered purported to show that the rate of return for the business of 1928 was 7.26 per cent on the actual performance appraisal. This figure was based on total revenues of $23,797,880.90 and total expenses of $16,946,235.96.

The company's estimates of revenues for 1929, Mr. Fleager submitted, will be $26,151,000 and expenses will be $18,898,000, giving a return of 7.25 per cent on the actual performance appraisal of $99,998,000. The company estimated depreciation expenses at $4,785,000. The commission's engineers place the item at $5,130,000.

DIFFERENCE EXPLAINED

The difference, explained Mr. Fleager, is caused by the fact that the commission's engineers used a sinking fund basis in preparing their figures, that they used a different depreciation rate, resulting in a lower total and that they applied these rates to their estimate of historical cost.

The witness cited figures dealing with traffic expenses, cost of maintenance, commercial expenses and features of actual operation.

The hearing came to an end soon after the opening of the afternoon session, which was featured by a declaration by Mr. Lawler that something more than figures are necessary in fixing an equitable rate of return for the telephone company. The factor of service, which he declared has been excellent, should be considered. Lawler indicated that under proposed reductions offered by Ready and the City Attorney, there is a question of the company's ability to maintain its present standard of service throughout Los Angeles. An earning rate of 8 per cent is not out of keeping with the situation as it exists in Los Angeles, he urged.

Mr. Holm interposed and sought permission to file memoranda with the commission to prove that 6 or 6½ per cent is an adequate rate of return. Commissioners Seavey, Decoto and Carr granted Holm seven days in which to file his documents for San Francisco.

Pasadena, Culver City and Montebello were represented at the hearing. It was indicated by Commissioner Seavey that a decision will be announced within the next thirty days.

He was 85 years of age and leaves his widow, a brother, James F. Bryson of Glendale, and several nephews and nieces.

Private funeral services will be conducted tomorrow morning at his residence, 1310 Arapahoe street, and friends will assemble at the chapel of Inglewood Memorial Park for interment, which will take place at 10 o'clock. Services will be held under the auspices of the Christian Science Church. The body will be cremated.

COLLAPSES ON FLOOR

Mr. Bryson had been in failing health for the last two years, but was exceptionally well Wednesday and took a seventy-mile automobile drive. Rising early yesterday morning, as was his custom, he was preparing for the day when he suddenly collapsed on the floor of the family residence. He was carried to his bed by his wife and the faithful servant of the home, who has been with the family many years, but passed away before the arrival of Dr. Eugene Campbell, who had been summoned.

Mr. Bryson was born in 1844, the son of John Bryson, a native of Pennsylvania. In 1870 he was married to Susan Ellen Negus of Fairfield, Iowa, and their home for several years was in Red Oak, Iowa, where Mr. Bryson was in the lumber business with his father. In 1887 Mr. Bryson, Sr., came to Los Angeles and the following year Mr. and Mrs. Isaac Bryson followed with their father and son built the Bryson Block and cast their future in the city and saw it grow from a small town to its present proportions.

MANY FRIENDS

With the passing of Mr. Bryson Los Angeles loses a pioneer who was an exemplary son, devoted husband and a successful business man. He was known for his quiet, unassuming demeanor and had many friends here. Mr. and Mrs. Bryson would have celebrated their sixtieth wedding anniversary next January. The widow, who now is in her seventy-sixth year, is bearing up bravely in the bereavement.

Nephews left by Mr. Bryson are Frank Bryson, public administrator of Los Angeles; J. H. Bryson and Joseph Bryson of this city; Jesse Bryson of Long Beach and Ralph Bryson of Culver City.

The following will serve as pallbearers: Robert Crail, Edward Steel, Ford Childers, Joseph Eckley, J. H. Bryson and Jesse Bryson.

SUSPECT IN HOLD-UP OF CAFE TAKEN

Two Taxi Drivers Effect Capture After Chase of Four Blocks

A bandit chase yesterday followed the hold-up of the Vermont Coffee Shop at 1108 North Vermont avenue, and ended with two taxi chauffeurs capturing George A. Moore, 32 years of age, who said he lives at Sixth and Figueroa streets. He was booked at the Hollywood police station for suspicion of robbery.

The bandit entered the coffee shop and, pointing a gun at Miss Edith Kennard, the cashier, handed her a note demanding all her cash. She gave him $10 after delaying him a moment. As he went out she sounded an alarm heard by two taxi drivers, George Olson of 4580 Sunset Boulevard, and G. E. Munser of 1201 West Thirty-first street. They followed the man four blocks along Vermont avenue until he dodged to the rear of a building. In the back yard the taximen seized Moore, and turned him over to detectives of the Hollywood division.

Hollywood police report that Moore admitted being the man who had tried to hold up E. G. Hoffman in his drug store at 5150 Hollywood Boulevard on Wednesday night. Hoffman took away the intruder's gun and chased him from the store.

Webster Hears Zone Law Pleas

Following an afternoon's discussion, Councilman Webster, chairman of the City Planning Committee, took under consideration the proposed new zoning ordinance for the city, which is designed to tighten up restrictions under the zoning law.

Representatives of various industries appeared before the committee, making suggestions as to the ordinance. Mr. Webster alone heard the arguments, the other members of the committee, Councilmen Randall and Holland being absent.

MANY BUCKEYES EXPECTED

More than 10,000 Buckeyes, it was announced yesterday, are expected to attend the annual summer picnic of the Ohio Society at Bixby Park, Long Beach, tomorrow. President Harry B. George and Secretary Frank M. Bering are in charge of arrangements, and announce that Dr. Horace Porter, former lawyer of Riverside, will be the principal speaker of the day.

COLLAPSES ON FLOOR

Mr. Bryson had been in failing health for the last two years, but was comparatively well Wednesday and had a seventy-mile automobile drive early yesterday morning, as was his custom, but was stricken the day when he suddenly collapsed on the floor of the home. He was carried to his bed by his wife and the faithful servant of the home, who has been in the family many years, but died many months before the arrival of Mrs. Isaac Campbell, who had been married.

Mr. Bryson was born in 1844, the son of John Bryson, a native of Scotland. In 1876 he was married to Miss Ellen Virgin of Fairfield, Iowa, and their home for several years was in Red Oak, Iowa, where Mr. Bryson was in the lumber business with his father. In 1887 Mr. Bryson, Sr., came to Los Angeles and the following year Mr. and Mrs. Bryson followed and built the Bryson Block, and their future in the city and saw it grow from a village to its present proportions.

MANY FRIENDS

With the passing of Mr. Bryson Los Angeles loses a pioneer who was a worthy son, devoted husband and father and a successful business man. He was known for his quiet, unassuming manner and had many friends in all walks of life. Mr. and Mrs. Bryson would have celebrated their sixtieth wedding anniversary next January. The latter, who now is in her seventy-fifth year, is bearing up bravely in her bereavement.

Besides his wife and brother left by Mr. Bryson are Joseph Bryson, public administrator of Los Angeles; J. H. Bryson and Joseph Bryson of this city; Mrs. Bryson of Long Beach and Mrs. Bryson of Culver City.

Pallbearers will serve as follows: Robert Orcutt, Edward Gosel, Clifford Gibbons, Joseph Eshley, J. Bryson and Jesse Bryson.

Today's Bible Text
And Jesus said unto them, I am the bread of life; he that cometh to me I will in no wise cast out. St. John vi:35.

THE GREAT WORK
German scientists are writing and preparing a standard encyclopaedia on the animal kingdom and it will take more than 300 years to complete it at the rate of progress now being made. Now is the time to subscribe.

RECORD BREAKING
Speaking of world endurance contests Babe Ruth draws an eternal bunk in the hall of fame by hanging up a record of more than 500 home runs during his career on the diamond. Babe by this time has a new mark—the record of having more records than any other guy in the game.

JUST A NUISANCE
It seems to be generally accepted that hereafter aerial or ocean stowaways will be treated as a menace and nuisance. Press and public will forget them at once and decline to receive them as heroes. With the treatment accorded to prisoners they will be returned to their starting point and forthwith forgotten.

THE PAJAMA GIRLS
The judges for the pajama parade of Long Beach beauties included the City Attorney, in order to make sure that everything was proper and within the law. The town has a reputation for discretion and modesty that must be conserved. Even a girl's pajamas must be distinguished for their concealments rather than their revelations. Anyhow, this is what pajamas are for.

THE OUTLAW
The New York Boxing Commission has barred Max Schmeling, the German champion, from their State for life. Of course Max can go down to a New York wharf to take the ship back home, but he will not be allowed to appear in the ring at Madison Square Garden or any other arena within the Empire State. The commissioners are jealous of their prestige and authority and they feel that the German battler has trifled with both. Maybe Max will now be glad to hear from Mexico.

THE FARM BEAUTY
The California State Fair is seeking the finest example of a farm girl that can be found in California. This is no bathing-beauty affair, although looks will have a little to do in making the selection. The girl, however, must also excel in milking, sewing and cooking. She must milk a cow, ride a horse, bake a cake, mend a patch and sweep a room. Anyhow, these are supposed to be the qualifications our rural Romeos ask in their wives. The maiden who gains first prize can at least be guaranteed a marriage proposal on the strength of the advertising that will result. Either Hollywood or Sacramento could see to that.

FILMS IN SCIENCE
American surgeons have been studying certain German hospital methods with great interest. The especial point is the growing use of films for educational purposes in medicine and surgery in Berlin and other German cities. Even in obstetrics there is large use of the camera and in most major operations there are films to interpret and illustrate the advancement of surgical science. A much greater proportion of films are used for educational purposes in Germany than in America. Our flickers are practically all for amusement in this country. In Germany they point a moral or adorn a tale. There is a lot to learn—even in Hollywood.

CLOTHES FOR MEN
Professional men in England appear to be pleasantly involved in a dress reform movement. They are showing what the well-dressed man should wear on various occasions. At a recent wedding a doctor was married in a dark brown gaberdine and a low-necked silk shirt. A gaberdine is a sort of loose smock, somewhat after the manner of a bath robe and aside from its positive comfort has nothing to commend it in a style show. Also the English rector abandoned his billboard collar and turned up in knickerbockers and a soft shirt. There seems to be a well-defined movement to get away from the severe and uncomfortable lines of men's apparel.

BOULDER DAM PROGRESS
Generally gratifying progress seems to be being made in the preliminaries to construction of Boulder Dam. Somewhat surprisingly, there appear to be bidders for more power than the dam is expected to produce, in which case the government will be called upon to devise a method of allocating the power that will be fair to all; not a particularly easy task in view of the diversity of interests represented by the several public and private bidders.

As this situation, however, seems to guarantee the financing of this great structure, which will add so much to the prosperity of the whole Southwest, it is an occasion for congratulation to know that there will be no great difficulty in finding a market for the dam's power product.

Reclamation Commissioner Mead made two announcements of considerable significance at the Denver conference. One is that the government will prefer to deal with a single bidder, suggesting that all the bidders associate to make one offer. Presumably this would require the formation of an operating corporation, shared in ownership by the various semipublic and public corporations which seek power to build and run the power plant, and would be in line with the government's preference to sell falling water rather than electricity delivered to the switchboard.

That this would be advantageous from the government's standpoint cannot be denied, since it would eliminate separate dealings and possible controversies. It would also be advantageous from the consumers' standpoint, to the extent that unitary management would make for greater efficiency and lower cost. But the difficulties of forming a corporation from various discordant elements seem considerable. The elements under business control would have little difficulty in such an association, but there might be difficulty in bringing those under political control into line, since these always have a political end in view.

The other is that the contracts will be let for fifteen years only, renewable for ten-year periods thereafter at the option of the Interior Department. There is little doubt that a more favorable price can be obtained in this way than if bidders were required to contract for the full fifty-year period, since the state of the electrical generating art fifty years hence is impossible to predict with any pretense of accuracy and any bids would be pure guesswork. There are various views as to whether the price tendency will be upward or downward. The downward swing now in progress has been continuous for many years, but it obviously has limits, else electricity would in time be produced for less than nothing. There is less guesswork in a fifteen-year contract.

Since the chances are that electricity will always be needed and will, therefore, always be salable at some price, and since the probability that production can be greatly cheapened in the future is not great, the government, for its part, is not taking much risk in entering into short-time contracts.

There is still much work to be done before actual construction is started, but the work is progressing.

COAST DEFENSE ASSURED
For many years speculation as to what would happen in the event of any of our Pacific Coast ports being attacked by an enemy nation sending its cohorts in from the sea often has brought out the unpleasant view from military strategists that we would get the worst of it. This idea arose from the fact that while some of our coast cities are fairly well protected by big guns and warships, the enemy might land at unprotected points and do great damage before we could get into action.

But now comes the reassuring news from San Diego that the United States government has demonstrated its ability to move its giant bombing planes from the east to the west coast and engage them in bombing activities twenty-five miles out over the Pacific Ocean in less than forty-one hours. Nine bombers took off from Langley Field, Virginia, on a recent Monday for San Diego. Eight of them reached their destination at dusk on the next day, while the ninth arrived two days late on account of its motor becoming overheated, thus forcing it down in Arizona.

As soon as they reached Rockwell Field the planes were loaded with bombs and roared out over the sea to drop their deadly cargo upon an imaginary enemy massed for an attack upon San Diego. The actual flying time of the eight planes first to arrive was thirty hours. Maj. Hugh J. Knerr, in charge of the air fleet, said after the demonstration that under existing conditions at the fields squadrons of bombing planes can take off at two-hour intervals from either coast, can be refueled at various airports along the route and continue on their way to provide protection to either the Pacific or Atlantic shoreline.

In the case reported the bombers flew 2400 miles across the continent and got into "action" within forty-one hours after leaving their distant base. With scout planes to locate the position of the enemy, no matter where he was about to begin hostilities on the coast, it is readily seen that our Pacific shore now is afforded better defense than ever before, though it is extremely unlikely that we shall have occasion for it for many years to come.

ON SLICING
Bobby Jones has made his record by driving straight down the fairway. He seldom slices into the rough. When his admirers wanted him to run for Congress he refused. He knows his driver and holds to it. He is studying law against a rainy day, but he stubbornly refuses to be lured off into the sandy hazard of politics. Possibly that is why he is pre-eminent in his profession.

Bags of money have been dangled before Lindbergh; but he also holds fast to what he knows and will not sideslip into movies. Knowing aviation from wing to wing, he consistently holds on to the stick. It is his wand of fortune. Weaker minds are tempted to vaudeville or films and in a few short weeks are forgotten. He refuses to slice.

When a man knows his game and knows that he knows it alone, he has elements of greatness. Few men are successes in more than one line. Indeed, but few can boast even one line. If he be lucky enough to strike the public favorably along any line, it were well for him not to slice.

Most writers are authors of one book. Other volumes may follow; but they are usually copies of the first. Like the young lady who wrote "Gentlemen Prefer Blondes," it is the first and last. This author showed signs of good sense in not attempting to repeat.

Some Senators are cutting hair in barber shops and some barbers are passing laws in Washington. So we get mediocre laws and poor haircuts.

OUR OWN VENICE
One of the movie magnates was going to make a picture of "The Merchant of Venice," but held back when he found that he couldn't have Portia do a court scene in a bathing suit. His idea of a merchant was one of the concessionaires on the pier. Probably the pound of flesh would be raw hamburger before he wound up.

GIRAFFES
By James J. Montague

Giraffes, in childhood I was told,
Evolved, through eons manifold,

By stretching up their necks to browse
Upon the juicy jungle boughs

And as the trees increased in height
The brutes, to sate their appetites,

With succulent and healthful food,
Each year enhanced their altitude,

Until they came to be the way
We see them in the zoo today.

But this, I learn is a mistake,
A mere malicious nature fake.

Giraffes could always browse with ease
Upon the smaller jungle trees

And, therefore, never felt the need
To stretch their necks that they might feed.

But how the creatures ever grew
To look the curious way they do

I've asked the scientists in vain
They somehow never can explain.

So how the creatures grew so tall
Is mere conjecture, after all.

The LEE SIDE O' L.A.
By Lee Shippey

DEAR LEESIDE: The two thrilliest things about a vacation, it seems to me, are loafing under the big trees and thinking of things one really ought to do, and not doing them; and thinking of things one really oughtn't to do, and doing them.

Here at Lake Arrowhead you can enjoy both.

This morning we decided to go fishing, wearing our bathing suits, so that we could dive off the boat for a swim any time we felt like it. We bounced out of bed early, intending to make a dash for the showers. In these camp cabins, you know, they haven't showers for everybody—you must dash to the community showers. We were warm as toast, under all those blankets, but when we got out it was so cold and shivery I decided to be noble and unselfish about it and let somebody else have my place at the showers. All the water used in that camp gushed from a spring which shot a stream four inches in diameter, and if you ever took a shower under water from a mountain spring like that you'll understand. Mr. Young was the only one of our party who had the nerve to go to the showers, all the rest of us deciding to be unselfish. But he appeared at breakfast vowing he never had felt so invigorated, and he acted it. Three of us girls were trying to reduce and said we didn't care for pancakes—though we looked at them hungrily. All we ate was cantaloupe, cereal, ham and eggs, toast and coffee, which is what they call a light breakfast here in the mountains. But the pancakes were on the table d'hote order and they served them, anyway, and Mr. Young ate his and all of ours, too.

Deep Waters

We got a boat with an outboard motor and whizzed all about that beautiful lake, about fourteen miles in and out of bays and coves, before we could decide where we wanted to fish. The water was so clear we could see bottom all along the edges, but out in the middle we couldn't see it.

"Wonder if anybody can dive and touch it," said Mr. Young.

I'm pretty proud of my diving, so before anyone else could answer I dived. And, boy, I went down and down till I thought it must be a lake in a crater. I got scared and started for the top. When I came up Mr. Young was just about to dive after me—and he looked twice as scared as I was.

"Say," I said, "that's deep."

"It's all of 185 feet deep here," he said. "Don't you ever try that again."

"And cold," I chattered.

"The average temperature of this lake water is 45 deg."

"You can't fool me," I said. "It's only one degree above freezing."

Not Too Cool for Sunburn

The rest of that trip I used my bathing suit merely as an ornament. I saw lots of people swimming and enjoying it, but I thought it would be nice to get tanned.

All I got was sunburned, but I didn't realize it till we had come back and had lunch and went horseback riding.

Did you ever go riding when you were pretty badly sunburned? Take my advice, Leeside, and don't. I intended to take a long, romantic ride. But I was sunburned to a fare-you-well and those were just the words I used. "Fare you well, Mr. Young," I said. "I've just remembered an important engagement at the beauty shop. I'm going there and ask them to give me a bath in cold cream." So we went to Arrowhead Village as fast as I could.

When Rest Is Best

Tonight there's a perfectly divine dance going on, but I'm not in it. I came here for rest. I didn't know it till after I got sunburned, but I know it now. When you come to Arrowhead, Leeside, take things gradually or you'll miss a lot of fun.

While I was resting this afternoon the others rode over to the burned forest and when they came back Mr. Young took all his cigarettes and threw them into the lake.

"It certainly was a lesson," he said. "On the way over, I sneaked a smoke. The woods all look so green I felt sure it couldn't do any harm. I was lucky a forest ranger didn't see me, or it would have cost me a $50 fine. But when I saw the burned forest and realized that one careless smoker—or one careful smoker who momentarily grew absent-minded—might cause just such another fire as that, I decided I wasn't half a man if I was too weak to deny myself five minutes of smoking in face of such a risk."

You surely get acquainted with people on a trip like this. Of all the nice young men I know, I wonder if any others would be that heroic.

Leeside, I can't give you half an idea of the delightfulness of this place. It's a wonderful thing to find a forest primeval only eighty-four miles from Los Angeles, with trees in it which are ten feet in diameter and were here before any white man ever saw them. It's a wholly different world from the one I left behind, such a little way in time and miles, but such a long, long way in appearance and climate.

MILLIE.

OUR HARBOR ANNIVERSARY

BY CLARENCE H. MATSON
Manager Department of Foreign Shipping and Commerce Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce

Twenty years ago today there took place one of the most important events in the history of Los Angeles. On August 16, 1909, the people of San Pedro voted to consolidate with Los Angeles and thereby give the larger city an opportunity to expand its resources in the development of the harbor.

Just a week before the people of Wilmington had taken similar action.

This election was the culmination of a long, hard contest, extending over a period of years. The result of that action is evident today in the fact that this harbor is now the second port of America in point of tonnage, and its growth is just getting well under way.

For many years the far-sighted business leaders of Los Angeles had looked forward to the development of a harbor to serve the growing city and its tributary territory. The breakwater fight, in which San Pedro Bay had been championed by the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce and the Los Angeles Times, against certain powerful corporate interests, had been won a dozen years before, and the construction of the breakwater by the United States government had been carried forward during those dozen years.

Corporate interests, however, continued to maintain their grasp on the harbor and its shipping. No cargo could be landed at the port without paying tribute to powerful railroad interests, and the little harbor communities were powerless to develop any water front in the interests of the public.

The San Pedro district had a population of 3000 or 4000, while the Wilmington district only a few hundred people, although the latter had a long history as a port, running back into Civil War days.

Looking forward to consolidation with the harbor towns, the city of Los Angeles in 1906 had extended its boundaries by a shoestring strip, until they touched the two harbor towns on their westerly boundaries. Then it was discovered that legislation was necessary before the harbor districts could legally become part of the largest city and a long legislative battle in the California Assembly in January, 1909, resulted. Many interests, both corporate and political, were arrayed against the ambitions of Los Angeles and its sister communities at the harbor to develop a great port.

At the instance of the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce, the Los Angeles City Council, about the close of 1907, adopted an ordinance creating a harbor commission although Los Angeles had no harbor and scarcely touched tidewater. This first harbor commission, composed of George H. Stewart, former president of the chamber; Thomas E. Gibbon and F. W. Braun, with A. P. Fleming as their secretary, carried on this legislative fight and after overcoming many obstacles, the consolidation act of 1909 was adopted and the consolidation elections were called for August of that year.

The Los Angeles city officials were greatly aided and abetted in their plans for a great harbor by the then United States district engineer, Capt. Amos A. Fries, now Maj.-Gen. Fries, lately retired from the United States Army, after distinguished work in chemical warfare service.

It was under the direction of Capt. Fries that the harbor lines were laid out and adopted by special instruction of Congress and these harbor lines formed the foundation for the general harbor plan that has since been followed.

At that time all of the district between the business section of San Pedro and Wilmington was a wide expanse of mud flats. The turning basin at the head of the main channel was just being dredged to a depth of twenty-five feet and it was impossible for anything more than a rowboat to go beyond that point. Practically all of these mud flats, to the extent of more than 1300 acres, had been covered by tideland patents, granted years before to private interests by the State of California.

The question of the validity of these tideland patents was raised in 1908 and the city of Los Angeles, through its City Council and harbor commission, obtained permission from Atty.-Gen. Webb to bring suit in the name of the State against the tideland claimants to recover the title to the tidelands for the people of the State of California.

The long-drawn-out litigation which followed was among the most important that has ever been brought in California courts and was carried clear through the United States Supreme Court, but resulted in the people again obtaining title to most of these tidelands which have since become worth many millions of dollars to the city. Subsequently after the harbor was brought within the city limits of Los Angeles, the Legislature granted these tidelands to the city of Los Angeles to hold in trust for the people of the State, and that is how Los Angeles acquired much of its great harbor.

To bring about consolidation of the harbor communities with the greater city a commission was appointed representing the City Council of Los Angeles, the Chamber of Commerce, the Harbor Commission, Municipal League, Associated Jobbers and various other civic organizations, together with similar committees from Wilmington and San Pedro, and this commission worked out a plan of consolidation and certain agreements which were officially ratified by the governing bodies of all three municipalities and under this consolidation agreement the action of twenty years ago this week took place.

The consolidation commission of Wilmington had taken similar action.

This election was the culmination of a long, hard contest, extending over a period of years. The result of that action is evident today in the fact that this harbor is now the second port of America in point of tonnage, and its growth is just getting well under way.

WHAT OTHERS THINK ABOUT IT

INTERNATIONAL CITIZENSHIP
[New York Times]

It seems, at first sight, a daring and Utopian theme which the German Ambassador to the United States, Dr. Von Prittwitz, chose for his commencement address at the University of Syracuse last week. What he did was to trace in outline the dream of a common or international citizenship which has engaged the thoughts of philosophers and rulers, poets and churchmen, since the earliest days of civilization. The theory has been varied from century to century, but the idea of a citizenship open to everybody and enjoyed by all has never succeeded in taking a concrete or lasting embodiment.

There is no probability that it ever will, but, as the German Ambassador pointed out, many of the conceptions and benefits pictured by this age-long aspiration may be realised in modern times through certain approximations. Loyalty to one country need not mean hatred of another. Citizens of different lands may feel that in many essentials they stand on a perfect equality. In particular has the great recent movement against war—especially against war as an instrument of international policy—brought nearer the time when, as the German Ambassador said, men will think that a man across the sea is as truly his neighbor as the man across the street, and when national frontiers shall be thought of not as barriers but as bridges. The international citizenship thus to be attained is not one of outward or legal form but of the moral and spiritual kind which in the end must prevail over all others.

EUROPE EDGES IN [Kansas City Times]

For the first time in the history of the international pageant, a foreigner has succeeded to the proud title of "Miss Universe."

We hope our sportsmanship will not be questioned, when we say that Fraulein Lisl Goldarbeiter's victory at Galveston appears to us a serious invasion of our national rights. In common, no doubt, with others, we had come to regard this particular championship as American property.

Not for a moment do we wish to belittle Fraulein Lisl's achievement. Still less do we mean to challenge the decision of the judges. Nevertheless we do feel that the situation is one which requires the attention of every patriotic citizen, if the home product is successfully to meet foreign competition.

Perhaps Mr. Ziegfeld can be persuaded to reconsider his decision to give up his revues and to undertake an intensive campaign of glorification. In any event, won't somebody do something?

RADIO AND MUSIC
[Baltimore Sun]

On a point of law the Supreme Court of Iowa has just held that a radio is not a musical instrument, and that, consequently, it is subject to execution and sale. Whether its operator is also subject to execution was not considered, nor did the court speak about broadcasting when windows are open and tempers are none too smooth. There is reason to claim, however, that the radio is enough of a musical instrument to bring into question the technique of the operator. Community singing sometimes loses its charm when it all emanates from a single horn with the amplifier tube working at full blast.

BLOOD AND BLUNDERBUSSES
(Synopsis of preceding chapters: Mattie Moogles, a lovely Spanish maiden, when but 14 years of age, while playing conkle-shell on the beach, was captured by a crew of pilfering pirates, and who, by the marvelousness of her cookery of seawood and barnacles, won the appetites, therefore the hearts of the bunch, of blood-thirsty hoodlums. Therefore, they showered their gold and jewels and silks and velvets upon her, and of how her queenly reign became supreme when they saw her dance the fantastic fandango. Of how, during one of her dances, she kicked both guns and three knives from the hated pirate captain's pockets, whereupon the crew chucked him overboard right heartily, and made her queen of the ship, the "Shiver Me Timbers," which she ruled with an iron ballast, and they became her veriest slaves. And of how, when the ship was laden with the costliest plunder, was waylaid and captured by another rival pirate ship, the Black Maria, the girl eluded her new captors by disguising herself as a silk mizzen mast. I will relate to you of how, when she remained on the plundered ship for seventeen days, with nothing to eat but fish and nothing to drink but rum (see footnote,) she drifted helplessly into port and is found by her parents, half dead, but is happily wed to a poor fish-scaler and dies at the overripe old age of 88 with 339 children and three great-grand ones to her credit. All this I will tell, and maybe more. Now read on.—[Author.

Hair Almost Indestructible
All mammals are supplied with hair, although the quality varies greatly. It may be of the softest down hardly perceptible on the child's cheek or the tough bristles of the hog or the quills of the porcupine. The hair is the last part of the body to decay, is believed to grow even after death, and is known to last a century. In a Chicago bank window display of Indian relics, there is some Indian brave more than 100 years ago. The hair shows no effects of age. It is not dissimilar in color and in texture to the shorn tresses of any modern girls. Even when exposed to the elements, hair will not deteriorate, and can be dissolved only by heat under pressure or in the presence of alkalies or acids.

Referee Halts Battle as Loser "Out on Feet"

BY EDWARD J. NEIL
Associated Press Sports Writer

EBBETS FIELD, BROOKLYN, (N. Y.) Aug. 15. (AP)—Another smashing giant from the Argentine, fully as threatening to American heavyweight supremacy as the Luis Angel Firpo of six years ago, battered his way into the heavyweight picture tonight over the punch shattered form of gallant Tom Heeney.

TOM HEENEY

Surprisingly clever for all his 223 pounds of bone and muscle, Victorio Campolo, the new galloping gaucho of the pampas country, spread the hard rock from New Zealand on the ring of the big National League ball park as only Gene Tunney, in his valedictory as heavyweight champion, was able to do before him.

Campolo was awarded the fight on a technical knockout in the ninth round of a ten-round match as Heeney, torn by body punches and reeling under ponderous right-hand smashes to the jaw, staggered helplessly into the arms of Tom Crowley, the referee. The round lasted 2m. 40s.

It was a vicious slugging battle from the opening gong, the kind of a Donnybrook free-for-all heavyweight fans have sought in vain at major ringsides since Jack Dempsey

STORY ENRAGED ATHLETIC HEAD

Magazine Article Starts Old Battle Again

Union Leader Denounces "Fastest Human"

Sprinter May be Suspended for New Outburst

NEW YORK, Aug. 15. (AP)—The controversy between Charley Paddock, famous sprinter, and the Amateur Athletic Union, which has been raging off and on for the last half dozen years, broke out afresh today, when Avery Brundage, A. A. U. president, issued a broadside in answer to statements made by Paddock in the current issue of Collier's Weekly.

CHARLES W. PADDOCK

"By admitting that he has been sailing under false colors and never has been an amateur honestly, actuated solely by the love of the game, Paddock, in the magazine article in question, 'confirms the suspicions' which nearly caused his disbandment from the Olympic team last year," Brundage declared.

UNFAIR MOVE

"It seems unfair for Paddock, who has made so much money from the lecture platform, the movies and the magazines, while eluding athletic authorities and keeping his amateur standing, to couple himself with poor Joie Ray and unfortunate Charley Hoff, who were so unsuccessful in their attempts to make a living from amateur athletics and were declared professionals.

"Paddock's article is filled with inaccuracies and untruths, is sensationalism of the rankest sort and is just what might be expected from one whose record has been so replete with efforts to cash in on his athletic prowess regardless of the rules."

Outlining the discussion that arose after the Olympic trials concerning Paddock's amateur status, Brundage said "practically every" member of the A. A. U. track and field selection committee "felt that Charles Paddock had repeatedly capitalized his athletic fame and had therefore forfeited his amateur standing." The American Olympic Committee, he said, "expressed the same opinion only more emphatically."

Subsequently Paddock was given an O.K. by the Southern Pacific Association of the A.A.U., in which he was registered, this was accepted by the national registration committee, and he went to Amsterdam with the team.

Daniel J. Ferris, A.A.U. secretary-treasurer, added to Brundage's statement a denial of Paddock's charge that he was cheated out of a place in the semifinal round of the 100-meter dash at the Olympic tryouts. Paddock had pointed out that the announcer proclaimed him as winner of second place and the judges then went into a huddle and changed this. According to Ferris, Paddock's name was announced instead of that of Jackson Shoiz through an error by the announcer, and this was corrected at once.

DENY CHARGES

Paddock's charges that the heats of the trials were "seeded" so as to try to eliminate him and that the time announced for him in his heat was not correct also came in for denial, as did the statement of the one-time "fastest human" that the

IKE BOONE'S SLUGGING WINS CLASH FOR REDS

Fourth Hit Made by Mission Clouter Sends in Winning Run; Berger Beaned; Killefer Chased

BY BOB RAY

In a wild and woolly struggle that saw Red Killefer chased to the club house, Walter Berger beaned, numerous other athletes dodging pellets propelled at their heads and the rest of the excitement that goes with a close contest, the Mission Reds defeated the Angeles, 7 to 6, out at Wrigley Field yesterday afternoon.

Big Ike Boone, who this week has made himself about as popular with the Angel pitchers as a case of hay fever is to a gardener, once more worked his bludgeon overtime and his fourth hit of the afternoon drove over what proved to be the winning run in the eighth inning. Ike got three singles, a home run and a walk in five trips to the rubber and drove in four of the Mission markers.

IKE BOONE

The Angels at one time were holding a 5-to-2 lead, but Red Roberts weakened under the combined efforts of Mission bingles and Seraph boots and went under in the eighth. Boone's homer in the seventh put the Reds within a run of Lelivelt's charges, and then three hits and an error by Telson gave the visitors three more tallies and the ball game in the eighth.

ANGEL RALLY FAILS

Los Angeles staged a threatening rally in the ninth that put over one run and advanced the tieing tally to second, but Gus Sandberg, who broke up Wednesday's battle, went out on a long fly to Hurst that ended the struggle.

"Dead Pan" Nelson, the forlorn-looking Mission right-hander, pitched the route for the Reds but was lucky to last it out. Nelson, who has a queer delivery which makes him look as though he's pitching upside down, yielded nine BROOKLYN (N. Y.) Aug. 15. The Pirates lost to Boston and the Cubs thus gained half a game on the day to lead by eight and one-half contests.

Guy Bush was hit hard in the opener but the Brooklyn pitchers were rapped even harder and the Chicago ace had comparatively little difficulty in winning his seventh victory of the season. Dazzy Vance was tight in the pinches of the night cap.

CARTER AGREES TO BOUT WITH HESS SEPTEMBER 3

BL KAY OWE

Wildcat Carter will return to Los Angeles to box Goldie Hess at the Olympic on September 3. This was threshed out by the Boxing Commission and Matchmaker Wad Wadhams yesterday when the negro lightweight accepted the offer made to them through Frank Moran who was acting under orders of Jim Woods.

GOLDIE HESS

Eddie Mack, who was originally scheduled to box Hess on that date, will leave for Denver and then hurry along to Chicago, where he is to enter Loyola University to study law.

The Denver boy is holding about the same sack which Carter did until the original Hess-Carter bout was ordered back on by the commission.

Carter was offered the September 3 date the day following the calling off of the Hess bout two weeks ago when Hess was unable to box on account of boils. At that time a request for training expenses by Carter was turned down and he went back to Seattle.

The negro is boxing in Seattle August 20 and will come south immediately afterward.

Mack had won two fights here by knockouts and made a great im-

Hebard meets Ben Friedman, Philadelphia, in tomorrow's semifinals. The Philadelphian entered the round today by beating Marco Hecht of New York, 6-4, 6-4, 6-1, after a hard battle.

In the lower bracket, Jay Cohn of Santa Monica, Cal., meets Frank Parker of Milwaukee. Cohn defeated George Boynton of Atlanta in straight sets, 6-4, 6-4, while the diminutive Parker trounced Francis Canfwell of Youngstown, O., 6-1, 6-0, in today's quarter-final round.

RYE (N. Y.) Aug. 15. (AP)—Play in the eastern grass court tennis championships reached the semifinal round today with seeded stars filling the brackets in both men's and women's divisions.

In the greatest upset of the day, 16-year-old Sarah Palfrey of Boston defeated the defending champion, Mrs. May Sutton Bundy of Santa Monica, Cal., who won the national championship nearly ten years before Miss Palfrey was born. The Boston girl's triumph put her into the semifinals along with Ethel Burkhardt and Mrs. L. A. Harper of San Francisco and Mary Greef of Kansas City.

MAY SUTTON BUNDY

The men's division semifinalists are Big Bill Tilden and Frank Hunter, first two ranking players in the country; John Doeg of Santa Monica, and H. W. (Bunny) Austin of England.

Miss Palfrey defeated Mrs. Bundy, 3-6, 6-0, 7-5.

Miss Burkhardt eliminated Mrs.

SARAH PASSES EXAMS FOR ARIZONA DENTAL LICENSE

Charley Borah, last season's Trojan track captain, and one of the country's leading sprinters until he suffered a leg injury that put him out of competition, has successfully passed the Arizona Dental Board examinations, according to word received here yesterday. Borah at present is in Phoenix, where his father is practicing dentistry.

Borah took the California Board examinations before he left for Arizona at the conclusion of his dental school work at the University of Southern California, but the results of this test have not yet been announced.

The Trojan track star does not intend to enter full-time practice immediately, however, as he has announced his intention of enrolling in the U. C. medical school for advanced work that will fit him for special dental surgery.

Dado Meets Hughes at Hollywood Tonight in Campaign for Flyweight Laur

FILIPINO STAR IN FEATURE GO

Faces Hardy Rival Over Ten-Round Route

Fields Will Make Bow to Legion Spectators

Gouyd Tackles Old Rival in Six-Round Tilt

Speedy Dado will try and advance a step nearer the flyweight championship that all Filipinos have tried in vain to win since Pancho Villa died, and the disputed title was won by Fidel La Barba at Ascot. Dado is fighting a sturdy little Irishman in Tommy Hughes of Cleveland at the Hollywood Legion Stadium, and while the Filipino is favorite, he may find he has a tougher fight on his hands than he bargained for.

Boxing fans will get a chance to see the new welterweight champion in the ring when he climbs through the ropes to take a bow before the main event. Willie Ronney, Jackie Fields's manager, will receive a wrist watch for piloting the Jewish fighter to a championship. Fields will be called on to say a few words to those present.

If Speedy Dado is as good as he has been in the last few fights he has had he will get the decision. His followers don't expect to see him win by a knockout as Tommy Hughes is too tough. Dado is taking Hughes seriously, and isn't going into the fight as though his opponent is a pushover.

When all the leading flyweights are taken into consideration, there isn't one who looks any better than Speedy Dado. The Filipino is about ready to make his New York debut and that is where he will have to go and fight before he will get recognition as champion. Dado had a sick arm that used to give him trouble during a fight but it is once more as it should be.

The supporting preliminary fights are likely to be a big feature of the show. Jackie Caston, Seattle newsboy, will once again try to beat Clayton Gouyd. A month ago this same pair were on the card when Dado Fought Harold Mathews. They stole the show. Caston is a favorite to win tonight.

There will be a bonus of $25 to each fighter in the most entertaining preliminary. The special event took the money last week. Art Molino fights Herbert Turchi in the six-round special. Frankie Abendino and Frankie Dias will be one four-rounder and Ora Smith fighting Jimmy Jones in the curtain raiser is the other.

The Cohn-Hunt team went into the final round by defeating Frank Parker, Milwaukee, and Robert Hutchinson, Lawrenceburg, Ind., 8-6, 2-6, 6-1, while Hebard and Hecht conquered Samuel Lee, Berkeley, Cal., and Caldwell Russell, Louisville, 6-1, 8-1.

Big Six

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Babe Herman rapped Guy Bush and Fred Blake for four hits in the double-header at Brooklyn yesterday and lifted his already high batting average one point to a dizzy .414. His nearest rivals for big six honors, Jimmy Foxx and Al Simmons, were idle. Rogers Hornsby got one hit in the opener and then drew a purse-collar at Ebbets Field. Babe Ruth went hitless, while Chuck Klein got one safety in four attempts.

ROUSSEAU WINS LIPTON EVENT

last midwinter series, actually led the field over the twelve mile course but she was accorded only sixth place on a handicap basis.

Walton Hubbard, a former international star-boat titleholder, copped the Santa Barbara Lipton Cup championship here today from a classy field, proving the assertion that he is the best all-around skipper in that class. Preston and Steward Plumb skippered their Westwind into second place and Tom and Rob Webster copped third position. R. Ray Schauer's Movie Star originally took third place but was disqualified. The Western Star was fourth.

These two Lipton Cup races marked the high spot of the regatta which ends here tomorrow. Churchill's eight-meter sloop Babe, scratch boat sailed by Ted Conant in the San Diego Lipton Cup race, was first to cross the line, but she could not save enough time to finish better than sixth. Conant was forced to give Rousseau an allowance of fifteen minutes and twelve seconds, which was the biggest allowance of the race.

The Maybe received a bigger allowance in the six-meter class because of a shorter sail area. There were three six-meter boats in the San Diego Lipton championship race here today. They were the Harpoon, the Maybe and the Spruner.

The star boats sailed at scratch. Walton Hubbard beat the Plumb brothers by twenty-two seconds in the final dash for the tape.

The San Diego sloops were off to a fine start, the Babe getting the weather berth. She crossed the line almost as the gun sounded. Babe led around the windward mark and outer buoys and turned the leeward tips at 2 o'clock, exactly one hour after the start.

Owen Churchill's Friendship, sister ship of the Babe, came about the leeward buoy about two minutes and thirty seconds after the eight-meter boat. Churchill's entries were in the lead in elapsed time at the end of six miles. On the handicap allowance, however, they failed to hold their own. The Maribel turned in at 2:03:05, just forty-five seconds after the Friendship; the others follow:

Eight-meter sloop Monidah, Charles Langlais, 2:18; the Angela, 2:05:24; the Aloha, at 2:03:46; the Zephyr at 2:06:15, and Tommy Lee's Harpoon at 2:05:20.

The Babe turned the leeward buoy at 2:37 for the second time and made for the finish line. The Monidah, her rival in the eight-meter class, was around a short time back to cross the line in second place but could get no better than tenth in corrected time.

The Maribel turned the marker at 3:03:35; the Friendship at 3:04:32, and the Angela at 3:05.

The star boat race was a very colorful affair, the Gold Star Tempe leading the Westwind about 300 feet at finish. Ray Schauer, a Los Angeles judge, was the defender and finished third with his Movie Star, but was disqualified. Tom Rog's Tom Robin moved into his place.

MERCURY SWIM STARS SIGN UP

Leading L.A.A.C. Performers Enter Classic

Will Compete in "Times" Pre-Olympic Event

Fourteen Now Accepted by Executive Body

Three swim stars from the Los Angeles Athletic Club yesterday turned in their entry blanks for The Times' Pre-Olympic swimming race to be held September 1 between the piers at Venice and Ocean Park.

The three, who were entered by Fred Cady, Mercury Club coach, are Julian (Tex) Robertson, Herbert Barthels and Fred Woods. Robertson is a 17-year-old youngster who is said to possess a great future as a swimming champion.

He has been swimming at the Mercury club for only the past three months but already Coach Cady predicts a bright future for the lad. He entered the two-mile marathon swim at Lake Arrowhead a few weeks ago and finished fourth despite the fact that he paddled far from the course. Officials estimated that he swam 600 yards too far.

Fred Woods has been a member of the L.A.A.C. team for the past year, having come to Los Angeles from New York where he was a participant in many long-distance races.

Barthels is a husky 185-pound athlete and a former football player of note at Polytechnic High School, where he was selected as an all-city tackle. His powerful physique will put him in good stead for the pre-Olympic swimming race, which will be over a course seven-eighths of a mile in length for men contestants.

In addition to the trio of Mercury athletes, one more Hollywood branch performer was officially accepted. He is Lawrence Hall, former Hollywood High aquatic star. The complete list of accepted entrants to date:

1—Austin Clapp, L.A.C.
2—George Harris, L.A.A.C.
3—Frank Wilson, L.A.C.
4—Marion Kimball, L.A.C.
5—Maurice Bacon, L.A.A.C.
6—Frank Smith, L.A.C.

DARO STAGES BENEFIT

Lou Daro, local wrestling promoter, will rise to the occasion in his home town of Glendale tonight when he stages a huge benefit boxing and wrestling carnival at the Broadway High School field. Proceeds of the event will go to the American Legion's various funds. Joe Stecher, former heavyweight champion and famed Nebraska schoolboy king, will feature the bill. Stecher is matched with "Wild Bill" Beth, rough-and-tumble artist. Nick Lutze will trade headlocks and toe holds with Don De Laun of Long Beach and Bob Kruse will tangle with George Koisonaras, the fiery Greek. In addition to the wrestling, several other events, including an appearance of Ace Hudkins, the "Wildcat," against two opponents, are on tap.

MIDWICK SHOWS 'EM

MIDWICK'S maiden polo performance in the East this summer apparently was quite a shock to the natives of that region. Beating a Texas team that holds the Southwest championship without recourse to the four goals generously bestowed by the handicapping committee simply adds to the Midwick glory.

But better than victory is the attention called to the class of polo played in this district.

All of which makes it so much easier to entice high-goal teams here from other regions.

The Midwick Club, for years the Southern California leader in all polo activities, has sought diligently to elevate the game of horse and mallet.

It has succeeded to a remarkable degree, and at a considerable expense of time and money.

It is betraying no secret that Midwick hopes to make next year's season the biggest of all by bringing West crack teams and players of national repute—and of foreign climes as well.

These announcements will be made in due course of time, and meanwhile such stirring triumphs as the Midwick four scored over Texas the other day will play a big part in the campaign.

Polo is an expensive game, but it is one that can be enjoyed from a grand-stand seat by poor and rich alike. It affords almost as much red-blooded conflict as football—more, in the estimation of its devotees.

CHRISTMAS FOR MANDELL

THIS looks like a rosy year for Sammy Mandell, king of the lightweights.

Just the other day he received about $50,000 for beating Tony Canzoneri and retaining his title.

And now Cleveland promoters want to make him another fifty grand present, this time for a bout with Billy Wallace.

Because he has been known to knock out opponents with right-hand punches Mr. Wallace, who hails from the city where the championship bout is to be held, is rated as a possible victor over Mandell.

So was Jimmy McLarnin, who also hits well with his right hand.

Mr. McLarnin is still trying to locate a landing spot on Mr. Mandell's anatomy, and there is no reason to suspect that Mr. Wallace will come any closer to striking Mandell on the pan than did McLarnin.

But then $50,000 is $50,000, and you can't blame Mr. Mandell for the promoters' credulity or that of the cash customers.

When you sift the facts there isn't a boxer in the game today with the technique of the Rockford flash.

And he's another one of those boys who are terrific shocks to the reformers because of their clean-cut appearances and living codes.

THE DOUR MR. MACK

LEFTY GROVE hung up his eighteenth victory of the season for the Athletics the other day, and it put the A's thirteen and one-half games in front of the Yanks.

It seems that with the season only a little over a month and a half to go the lean manager of the Athletics, Mr. Connie Mack, would begin to jubilate slightly, but instead he only seems to step a little harder on the gas.

A couple of weeks ago there was a possible chance that in case of an Athletic slump the Yanks might forge to the front and retain their American League championship.

Now there isn't a prayer.

But Mack, apparently because he has been kept away from the promised land for fourteen long years, won't peep.

If he lives up to present form he will wear a funeral plume when his team wins the world series from Chicago.

SCHMELING WILL WAIT

MAX SCHMELING has had his mind made up for him by Joe Jacobs again, and now he won't meet Phil Scott.

Jacobs has a better laugh. He is seeking a Jack Dempsey match for the Black Uhlan.

This will make a pleasant wait for all parties, particularly for Schmeling.

Dempsey starts promoting at Chicago in October, and he has just recently hooked up with Ward Cohn in the purchase of the Edgewater Beach Club at Santa Monica.

If either of those projects develops Mr. Dempsey will not return to the ring.

If they don't Mr. Dempsey still will not return to the ring again for another year—not until some synthetic champion is crowned and he is assured of getting the million bucks he names as the price for resuming ring activities.

THREE RACES SCHEDULED ON POLO GAME PROGRAM

Three races in addition to the usual polo game will be offered local mallet fans at the Uplifter ranch in Santa Monica Sunday, according to Snowy Baker, who yesterday announced that he had scheduled the trio of flat events. The first race is a three-eighths-mile sprint for polo ponies with women riders; the second is a quarter-mile dash for western horses with western equipment, and the third is a half-mile grind for all riders.

The game, between the Uplifters and the Santa Barbara four, promises to be a high-powered affair from start to finish. Last week, in their first tilt for the low-goal crown, the visitors scored a 9-7 victory, staving off an Uplifter rally in the final chukker that netted two goals.

The Santa Barbara team, headed by Long Jim Colt, will be the same one that performed last week, including C. H. Jackson, Hale Marsh and Rod Tower. The Uplifters have revamped their line-up considerably, Scott Hackley going in at No. 1, Will Rogers, Sr., taking over No. 2, and Lyell Puckett going in at No. 4. Hal Roach, captain of the team, remains at the No. 3 post.

SENATORS SIGN JONES, AND RELEASE RACHAC

SACRAMENTO, Aug. 18.—Lewis Morsing, owner of the Senators, today announced that Max Rachac, pitcher, had been unconditionally released for the second time in four weeks and that Deacon Jones, former Seal and Hollywood twirler, had been signed. Rachac started the season with the Solons and then was released. Soon after he was re-signed.

MERMAID SWIMS MARATHON

GENEVA (Switzerland) Aug. 18. (AP)—A young Dutch woman, Corry Llebrant, 21, of Utrecht, swam today from Lausanne to Geneva, distance of 60 kilometers, approximately 37 1-4 miles. She entered the water at 6:30 a.m. Wednesday and completed the grind at 5:30 p.m. Thursday, after being lost four or five hours with accompanying boats during the night.

CARDOZA AND BARBOUR MIX IN RING TONIGHT

Joe Cardoza, the hard-punching Ocean Park Mexican, will try to stop the rushes of Red Barbour when they meet in the ten-round main event at the Ventura Athletic Club tonight.

Barbour is the youngster with the knockout punch who has been scoring knockouts quite often of late. Tony Bevo and Jimmy Peterson were his latest victims. Promoter M. T. Shephardson has arranged for a classy preliminary card with Eddie Ruckman and Kenneth Johnson meeting in the six-round semi-final. Three other bouts are also carded.

CARUSO WINS HANDICAP

NEW YORK, Aug. 18. (AP)—A muddy track, heretofore a hoodoo to Caruso, W. R. Coe's speedy juvenile, proved no hindrance today as the flashy son of Polymelian plowed his way to an expected victory in the grab-bag handicap at Saratoga.

Good Golfers Usually Hook

BY SOL METZGER

At an open championship you'll see more hooks than slices. At your club championships and tournaments you'll see more slices than hooks. Average golfers usually slice. Good pro golfers, when off, usually hook.

Golf is an odd game. The average player taking it up struggles for some years with a slice. When he begins to improve he begins to hook. Then he's in bad shape for a season or two. A week of practice now and then when in this stage, instead of a daily round, would eliminate the trouble in a month or two. But none will practice except the best players. Which is rather good proof that they are best players because they practice.

The reason for the development from slices to hooks is that the dub tightens his body and wants to slug. He leads his clubhead in consequence. Then comes the time when he takes it easier and lets the arms do the work. Tenseness with them causes the hook, just as it does with the good pro when he's off his game. Relax, slicers, and you'll get over it. Tomorrow—why the finish is different with wood and iron.

Cure that hook or slice. Straighten out your drive by writing Sol Metzger, care of this paper, for free leaflet on Driving. Inclose stamped, addressed envelope.

MRS. MAY BUNDY BEATEN AT RYE

Charlotte Hosmer Chapin of Springfield, 6-3, 6-3. Mrs. Chapin is ranked No. 9 nationally.

Miss Greef eliminated Evelyn Parsons of Palo Alto, Cal., 6-3, 6-3, and Mrs. Harper put out Penelope Anderson of Richmond, Va., by similar scores.

In the men's division, Tilden continued his practice of losing a set to almost every opponent he has played in the current tournament. He overcame a 1-3 lead held by Berkeley Bell of Dallas, Tex., in the first set of their quarter-final round and finally won it at 8-6. Bell, however, came back to take the second at 6-2. Tilden bested the Texan in the third and deciding set, taking it at 6-2.

Doeg was carried to three sets by Gregory Mangin of Newark, N. J., but won, 6-4, 8-7, 6-3.

Hunter and Austin advanced without serious difficulty, Hunter beating Julius Seligson of New York, 6-4, 6-2, while Austin was eliminating Harold MacGuffin of Philadelphia, 6-2, 6-4.

There were several upsets in doubles play. Virginia Hillesry of Philadelphia and Dorothy Andrus of Stamford, Ct., eliminated Penelope Anderson and Mary Greef, 8-6, 7-5, and Virginia Rice, of Boston and Clara Louise Zinke of Cincinnati won from Mrs. Chapin and Josephine Cruickshank of Santa Ana, 6-4, 6-2.

In the men's doubles, George Lott and Doeg eliminated Feibleman and Anderson, 7-5 3-6, 6-4, while the English pair of Austin and J. S. Cliff defeated Hyde and Wilbur, 4-6, 9-7, 8-6, these matches were in the second round. In the third round, Fritz Mercur of Harrisburg and J. Gilbert Hall of Montclair defeated Frank Shields of New York and Donald Strachan of Princeton, 6-3, 9-7, and Hunter and Tilden defeated Tamio Abe and Eddie Jacobs, 6-4, 6-1.

Kenealy Wins Feature Race

Taking the lead from the start, Mel Kenealy, local dirt-track star, last night won the thirty-five-lap main-event race held at the American Legion Speedway with his Simplex special. Kenealy made the thirty-five turns in the fast time of 18m. 8.2s.

For second-place honors a hot fight was waged between Jimmy Sharp and Stubbie Bubblefield, Sharp finally winning out. Bubblefield was forced out of the race in the thirty-third lap with engine trouble. Walt May, who followed close behind, took third place. Ernie Triplett, who also was among the starters, was forced out of the race with a bad engine as he rounded the eighteenth lap.

Following are the results of the other races:

First race, eight laps. Won by Jimmy Sharp; Mel Kenealy, second, and Ernie Triplett, third.

Second race, eight laps. Won by Charlie Jolston; Cliff Vest, second, and Ken Stoddard, third.

Third race. Won by E. C. Woodford; Al Gordon, second; Phil Parise, third.

Fourth race, ten laps. Won by Art Bovys; Speed Mackley, second, and Ken Stoddard, third.

MALONE WINNER IN PASADENA GO

Jock Malone, veteran St. Paul middleweight, won the decision from Charles Long in the ten-round feature bout in the Pasadena arena last night. The crafty midwesterner had scant trouble in outpointing his foe. Willie Frazier outpointed Clyde Colvin in the six-round semifinal. The four-rounders: Andy Dumler won over Steve Hayden; Leonane Reahming outpointed Jim Martines, Happy Romero won over Lank Leonard.

hits but they were all bunched in the Cherubs' scoring rounds. On the other hand, Red Roberts and Lefty Peters were touched for thirteen safeties by the Reds, but at that the big sorrel-thatched right-hander would have finished the game but for some bad support from his mates.

The result of the local game dropped the Angels back to fourth place, a game and a half behind the leading Hollywood Stars and but one contest in back of the Reds and Seals, who are tied for second.

Berger was beaned in the fourth inning by Nelson right after Earl Webb had just finished hitting a home run over the right-field bleachers with two mates aboard the bags. Nelson was evidently a bit peeved about Webb's clout, but he undoubtedly received his orders to dust off Berger from Killefer, who is a firm believer in treating the opposition rough. The ball struck the Angel outfielder a glancing blow on the forehead as he was trying to get out of the way. Berger was knocked groggy, but remained in the game after receiving first aid from Trainer Frank Jacobs.

KILLEFER CHASED

Roberts gave the Reds a taste of Killefer's medicine in the sixth when he shot at Boone and forced the Mission slugger to hit the dirt. Boone, however, promptly singled on the next pitch and then followed the argument that saw Killefer sent to the showers by Umpire Cady.

Roberts also took a shot at Huffi and the ball hit Fuzzy's bat as he was falling to the ground. Huffi claimed the ball hit him on the wrist and Killefer took up the argument with so much vigor that Cady ordered the Red chief to the clubhouse.

Don't be surprised if there are a few "accidents" before this series ends because the athletes are all riled up.

The Missions scored a run in the first on Finn's double to center and Boone's single over second to get the jump on the Home Guards.

WEBB WALLOPS ONE

Nelson, however, ran into trouble in the fourth when the Angels put across three runs. Haney's single, Stata's double and Webb's long homer over the bleachers did the damage.

The Angels scored again in the fifth when Sandberg doubled, took third on Robert's bunt and tallied on Haney's long sacrifice fly to Christensen.

The Reds got a gift run in the sixth, which opened with Boone singling. Huffi forced Boone after the argument and then Sherlock singled to left, sending Fuzzy to third. Christensen hit a double to center to Jacobs, but Fuzzy was out and all hands were on the scoring. Stata moved to third on Stata's wild throw to the plate, but Hofmann forced Christensen to end the round.

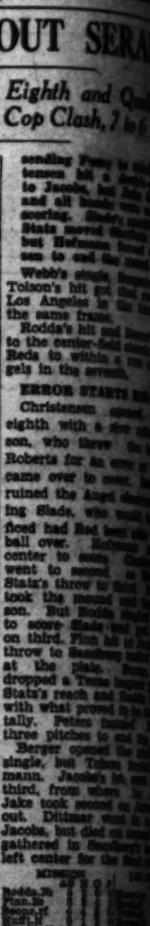
Webb's single, Haney's double, Tolson's hit and Stata's single gave Los Angeles its two runs in the seventh.

Rodda's hit and Haney's error put Reds to within a run of tying the score in the seventh.

ERROR STARTS RUN

Christensen opened the eighth with a slow roller to Nelson, who threw the ball to Roberts for an error as Rodda came over to score. Boone ruined the Angel chances by forcing Slade, who would have forced Rodda at second, to fumble the ball over. Hofmann moved to center to score Christensen and went to second as Stata's throw to third went wild, letting Slade take third. Finn hit to Nelson, who threw to Sweeney at the plate. Sweeney dropped a Texas leaguer to Stata's reach and Slade scored with what proved to be the winning tally. Peters fanned on three pitches to end the inning.

Berger opened the eighth with a single, but Tolson forced Hofmann. Jacobs hit one to third, from where Haney to Jake took second to force Tolson out. Dittmar went in to run for Jacobs, but died on second as Sweeney gathered in Sandberg's fly to left center for the third out.



CAMPOLO WINS OVER HEENEY

lost his title. In the nine rounds Heeney was on the floor twice, once for no count in the eighth and finally in the ninth just before the end came. To the 18,000 fans gathered in the National League ball park, these were the only moments when the fight was not jammed with thrilling action.

HEENEY WEAKENS

Heeney fought an aggressive, punishing battle that held the South American giant even for the first seven rounds. Then the thudding right - hand punches Campolo hurled into Tom's body from the opening gong took their toll. Once his strength was sapped Heeney weakened fast, soon became a mark for Campolo's right crosses to the chin, and held up on courage alone through the eighth and what there was of the ninth rounds.

Campolo, 6 feet 7 inches tall, and possessed of probably the longest reach in ring history, eighty-eight inches, reached down from his great height and welcomed the constantly charging New Zealander with chugging rights to the body, rights to the head, and now and then left hooks that were equally damaging. When necessary, the Argentine was able to stand Tom off with his long left hand, jabbing tantalizingly to the face, while he awaited and always found a spot to land that scoring right.

Heeney tested the South American giant in the early rounds for everything that a fighting man should have. He found that tonight, at least, Campolo possessed everything necessary.

Tom bulled Campolo around the ring in the first round, easily hooking lefts to the Argentine's face, but always taking right-hand smashes to the body that soon had the New Zealander's left side livid. In the third and fourth sessions, Heeney forced Campolo to break ground and stand up under steady punishment with a steady dogged attack that hammered down the Argentine's guard and brought a studious look to his wide, swarthy face.

TOM TAKES COUNT

Tom shot his bolt in the fifth, weakening under that terrific body bombardment, but a final despairing rally gave him an edge in the seventh session, when Campolo, caught on the ropes, was forced to fight his way out of trouble. But from that point on Heeney faded rapidly, his stamina gone.

The South American nailed Heeney with one crushing right after another to the chin in the eighth and in the ninth caught Tom in a neutral corner as Tunney did last summer. The smashes piled up on Heeney's head, his knees crumbled, and he went down for a count of five. When he came up he was in such bad shape that the referee had to lead him on trembling and rubbery legs to his own corner.

After the battle Heeney declared in his dressing-room that Campolo was the "greatest fighter I ever faced." "No one," he said, "ever hit me as hard as that giant did with those right hands. I think he'll be the next heavyweight champion."

AMERICAN YACHT WINS OVER GERMANS IN HOOVER CUP RACE

MARBLEHEAD (Mass.) Aug. 15. (AP)—The American thirty-square meter yacht Tipler III, owned and sailed by S. Arthur Shuman, Jr., won today's international race with the German boats for the President Hoover cup. The American boat crossed the finish line a scant nine seconds ahead of the Gluckauf, owned and sailed by Hans Stinnes, of Germany. Three American and as many German boats participated in the first day's sailing, which was won by the former yachtsmen, 11 points to 10. The American yacht Oriole, sailed by Miss Elizabeth Hovey, of Brookline, the first girl skipper ever to sail in an international race, finished third. The winning boat's time was 1:38:07 and the Gluckauf's 1:38:16. Miss Hovey's craft finished eight seconds after the first of the three German yachts crossed the line.

JOHNS BAFFLES SEAL SLUGGERS

tempted double steal. Johns bluffed Jahn back toward third and finally tagged him himself for the third out.

Hollywood went to the front by scoring four in the third, and got them after two were out. With two men out, Rollings beat out an infield tap and Funk followed with a hit. Then Rumler hit a lazy fly to right that hit the fence just out of Jolley's reach and two runs were scored. Along came Big Hank Severeid with a smack into the left-field bleachers, scoring Rumler ahead.

Old Hank got four hits during the afternoon, so he had quite a hand in the victory. He got two doubles and a single on Tuesday; he picked up a homer on Wednesday and helped himself to two singles, a double and a home run today. Bill Lane did a smart stroke of business when he took Hank on after the latter was released by the faltering Senators.

The Seals scored in the third when Gus Suhr belted a double to score Crosetti and then Johns subdued them until the ninth when they put on a little rally to score two more.

PICK UP TWO IN EIGHTH

But meanwhile Hollywood scored a couple in the eighth and again Mails was the victim of ill luck. Funk opened the inning with a hit but was forced at second by Rumler. Kid Severeid drove a double along the third-base line that was fair by one inch. That put runners on third and second and only one man out, so the Seals' infield crept in close.

Mickey Heath slammed a line drive that Ike Caveney stuffed backhanded with his glove but could not hold, and two more runs scored. Had Ike been playing back he could have caught the ball easily and perhaps made a double play. But the ball went safe, two runs scored, and that gave Johns a safe margin on which to work the last two innings. Score:

JONES IMPRESSES RING FOLLOWERS

Gorilla Jones yesterday stepped his best at the Manhattan gymnasium and made a good impression. The negro comes here from Ohio with a great record and he will doubtless be the favorite over Dummy Mahan at the Olympic next Tuesday night.

However, Mahan has picked up a big following by his sensational hitting in recent bouts. He floored Mushy Callahan twice and he knocked Paul De Hate out like a Dempsey.

Fred Winsor claims that Mahan has scored fifty knockouts in seventy-eight fights—twenty of them coming since the Dummy has been in his stable.

> Mahan was in rare form at the Main Street yesterday. He is hitting so har in training that Winsor is using extra sized gloves to protect himself against damage suits.

In boxing eight rounds, Mahan knocked two sparring mates stiff and he staggered Joe Roche, a stablemate.

Tonight the Dummy will be guest of honor at the Sphinx Club where he will be presented with a silk bathrobe. The Sphinx society has ordered a block of 500 seats set aside for them.

Suey Welch matches this with an order coming from the Goodyear people for another block of tickets. These are the Jones backers. The Gorilla was developed in Akron, home of Goodyear.

Jones has fought six times in Madison Square Garden since last December and he will return there to box the opening show of the New York palace next month.

The Olympic has been trying to pair Jones with Hudkins here, but this has probably blown up. Hudkins turned down an offer of $15,000 to box Jones at Cleveland some time ago. Jackie Fields was made the same offer, but directed himself toward Joe Dundee to win the welterweight championship of the world.

HAWKINS REQUESTS NEW GODFREY GO

Suey Welch yesterday declined an offer for K. O. Christner, who is in the same stable with Jones, to box Long Tom Hawkins or George Godfrey here.

"Christner is a small man compared to those two giants and it would be a bad match all the way round," said Welch. "My fighter weighs only 185 pounds and he is a short fellow."

Frank Churchill has broadcast to the world that Hawkins stands ready to fight Godfrey at any time or place for money, marbles or chalk. He thinks he has the greatest giant in the land.

LA BARBA ACCEPTS McINTYRE BATTLE

Fidel La Barba has tentatively accepted a match at Ventura for a week from tonight. His opponent is to be Ray McIntyre, Filipino.

It is possible that Fidel may meet Bud Taylor here before departing for Europe with his manager, George Blaka.

Carter Signs for New Date Against Hess

pression. He knocked out Baby Sal Sorio and Doc Snell.

Wadhams offered Mack the September 10 date with the winner of the Carter-Hess fight, but Mack is unable to wait that long due to school plans.

Wadhams then booked Joe Anderson and Vincent Forgione for the 10th. Anderson is boxing in Portland before coming to Los Angeles.

Ace Hudkins had figured to get either Anderson or Forgione and is considerably "put out" like Mack. The Hudkins brothers said that the Wildcat might go east next week.

GIANTS COP

NEW YORK, Aug. 15. (AP)—A five-run rally in the seventh, topped by Melvin Ott's thirty-first home run, enabled the Giants to defeat the Cardinals by 9 to 7 here today in the opener of a three-game series. It was a see-saw game in which eight pitchers were employed, five of them by the Giants.

Both of the starting pitchers, Bill Walker and Hal Haid, were injured. Walker departed in the second inning after injuring his throwing arm tossing a curve. Haid was forced to retire when Fullis drove a terrific smash at his leg in the seventh. The ball struck the pitcher under the knee. Score:

LUTZE PERFECTS DEFENSE

Youthful Nick Working on Holds to Stop Stecher in Olympic Feature Wrestling Bout

A combination of grips that are expected to weaken Joe Stecher's powerful legs to such an extent that he will be ineffective with his crushing body scissor hold will be used by Nick Lutze, the local mat star, when he meets the 220-pound Nebraskan at the Olympic Wednesday night in a finish bout that will mark the second round of Lou Daro's big elimination mat tournament.

At the present time Lutze is developing a combination leg jackknife scissor and split hold for this purpose. The leg jackknife is applied at the knee, and is said to be more paralyzing than the jackknife on the arm. Lutze clamps the hold on from the side. The leg he uses to lock the grip in place with he will push up against Stecher's other leg to complete a perfect split and leg jackknife.

This is the first time in mat history here that such a combination hold ever has been devised for use against the former title-holder, and it also is the first time that any top-notch grappler will go into the ring with an offense, instead of a defense, for the Nebraskan's winning hold.

Lutze stated yesterday that he did not fear Stecher's body scissors as much as he did Joe Malcewicz's backward body slam. He expects his offense against the Nebraskan's pet hold to work as perfectly as the defense he had against the Utican's backward slam, and he believes he will pin Stecher, two out of three times, quicker than he did Malcewicz.

The young mat star broke away from Stecher's scissors five times in succession in their first match, a feat that has never been duplicated since. Lutze is certain he can turn the trick again, if necessary. His new combination hold will not only weaken Stecher's legs to guard against any possibility of him getting his great strength into them, but it will also serve to slow up the former champion to such an extent that he will be unable to protect himself against Lutze's rushes.

Bob Kruse, the new young mat sensation, who made a big hit with the local fans when he defeated Ad Herman of St. Louis here last week, was signed by Promoter Daro yesterday to appear in the special event. A topnotcher is being sought by the promoter to face him.

CUBS DIVIDE WITH ROBINS

of the ninth after Rube Bressler had been called out for being hit by a batted ball. Frederick followed with a home run, bringing McLaughlin back to third base and within range of the bottle throwers in the stands. Police checked the bombardment and escorted the umpires off the field at intermission. Another volley of bottles marked the final exit of the umpires.

Hornsby and Frederick hit for the circuit in the opener and Cuyler in the nightcap. It was Hornsby's twenty-sixth.

A CHUCKLE FOR EVERYBODY

THE RETURN OF TARZAN

By Edgar Rice Burroughs

Over Tarzan's head the shot whirred harmlessly. Before his concealed enemy could fire again, the ape-man had wrested the firearm from him and dragged forth the struggling figure. It was Rokoff, the Russian, alias "Monsieur Thuran." Jane pleaded with Tarzan to leave the wretch to the laws of France, and so the sailors carried him in irons aboard the cruiser.

But first he was searched and, to Tarzan's delight, the stolen papers were found. A moment after this excitement had died down, Jane introduced Tarzan to Tennington. "John Clayton, Lord Greystoke, my lord," she said. It required many repetitions of the ape-man's strange story to convince Lord Tennington that they were not all quite mad.

Late the next afternoon Tarzan and his warriors returned with the first load of his "belongings." When the party saw the ancient ingots of virgin gold, they swarmed about the ape-man with a thousand questions. But Tarzan smilingly refused to give them the slightest clue as to the source of his immense treasure, adding: "There are a thousand that I left behind!"

When they had stored this aboard the cruiser, the captain said he felt like the commander of an old-time Spanish galleon returning from the treasure cities of the Aztecs. "I don't know what minute my crew will cut my throat and take over the ship," he laughed. But Tarzan valued the gold as nothing, compared to the golden-haired girl he had rescued from the golden city.

Ramon Novarro has been chosen as godfather, and Julia D'Annunzio, cousin of Gabriele O'Annunzio, the poet, will be Liana's godmother. The ceremonies will be conducted according to all the best traditions of an Italian christening, and about 200 friends of Mr. and Mrs. Schipa are expected to attend.

Following the formal christening at the church the Schipa home at 614 North Alpine Drive, Beverly Hills will be the scene of further celebration when guests will be received from 4 until 7 p.m. Among those who have signified their intention of being present are Mary Pickford, Lilyan Tashman, Andres De Segurola and many others from the motion-picture colony.

The Schipas have another daughter, Elena, who is 8 years of age.

AWARDING OF ALIMONY REVERSED

Judge Reconsiders Giving Fund to Mrs. Roberts and Orders New Hearing

Superior Judge Fullen reconsidered the divorce case of Blanche B. Roberts against Frank S. Roberts yesterday, and revoked the order he made Tuesday, giving Mrs. Roberts $250 a month alimony and $750 attorney's fees.

Judge Fullen said he set aside his former order because he was under a misapprehension regarding the status of $250,000 worth of community property involved in the case. Mrs. Roberts stated the property was under her husband's control, and Judge Fullen said that his first impression gained from perusing Roberts's affidavit, was that the defendant admitted such ownership. Later, the court held, it appeared that the control of the property was doubtful.

The court fixed the date of a second hearing regarding the property for the 30th inst. At that time it will be determined if the property exists, and if so, who has charge of it.

Mrs. Roberts sued for divorce asserting that her husband misconducted himself with Madeline Morley, who was named as co-respondent.

SOCIAL LAW MAY ENTER KNIFE CASE

Sprinkling of Ashes and Other Infractions Cited as Provoking Assault

The rules of social etiquette may be read into the law of the State of California on September 4, next, when Lloyd A. Robertson, 28-year-old oil worker, goes to trial in Department Twenty-one of Superior Court on a charge of assault with a deadly weapon. It was revealed yesterday by the records in Superior Judge Aggeler's court.

It is charged that Robertson, while attending a party in the apartment of Thelma Holmgren, 1304 West Eleventh street, attacked Joe Allen, another oil worker, with a pocket knife, inflicting a wound in his side.

Through his attorney, S. S. Hahn, Robertson yesterday pleaded not guilty to the charge when taken before Judge Aggeler. Robertson contends that he remonstrated with Allen after he had sprinkled cigarette ashes on the rugs and spat on the floor, requesting him to conduct himself in a more refined manner and that Allen then assaulted and choked him. Robertson drew his knife and slashed Allen slightly in self-protection, he contends.

Local Couple Face Sentence in Liquor Case

Convicted of violating the Wright Act, Mrs. Margaret Gill, 49 years of age, of Studio City, and George Stoddard, asserted partners in unlawful liquor operations, are scheduled to appear for sentence this afternoon before Municipal Judge Sheldon.

The pair were found guilty of possessing several gallons of liquor, found in a chicken house near a still at the home of Mrs. Gill. Felony charges against both are set for trial in Superior Court on September 19, next.

According to evidence introduced the key to the room in which the still was found was taken from the purse of Mrs. Gill and fingerprints on a gallon jar found by officers near the still corresponded with those of Stoddard's. The case was prosecuted by Dep. Dist.-Atty. Crail.

SOCIETY

BY JUANA NEAL LEVY

Given in marriage by her father, Miss Delia French Shull, attractive daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Howard Shull, Jr., became the bride Monday evening at 8:30 p.m. of Robert Shirley Richardson, with Rev. F. C. Gould of Pasadena officiating, in St. John's chapel before a group of intimate friends and relatives.

Gowned in white mousseline de soie, made along princess lines with circular skirt, and trimmed in tulle and tiny pink roses, the bride carried a shower of white roses, white sweet peas, lilies and maidenhair fern. Her veil of antique imported tulle, an heirloom of Mrs. Earl Judson Fellows, was worn first by Mrs. Fellows in 1893, and since then has played its part in the weddings of three other brides.

Miss Lucille Eldridge assisted the bride as maid of honor, wearing Alencon lace and pink chiffon and carrying pale pink sweet peas, while the bridesmaids, Miss Martha Richardson, sister of the bridegroom, Miss Elizabeth Martin and Miss Isabel Hand were in varying shades of pink chiffon the skorts ruffled to the floor and matching flower-trimmed tulle caps. They carried gladioli and delphinium.

Mr. Richardson chose for his best man Dr. Seth B. Nicholson of Mt. Wilson Observatory, and as ushers John Parker, Forster Blynn and James Eldridge. Roland Diggle at the organ played Shubert's "Serenade," Rachmaninoff's "Romance," preceding the ceremony, Liszt's "Liebestraum" and the two wedding marches. The soloist was Mrs. Alice Stansfield.

A reception followed at the home of the bride's parents in South Harvard Boulevard, and included the bridal party, sorority sisters of the bride and the two families. Mr. and Mrs. Richardson left immediately afterward by motor for a honeymoon in the north, where they will make their home for the remainder of the year.

The bride attended the University of California at Los Angeles, where she was affiliated with Pi Kappa Sigma Sorority, and was graduated last year from Holmby College, where she was active in dramatics. Since then she has been attending Mills College, her mother's alma mater. Mr. Richardson, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Joel Howard Richardson of West Eighth street, was graduated from the University of California at Los Angeles, and was a member of Pi Mu Epsilon, honorary mathematics fraternity, as well as captain of the track team in 1926. He now is studying for his doctor's degree in astronomy at the University of California.

FITTS TELLS OF BRIBE TRAP

How Evidence Was Obtained Against Newport and Clarke in Judge Stafford Case Recounted

The story of how the District Attorney's office laid a trap for Fred P. Newport, wealthy Los Angeles realty dealer, and Robert D. Clarke, former Municipal Court clerk charged with conspiracy to bribe Municipal Judge Stafford in a civil action, was told yesterday by Dist.-Atty. Fitts in Superior Judge Doran's court where Newport and Clarke are on trial.

The District Attorney occupied the witness stand for more than two hours telling in detail how Judge Stafford came to him and asked for aid in getting evidence against the defendants.

DICTOGRAPH USED

Thereupon, Dist.-Atty. Fitts said, he ordered a dictograph installed in Judge Stafford's chambers and stationed deputies to listen to any conversation that Clarke might have with the jurist.

The District Attorney also testified that Clarke told him in the presence of Judge Stafford, after his arrest, that if he should tell Newport that Judge Stafford "is willing" Newport would pay him any amount of money that he asked to settle the case.

The asserted bribery attempt concerns a civil case decided against Newport by Judge Stafford while sitting in Superior Court, and it is charged that Newport, through Clarke, sought to have Judge Stafford reverse his decision.

WHEELER TESTIFIES

Earlier in the day, J. E. Wheeler, an investigator for the District Attorney's office, testified that while he was returning Newport from Balboa to Los Angeles, where he was to testify before the grand jury, Newport said that he only "wanted to see if Judge Stafford would take a bribe."

The trial will be resumed this morning with only three more prosecution witnesses to be questioned.

Capt. Robertson Gets Clean Bill in Denison Case

The Fire Commission yesterday heard verbal reports from Commissioner Laws and Acting Chief McDowell, who investigated the circumstances of Fire Captain Alexander Robertson being named in a note left by Mrs. Grace Denison, who committed suicide last Saturday. The commission decided the circumstances left no further action to be taken in the matter.

Commissioner Laws and Acting Chief McDowell both expressed the belief that Capt. Robertson had done nothing for which he could be censured by the department and that reported withholding of information of the suicide had been to protect the name of the woman and her family.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Colitis

Question: Reader asks: "Will you kindly state what is meant by the following: 'A colon bordering or diverticulosis.'

(1.) What are some of the causes of colitis? (2.) Should one suffering from colitis be on a diet? If so, will you kindly suggest what one should refrain from eating? (3.) Do you think colonic irrigations are very helpful?"

Answer: This simply means that pockets are forming in the colon in which food lodges, where it decomposes and putrefies more readily. (1.) Wrong food, too much food, bad combinations, and everything which can produce constipation. (2.) Diet is the only cure, and no special "queer" foods are necessary. Just follow the diet recommended in my weekly menus. (3.) The daily enema is perhaps the best single treatment that can be given for colitis. In severe cases, two or three enemas daily should be used, and at least one enema taken over a period of several weeks. They are always helpful and can be no more harmful than washing the face as long as you use only plain water.

Pimples

Question: J. H. K. writes: "I am 17 years old, and for about a year I have had pimples. My weight is about right, but I have been taking cream to get a little heavier. Could too much cream, butter, or tomatoes be the cause?"

Answer: Certain kinds of pimples are no doubt caused by the use of too much oil and fat. Try a diet free from butter, milk, cream and the fat of meat and see if your skin trouble does not clear up.

Child Grinds Teeth

GUIDING YOUR CHILD

ADVENTURE

By Mrs. Agnes Lyne

Twelve-year-old Jim came running to his mother with a burning wish upon his lips.

"Joe and I want to go on a hike—a long one over to Litchfield to see Lou."

"Why, Jim, that's thirty miles," said his mother in surprise.

"I know it is, but we could do it easy in four or five days. Can we, mom, can we?"

"Well, I—guess—so."

"Come on, Jim," said Joe. "let's get out the road map and see how we are going." Together they pored over the map and marked out the route they would take.

"There's just one thing I'm going to ask of you," said their mother. "Wherever you are, call me up each evening between six and nine, then I'll know you are all right and I won't worry about you."

Next day mother gave the boys money enough to bring them home in case of emergency and waved good-by as they walked out of the front gate.

Of course mother did worry a good deal but told herself that it was in a good cause, for she believed in adventure. She believed that its thrills were a rightful part of her boys' lives. She was glad they had wanted to go. She was pleased with their self-reliance and initiative. She knew that the possibility of their coming to harm was slight indeed. She trusted their good sense and their good sportsmanship.

One day your children will come to you and ask you to let them go adventuring. Let them go. Make sure the risk is not too great; safeguard them with money in case of emergency; and wish them good luck.

BANDIT BINDS AND GAGS HIS VICTIM

After binding and gagging his victim, a bandit yesterday rifled the cash register of the Blue Bird Confectionery store at 926 West Sixth street of $105. He is believed to have fled in a taxicab. R. A. Martin, clerk, reported the bandit, flourishing a pistol, forced him to lie down on the floor at the rear of the store while he tied his hands and feet with rope and gagged him with a handkershief. Shortly after the bandit's departure a customer found and released Martin.

This department offers leaflets on weaning and feeding the child from 6 weeks to 6 years, prenatal care and diet for the nursing mother, constipation, eczema, outfits for the new baby, sleeping, walking, lactation, thumb-sucking, ammoniacal urine, bed wetting, training in cleanly habits, periods of nursing, cod liver oil, orange juice, hives, worms, vomiting, refractory children, spasmodic croup, lime water, rupture, styes and boils, and cradle cap. Before asking a personal question about one of these subjects, it is better to send a self-addressed stamped envelope for the leaflet you need. COLIC—ITS SYMPTOMS AND TREATMENT

Colic presents itself almost as soon as the baby. In fact, the moment the baby cries and reddens at any time before or after a feeding period, his new family is certain to draw a ready-made diagnosis out of its memory and call it "colic."

When the poor lamb has colic so-called or real, he is dosed with medicine, relieved by enemas, wrapped in blankets, and even if he is just plain hungry and not colicky at all, he is apt to go to sleep under these tender ministrations and warm drinks and wrappings.

Mothers should be able to recognize real colic pains. Baby turns red whenever he cries, but it is only when he has colic that his small abdomen is taut and hard, that his hands and feet are like ice and that he is literally doubled-up with pain. The gas in bowels and stomach, caused by too much food, is responsible for his misery, and it is our duty to relieve the pain at once. Warm water to drink, a change of position and warm blankets wrapped around him will make him belch and feel more comfortable. A warm enema will rid him of the gas in the intestines.

But we must hunt down the cause of his colic. Too frequent nursings or long periods of nursing are more often responsible than the quality of the milk. Mother's milk is made just for baby and should in every case give less trouble than any other food. If it seems satisfactory, we should decide that not the milk, but the manner in which it is fed is at fault, and try to alter that to end the indigestion.

Colic which comes on at a certain hour every day, while at all other hours the baby is free from pain, should not be called colic. It doesn't seem reasonble that if the baby digests every other feeding in the day and remains comfortable, he should be doubled up after one particular feeding. If a mother writes, "Baby sleeps all day and then after 6 o'clock he cries until his 10 o'clock feeding," we should look beyond colic for the cause of such regular pains. The last feedings in the day are notoriously the acantiest. Pain after these feedings would more reasonably indicate that baby isn't filled up, and so he howls until the next meal. Weighing before and after each nursing would tell exactly how much he gains, and how many ounces he has received from his mother.

"Is there such a thing as six weeks' colic and three months' colic?" I am asked. There are babies, of course, whose digestive apparatuses have difficulty coping with almost any kind of food, but they are in the minority. The usual six weeks' colic or three months' colic is just a period of hunger. When by some lucky chance the mother hits on a nourishing food for the baby, or the breast milk becomes adequate, the so-called colic vanishes overnight. It seems wicked to dose babies with medicines when all they need is food in order to be happy and comfortable. One needs to be careful about diagnosing as colic everything which makes a baby draw up his feet and cry.

SEPULVEDA JOB GIVEN APPROVAL

Webster Wins Fight for Improvement to Provide New Traffic Link

Councilman Webster yesterday won his victory for the construction of Sepulveda Boulevard as a nine-mile link through the Santa Monica Mountains from Ventura Boulevard to Wilshire Boulevard, after a hearing which held the City Council overtime. Councilman Randall, who has been opposing the project by seeking delays, managed to tack on an amendment, apparently agreeable to all concerned, whereby the Board of Public Works proceeds to call for bids for the paving of the job with eight inches of pavement, fifty-four feet wide. Webster's resolution calls for the grading, seventy feet wide, with the construction of a tunnel under Mulholland High Way.

The only negative vote was cast by Councilman Williams, who announced last week that he "wears no man's collar." When Williams found himself alone he insisted on explaining his vote. He said he does not oppose the project, but is suspicious of the way Council handled the matter.

Woman Denies Disposing of Flying School

Theresa J. Kelly, president of the California School of Aeronautics, yesterday denied reports from the East that she has disposed of her interest in the school at Kelly's airport, Hawthorne, for the purpose of concentrating her attention on management of the municipal airport at Exeter, N. H., and the operation of a school there.

The Exeter school, she explained, will be merely a branch of the Hawthorne school. Some of the students in the latter may make cross-country trips to Exeter for ground work, she said. All the planes used, according to Kelly, will be the new T.P. training ships recommended by the Department of Commerce for training purposes.

Plane Refunding Plan Considered

A refunding arrangement which would return to air passengers a stipulated amount per minute for every minute a plane is late on a regular scheduled run may be inaugurated soon by the Universal Air Lines.

H. J. McNally, assistant general traffic manager of the midwestern air transportation system, said such a plan would be as a result of traffic figures recently compiled by Universal from experience gained in commercial flights by its planes of more than 3,000,000 miles.

Universal, in addition to numerous daily local schedules in the Middle West, maintains a daily East-West air-rail connection from Garden City, Kan., to Cleveland, O., accepting passengers from the Santa Fe at Kansas City and transferring them to the New York Central at Cleveland.

Kennedy Ellsworth announced that the next meeting of the local junior chamber will be at the Biltmore at noon September 5. A short-wave set has been installed in the plane and the program is to be picked up and rebroadcast on KMTR's regular frequency, it is said.

KTM calls special attention to 8:30 p.m., when the studio concert ensemble and singers will be assisted by Lucy Day, soprano, and Will Maggiinetie, baritone.

The hour is billed as a "Merrie England" program, the numbers to include "Scenes From an Imaginary Ballet," by S. Coleridge Taylor; Grainger's "Country Gardens," folk songs by the baritone and Shakespearean tunes by the orchestra.

Lucy Day is to sing the Cyril Scott "Blackbirds," while one of the orchestra selections is to be "March of the Giants" from "Fairyland," by Frederick Cowen.

NEWS OF THE CAFES

"Suntan Babies," new number with lyrics by Judy Marvel and music by Lee Phelps, will be introduced in the current "Futuristique" revue at the Pom Pom, Hollywood, tonight.

Clarice Gannon, youthful tap dancer from Earl Carroll's "Vanities," will lead this number, which is a slow fox tune with a soothing rhythm, and will be recorded next week for disc release by the Pom Pom Night Owls orchestra.

SPECIAL DINNER PLANNED

Because of the increasing popularity of the Sunday night dinners at the Montmartre, Eddie Brandstatter announces a specially arranged dinner, served family style. No cover charge is levied for this event, thereby making it possible for the family to dine in elegance at a reasonable cost.

Adding to the charm of the Sunday night event is Margit Hegerus's Hungarian stringed quartet, which presents classical and semiclassical numbers.

BUILDING REMODELED

In keeping with the progress and improvements now being made on Hollywood Boulevard, the front of the Harmony Cafeteria Building, located on Hollywood Boulevard just east of Vine street, has been remodeled. The new cream-colored front is of Spanish design, artistically decorated with bright Neon lights.

The Harmony enjoys an enviable reputation for its good wholesome foods, featuring crisp salads, homemade pastries, fresh vegetables and deliciously prepared chicken.

TEA ROOM POPULAR

That Madame Helene's Paramount Tea Room, situated at the entrance to Paramount Studios, is popular with noted stars of the screen is attested by the increasing numbers who dine there daily.

Ramon Novarro was host last week at a delightful luncheon to Mr. and Mrs. Fred Niblo. Another interesting party was that of Mr. Maurice Chevalier, to Miss Elsie Janis. Other prominent stars reported to have dined there recently were Nell Hamilton, Lila Lee, John Farrow and Mary Brian.

NEW CAFE OPENS

With one of the most brilliant openings to take place in Los Angeles in a decade Paul Perrot's Cafe, opposite Westlake Park on Seventh street, opened last night with screen and stage celebrities participating in the initial celebration.

One of the sensations of the evening was the Laughner-Harris Orchestra, considered by many to be among the finest dance orchestras in California. A collegiate dancing contest will be held tonight with a valuable prize being awarded the winners.

TEACHER HONORED

A banquet was held recently in the Granada Tea Room on Lafayette Park Place, near Wilshire Boulevard, in honor of Prof. Thomas C. Trueblood, by his class in public speaking at the University of Southern California. He was visiting professor during the summer session at U.S.C., coming from the University of Michigan. The tables were tastefully decorated and thirty guests were present. The arrangements were in charge of Dean Ray K. Immel of the University of Southern California.

SCHOOL SITE ZONE RULING FACES FIGHT

Board Plans Appeal to Council Over Protests on Westwood Building

Superintendent of Schools Bouelle and Secretary Sheldon of the Board of Education were instructed by the board yesterday to appeal to the City Council against an adverse decision of the City Planning Commission on Wednesday on the board's application for a spot-zoning permit which would enable the board to erect school buildings on the Warner-avenue school site. The site is located in an "A," or single-family residence, zone.

At several hearings on the application, which were conducted by the City Planning Commission, arguments were made in favor of granting it not only by representatives of the board, but also representatives of the University of California and of the Janss Investment Company, which sold the site to the school district. However, owners of property across the street from the site appeared in protest and the commission upheld their protest.

In such matters the action of the commission is only in the nature of a recommendation and the final decision rests with the City Council if an appeal is taken against the recommendation.

At present the board has no intention of erecting a regular school building on the site, but had desired to place on it eight bungalows and a sanitary building which are now on the old campus of the University of California at Los Angeles.

AERIAL QUEENS TUNING MOTORS

One Makes Forced Landing on Arizona Mountain

New Engine Rushed There So She Can Compete

Six Men Enter Nonstop Race to Cleveland

While Ruth Nichols, New York aviatrix, was directing installation of a new motor in her airplane after a remarkable dead-stick landing on an Arizona mountainside, the other eighteen women entrants in the National Women's Air Derby late yesterday were grooming their ships for Sunday's race take-off and six men pilots were registered for a nonstop air classic from Santa Monica to the National Air Races of Cleveland.

An oil line leading to the motor on Miss Nichols's ship is reported to have broken last Wednesday while over Flat Top Mountain, fifteen miles from Salome, Ariz. Without motor power Miss Nichols set her plane down successfully on the north side of the mountain and walked most of the way to Salome, where she sent word here to Mrs. William Gibbs McAdoo, Jr.

A crew of mechanics loaded a new motor into a transport plane and took off from Grand Central Air Terminal yesterday, hoping to get the motor installed in time to have Miss Nichols on the derby starting line at Clover Field next Sunday at 2 p.m.

DINNER IN SKY

A novel farewell good-luck dinner party will take to the air tonight at 7:30 o'clock in a Maddux transport plane from Grand Central Air Terminal. Mayor Michel of Santa Monica will entertain as guests in the plane six of the women derby entrants.

Each aviatrix will broadcast over KMTR through a national hookup during the air dinner party. A special short-wave set has been installed in the ship by Freeman Lang and Royal Howard and the local broadcasting station will pick up the air talk and turn it loose again.

Edith Foltz of Portland, Or., is expected to land here today to complete the starting line-up of women flyers who will compete for eighteen lap prizes, averaging $500 each, and a grand prize of $3000 and seven valuable trophies.

The Santa Monica Exchange Club and National Exchange Club are sponsoring the derby and announced that the 26th inst., the date the women will finish at Cleveland, has been set aside as Exchange Club day at the national air races.

MEN READY FOR DASH

The six men pilots who expect to fly between here and Cleveland in fifteen hours or less are Art Goebel of Los Angeles, Pacific Coast-Hawaiian Island and transcontinental pilot; Capt. Frank Hawks of Los Angeles and New York, holder of both transcontinental nonstop speed records; Lee Shoenhair of Los Angeles, transcontinental flyer; Bob Cantwell, winner of last year's Class C air derby; John P. Wood, winner of last year's national air tour Harry J. Brown, Cleveland air-mail pilot, and Oliver C. Leboutillier of New York.

Capt. Hawks, Shoenhair, Cantwell and Wood all will fly fast Lockheed monoplanes, each powered with a Pratt-Whitney Wasp motor. Goebel will pilot a Cessna monoplane, equipped with a Wasp. The other pilots are keeping their entries secret until starting time, any day during the national air races, scheduled from the 24th inst. to September 2, next. They will be allowed to take off at any time between those dates from Clover Field, but will have to land at Cleveland between 1 and 6 p.m. on the day they select.

DRESS CHIEF CONCERN IN LIQUOR RAID

Woman Charges Police Broke Into Home While She Was Unclothed

When officers of the police vice squad broke into the apartment of Mrs. Olga Thomas, 32 years of age, of 123 South Westmoreland avenue, on the night of July 3, last, clothes were her chief concern, she averred yesterday as she and her husband, James, 40, went on trial on a liquor - possession charge before Municipal Judge Sheldon.

MRS. OLGA THOMAS.

Whether Mrs. Thomas was minus clothing at the particular moment Police Officers Schubert, Dawson and Peterson are asserted to have kicked in the door of her dressing room may be somewhat of a question. Mrs. Thomas and her husband said she was, while the policemen maintain she was wearing a robe or kimono.

However, under the questioning of Deputy City Prosecutor Kaufman they were emphatic in stating that they found a considerable quantity of home-made beer, seventy-five pints and forty quarts of which they destroyed. Six quarts, ten pints and a small quantity of whisky were brought in court.

The jury, after hearing the evidence, found the couple guilty and Judge Sheldon set next Tuesday as the date for the defense's motion for a new trial.

The Thomases contended that the officers did not produce a warrant until some time after they kicked in both the door to the apartment and the dressing-room door.

CLUBHOUSE PLANS PASSED

The Playground and Recreation Commission yesterday approved detailed plans for the Verdugo Playground Community Clubhouse, for which there is $15,000 in this year's budget. The building will include a large community hall, offices, storage space and recreation facilities.

TWO CHURCHES BURGLARIZED

Scissors and Cash Taken But Wine Supply Overlooked

Two churches were reported burglarized yesterday, both jobs showing great similarity. Mrs. Eva R. Oriff, secretary of the First Congregational Church, 845 South Hope street, reported the edifice illegally entered and office desks and strong boxes ransacked. Nothing was taken except a pair of scissors.

Rev. H. B. Hoff reported that Our Savior's Lutheran Church, 1352 Oak street, also had been entered by burglars who ransacked the strong box and took $18. Mr. Hoff said he suspected the burglars were boys, because they did not carry off three quarts of sacramental wine.

FIRE-HOUSE SNOOPING CHARGED

E. R. Werdin, President of Board, Asserts Spies Try to "Get it on" Officials

So-called "salesmen" anxious to solicit firemen on duty are only "snoopers who are trying to get something on the Fire Commissioners," President E. R. Werdin charged yesterday in recommending that the Fire Commission refuse a permit to anyone to sell his "wares" in station houses. All applications were refused.

"It has come to my ears," he said, "that some men whose identity I have not learned are simply posing as salesmen that they might try to stir up trouble in the fire department. I am reliably informed that in a number of instances they have said to the men: 'If you know anything about the Chief or the commissioners, let the Mayor know about it quickly.'"

President Werdin said he does not accuse the Mayor in connection with the tactics complained of, but that he wants it understood the commission will not tolerate interference with the firemen while they are on duty.

"Personally I wish to say that I defy the efforts of any 'invisible government' to break down the fire department's morale while I have anything to say about it," he continued. "We will fight to the last against such tactics. We are proud of the department and of every officer and man in it, and I ask the co-operation of every commissioner to fight against this invisible government which is moving in on the city under the new administration."

The commission also turned down a request from the City Council's Welfare Committee for approval of the erection of a Barnum & Bailey circus tent on the site of the recent auto-exhibition fire.

Radio is becoming so popular in the Netherlands that equipment factories are being enlarged constantly to care for the rush of orders.

Attorney Says Child Born to Actor's Widow

A statement to the effect that Mrs. Florine Williams, widow of Earle Williams, motion-picture actor who died two years ago, has become the mother of a child within the past six weeks was made in Superior Judge Dunne's court yesterday by Attorney Norman W. Neukom in pressing a demand for final accounting of Williams's $300,000 estate.

Neukom made his statement for the court record with startling suddenness during the testimony of Dr. E. W. Harding, called to testify to the cause of the widow's absence from the hearing. He said she was suffering from the effects of a recent operation.

"We know all about her condition," Neukom declared, as he jumped to his feet, and in relating the charge said the child was born about six weeks ago.

"I protest at such a statement," shouted Attorney Milton Cohen, counsel for Mrs. Williams. "It is improper and out of place at this hearing."

Over further protestations of Cohen, the attorney representing a number of creditors asserted he had been trying to get a hearing on his claims, among them an asserted $3000 debt owed a local department store.

"She is not at any hospital under her own name," Neukom charged. "She has been concealed from her creditors."

Cohen denied the latter charge. Questioned as to the statement regarding the birth of the baby, Mrs. Williams from a sickbed at her apartment denied them.

"The only statement I can make is a complete denial of this lawyer's accusations," Mrs. Williams sobbed. "Any other statement must come from my attorney."

Attorney Cohen could not be located to amplify statements he made in court. Neither did Neukom care to expand on his assertions.

Bowlers from all parts of England recently attended a special "bowlers' service" at Netheravon parish church.

MEADOWS CASE NEARING JURY

Arguments Will be Ended in Fraud Case Today

Defense Attorney Will Go on With His Address

Suspect Has Denied That He Used Money for Self

The case of George Rush Meadows, former football star charged with a $25,000 swindle in connection with his asserted fraudulent representations that he could obtain a parole for John R. Osborne, convicted Los Angeles promoter, probably will be submitted to a jury late today in Superior Judge Fricke's court.

Evidence was all in by noon yesterday and during the afternoon session arguments to the jury were made by Dep. Dist.-Atty. Penney for the State and S. Stuitsman and J. Cooper for the defense.

Cooper will close his argument this morning and Dep. Dist.-Atty. Menzies will follow with the final plea for the State.

Meadows specifically is charged with eleven counts of grand theft of sums ranging from $100 to $5000 from relatives of Osborne, who was sentenced to the Federal penitentiary for a term of ten years in connection with the promotion here of Valhalla Memorial Park.

The State charged Meadows fraudulently represented to the promoter's kin that the money was to be used to employ prominent attorneys and pay expenses incident to procuring a parole or commutation of sentence for Osborne.

On the witness stand in his own defense, Meadows denied he converted any of the money to his own use and asserted it all was used in an effort to obtain a parole for Osborne and in joint business ventures between Meadows and John E. Osborne, father of the convicted promoter.

The case now is in the fourth week of trial.

Dollars number four and five reached The Times' office through the mails yesterday to add to the fund collected by the central station police for the stranded mother of three small children who were found hungry and destitute in a Temple-street rooming-house. The woman's husband is in a public hospital in Amarillo, Tex., and the wife brought her three children to Los Angeles in the hope of finding work.

Detective Lieutenant Beeson discovered their plight when he found a 3-year-old youngster garbed only in a breech cloth playing in front of the rooming-house. He took the boy to central station, where the hat was passed among the policemen. Almost $50 was obtained in the collection. Since the publication of the story five separate dollar bills have been sent to The Times and twenty-nine others to Lieut. Beeson by individuals.

Those received yesterday were from Mrs. C. W. Darby and Mrs. G. B. Staats, both of Los Angeles. In the meantime the police are seeking work for the mother.

Shaw Refuses to Open Shows

In declining an invitation to open the Northern Photographic Exhibition at Bradford, Eng., this summer, George Bernard Shaw quoted his rule not to perform any such acts, and added: "I should spend my life opening exhibitions if I did not make this inflexible rule. All that is needed is to open the doors and take the money. A commissionaire can do that as well as I."

Santa Monican Takes Own Life

By a "Times" Staff Correspondent

SANTA MONICA, Aug. 15. (Exclusive)—After stabbing himself in the heart today, Leslie Cummings, 26 years of age, jumped from a second story window of his father's home at 1227 Seventeenth street. He died ninety minutes later in Loamshire Hospital, despite efforts by his father, Dr. T. J. Cummings, and other physicians to save his life. Examination revealed that before jumping, Cummings stabbed himself with a kitchen knife, puncturing a lung and touching his heart.

Nervous prostration induced by overstudy was stated by relatives as the reason for Cummings's suicide. He had been a student of the University of California and of the University of Southern California. George G. Cummings, an uncle, said that Leslie Cummings had threatened to kill himself some time ago.

BARREL RIDER STILL AFLOAT

Freak Marathon Passes 100 Hours

Porky Jacobs Refueling

RIDICULING flagpole-sitting, chair-rocking, hog-calling, marathon-dancing and other kindred pastimes as mere child's play, Porky Jacobs, performer extraordinary, last night gave no sign of taking the count in his latest trick feat, which he is accomplishing in a hogshead 1000 feet off shore near the Ocean Park pier. For want of a better appellation, he has dubbed his performance a sit-in-a-floating-barrel marathon; and at midnight he had kept it up for 106 hours.

Though his nickname would indicate it, Jacobs's unfurnished room for his current endurance test is not exactly a pork barrel. It is a huge hogshead, into which he climbed last Sunday and at 2 p.m. was shoved off to sit it out until he feels he has hung up an all-time record. The barrel is moored to the pier, and floats high outside the breaker line, a heavy chain serving as anchor and preventing it from rolling; that is, from rolling too much.

A square hole provides light and air and a view of the curious crowds that stand on the pier watching the carefree stunter. Through this aperture, too, food and drink are sent to him on a pulley-line.

Despite a growth of beard and his cramped position, Porky shouted last night that he has no intention of quitting his post.

EXHIBITS AT STYLE SHOW PROFITABLE

Millions in Business Will be Brought Here Because of Displays at Chicago

Through connections made by Los Angeles apparel men at the Buyers' Week and Style Show just closed in Chicago, approximately $15,000,000 worth of business will be brought to Los Angeles this year, according to word received here yesterday by Secretary-Manager Arnoll of the Chamber of Commerce.

Mr. Arnoll said that displays of local apparel and millinery manufacturers created a stir at the show resulting in representatives booking an amount of business which far exceeded all expectations.

Mr. Arnoll said that in a wire received by H. M. Bigelow, official of Bullock's store here, from Joseph Zukin, apparel manufacturer of Los Angeles, the latter said that the exhibit of products made here was received by show officials as one of the outstanding features of the event. Mr. Zukin's wire also expressed appreciation of the efforts exerted by Bullock's in making the exhibit in Chicago possible. Assistance in making arrangements for the display at the Chicago show was given by the domestic trade department of the Chamber of Commerce, under the direction of Ludwig Schiff, chairman of the committee in charge of that work.

Says Boys Ignore Birch

Boy criminals do not fear the birch, said W. Clarke Hall, a London Police Court magistrate, at a recent meeting of the Magistrates' Association of England at Harrogate. He said that corporal punishment was simple and cheap, but ineffective. He produced records showing that 80 per cent of the boys birched were back again in court for similar offenses within two years.

Corporation Soon to Begin Production of Motors and Plane Accessories

Burgess Aeronautical and Engineering Corporation yesterday closed a lease for property at 9200 National avenue and soon will begin production of aviation motors and accessories, with the expectation that complete production of planes will follow shortly.

Lieut. Walter A. Burgess, for several years commandant of the Clover Field airport and at present Federal aviation expert stationed at Urbana, Ill., is president of the concern, which recently was capitalized for $3,000,000. Other directors include C. P. Hunciker, George B. Bush, Harley A. Harmon, Joseph C. Wheeler, Charles P. Fries, John D. Rishell, C. W. Van Dyke, A. L. Cheney, Maj. Thomas Walkup and James Burgess.

The property leased by the company is occupied by a two-story building, formerly used for a planing mill, and offers 4500 square feet of floor space for manufacturing purposes.

The motor and several of the accessories to be turned out are said to represent experiments carried out by Lieut. Burgess and his associates over a period of years.

TRAIN TIME TO EAST VIA TEXAS CUT

Change Effective Sunday Slashes More Than Three Hours Off Schedule

The Texas and Pacific Railway announces a schedule change effective next Sunday for their fast train, "The Texan," which reduces the time from Los Angeles to Memphis, St. Louis and eastern points three and a quarter hours.

Under the new schedule, the Argonaut on the Southern Pacific, carrying through sleepers to St. Louis and Memphis, via Texas and Pacific Railway, will leave Los Angeles at 6:15 p.m., instead of 3 p.m., as at present.

This makes the quickest time from Southern California to North Texas and eastern points through St. Louis and Memphis that ever has been in effect, with no extra fare. The running time is reduced one hour and ten minutes westbound, arriving in Los Angeles at 9:15 a.m., instead of 10:25 a.m.

The Texas and Pacific recently opened the first foreign line ticket office in Los Angeles at 711 South Hill street.

PERFECT BACK SELECTED

Forty-one Beauties Parade Pulchritude Before Judges of Chiropractic Convention

Laurie Sherman, 2021 Sixth avenue, won the perfect back contest at the Los Angeles College of Chiropractic, yesterday afternoon at the sixth annual convention of the National Progressive Chiropractic Association. The convention will be concluded Sunday with a post review parade of the contestants at the Venice Pier, nine additional prizes are to be awarded.

The contest was a test of patience and pulchritude with forty-one entrants selected from 250 applicants. The setting was a back yard of the old Los Angeles type, a great apricot tree dominating in the center, in the rear of 936 West Pico Boulevard, adjoining the college. The young women were marched up a long outside stairway, halted with their backs in the direct glow of the afternoon sun; commanded to turn and face the battery of cameras and were then massed in platoon formation, commanded to bend forward, reverse and again bend forward.

The ordeal lasted two hours while a battery of nine chiropractic physicians marched up and down a company front alignment, studying the backs of the entrants from the standpoint of texture of skin, alignment of the vertebrae, lack of curvatures, uniformity of spine sections, carriage and grace of body in general poise and proportion.

A crowd of spectators was roped off at the entrance, which reached out into the highway. Keen interest on the part of the public was manifest.

Awards will be given at the Venice pier Sunday for the most perfect back, for the ideal blond, brunette and auburn-haired contestant, for the most perfect figure and for the girl having the most personality. In addition each contestant will be given a gold medal. The Venice event is sponsored by the Venice Amusement and Business Men's Association.

ORDER TOLD ITS DUTIES TO AMERICA

Supreme Officer of Greek Organization Speaks at Banquet of Chapters

Not only do Greeks make good American citizens, but they are the first and only group of foreign-born to form an organization to uphold the traditions and ideals of the United States, declared Dean Alfange, supreme president of the Order of Ahepa, in an address last night at the Biltmore, where he was the honor guest at a banquet. Seven chapters of his organization united to do him honor, and nearly 300 guests were present.

DEAN ALFANGE

The order, Alfange said, is scarcely seven years old, yet it has more than 25,000 members and 240 chapters throughout the United States. Greeks, he pointed out, are inherently good citizens and their highest wish is to become useful citizens of their adopted land.

Membership in the Order of Ahepa is restricted to those who have become citizens, and their first duty, the leader said, is to be good Americans.

Mayor Porter gave a brief address of welcome and Zack Cobb, attorney, and Dr. A. D. Houghton also spoke. Peter J. Andrews, president of Los Angeles chapter, presided.

Comedian Will Arrive Today in Own Plane

A vaudeville actor who is believed to be the only one to whom sleeper-jumps are a thing of the past is due to arrive in Los Angeles today to fulfill an engagement at the Orpheum Theater. He is Hap Hazzard, comedian; and he is coming in his own Waco Wright-motored plane, in which he has been hopping all over the country to keep his "dates."

Piloting is nothing new to Hazzard, for he was a flyer in the World War. Shot down in the summer of 1918, he remained interned in a base hospital until long after the armistice. Then he returned to America and resumed his career on the stage. Last year he purchased the plane. Leaving New York on his present tour, he has hopped to Chicago, Toronto, Montreal, Winnipeg, Vancouver and from there back to the United States. He will land at the American Airport here this afternoon from San Francisco and open at the Orpheum tomorrow. The flying comedian is accompanied by his wife.

Man Wears Bonnet of Bees

To demonstrate how to handle bees, an expert in the Manawatu district of the North Island of New Zealand recently wore a bonnet of thousands of the honey makers. Draping a cloth over his head he attracted the bees which completely covered his head, face and shoulders. At the same time he carried large boards also covered with the insects. Not one attempted to sting him.

Chest Official Regrets Leaving of Clinic Head

Dr. E. Van Norman Emery, director of the child's guidance clinic conducted under the auspices of the Los Angeles Community Chest, has resigned his position here and has accepted a position as instructor of mental hygiene at Yale University.

"We will miss Dr. Emery greatly," said D. C. MacWaters of the Community Chest last night." He had attained a national reputation in his work and, while we regret to see him leave, we are glad that his work has been recognized for what it is."

Dr. Emery has been in charge of the Los Angeles child bureau for the past five years. Prior to his work in Los Angeles, he was employed at the State institution at Norwalk. He is the son of Dr. and Mrs. J. Hunter Emery of Porterville.

KIP ARRIVES IN TOWN TO DO SHOPPING

Rhinelander, Suing for Divorce Again, Says He Likes Nevada Home

Leonard Kip Rhinelander, scion of one of New York's oldest families, who has figured in the news in his attempt to free himself from his asserted colored wife, Alice Jones Rhinelander, was a visitor in Los Angeles yesterday.

Rhinelander came to Los Angeles from Las Vegas, Nev., where he yesterday filed his second suit for divorce to free himself from his wife, Alice Jones Rhinelander, daughter of a New Rochelle (N. Y.) jitney bus driver, whom he asserts is a negress.

The young man, now 36 years of age, asserts that Alice Jones Rhinelander took advantage of his youth and inexperience at the time he married her by telling him she was a Spanish lady. Later, he asserts, he discovered that she was a negress.

Rhinelander went to Las Vegas nearly a year ago, where he bought considerable property and established a residence.

"I like the place very much and intend to stay there," he said yesterday.

"I like the West very much and would like to stay in Las Vegas," he said.

Rhinelander came to Los Angeles on a shopping tour. He said he wished to buy some clothes after spending several months in a cabin in the mountains near Las Vegas.

The troubles of young Rhinelander came five years ago when he filed a suit in the State of New York for an annulment on the grounds his wife was a negress.

Since the trial of the suit in New York, which went against him, he had been paying his wife approximately $300 a month for her support.

Mrs. Gibson Freed on Bail

Mrs. Helen Gibson, divorced wife of Hoot Gibson, film cowboy, yesterday was released on $1000 bail after having been arrested Wednesday night by Detective Lieutenant Stewart of the forgery detail on a forgery warrant wired from San Diego. She was taken in custody at her home, 320 South Canyon Drive, Beverly Hills.

The warrant charges that Mrs. Gibson gave Hotel El Cortez of San Diego a check for $100, which was returned. She asserted that she had sufficient funds in bank to meet the check, but that she had scrawled her signature so carelessly that the bankers failed to recognize it. She gave bail to appear in San Diego for hearing next Tuesday.

FOLEY WILL CONTEST TO BE IRISH AFFAIR

The will contest over the $40,000 estate of John Foley, Kern county rancher, will be strictly an Irish affair, it appeared from the petition on file yesterday. Two sisters, Ann Conway of Ireland and Lucy Riordan of San Francisco, brought suit after they had been left $10 apiece. A brother of the decedent, Michael Foley, living in Ireland, inherits the residue. John O'Neil of Bakersfield was nominated to serve as executor.

Owners of Restaurants Deny Liquor Selling

Defense Affidavit Tells of "Protection" Offer

One Case Continued on Promise to Move

Abatement suits against two restaurants for selling liquor were prosecuted against Tony and John Panzich by deputy district attorneys yesterday.

One suit, to close a restaurant at 2628 West Sixth street, went to trial before Superior Judge Doby. When the defendants agreed to move from the place, the case was continued and will be dismissed later, Dep. Dist.-Atty. Richardson announced.

The other suit is against a restaurant at 901 East First street, the premises owned by the Title Guarantee and Trust Company. The trust company, also a defendant, asked that the place be closed, if it is determined that liquor was sold there. Both Tony and John Panzich denied that they sold any liquor on the premises.

As a defense, there was filed an affidavit in which Tony Panzich declares a policeman named R. F. Southard came to the restaurant, saying unless Panzich "got on the line" with "protection pay" the place would be raided repeatedly. Panzich declared he wasn't selling anything, and that if patrons brought their own liquor he couldn't help it. Nevertheless, the affidavit states, the raids continued, and abatement proceedings were filed.

Panzich's attorney, Russell Graham, former Assistant United States Attorney, said he will produce today evidence in support of Panzich's affidavit.

We Have Become Race of Nomads

It is a great mistake to say that American life is monotonous and prosaic. As a matter of fact, it is one of the most wildly romantic and colorful things ever heard of, and the fact that the tin-can tourist will shortly be abroad upon the highways ought to prove it to anyone. Year by year, the custom of vacationing by auto has taken a firmer and firmer hold on the mass of the population. It is a far more significant custom than we ordinarily dream. Its effects on the national psychology, the national outlook, are profound and far-reaching.

Staid and sober citizens fumble with maps, dream day-dreams about distant roads, overhaul weather-beaten camping outfits, speculate on the distance the family finances can carry them. People who live within hailing distance of the Pacific talk of trips to such places as Chicago and Baltimore; easterners consider the magic of sunset cities like Seattle and San Diego; inhabitants of the midland look both ways at once, and balance the charms of the Shenandoah Valley against the magic emptiness of the upland plains of Wyoming.

Presently this restlessness gets translated into action. In every State thousands of autos—new ones and old ones, costly ones and cheap ones—roll forth upon the highways, each carrying a family and its supplies on a roving trip through the open air. The tents of this restless army rise on a thousand camping sites; the dust kicked up by their wheels hangs over every highway from Florida to Oregon.

Was there, ever, a spectacle like this before? Here is a huge and prosperous nation, devoted to industry with a passionate intensity. But every summer several millions of the most industrious drop what they are doing and ride gaily off a thousand miles or so to see whether the sights beyond the next mountain chain are fairer than the sights at home.

The migrations of Attila and Ghengis Khan never say so many people on the march. The rovings of all the gypsy bands of Europe do not compare with it. The old ties that used to bind men to their native valleys have been broken forever; provincialism is on its deathbed. Will you find sectionalism in a man who lives in Massachusetts but visits such far-away places as Montana, Arizona, Texas and Alabama every year? Never; the old order has changed.

There are the makings, in this habit of automobile touring, of a grander, more enobling patriotism than we have ever seen before. America ceases to be an abstraction to the tin-can tourist. It becomes something more than a vague word. It has the spice of the sage-brush plains, the silent majesty of the Great Smoky Mountains, the drowsy peace of the New England hill country, the breath-taking splendor of the Rockies. It is a magic word, made illimitable by much wandering. If you have an auto, toss an old tent, a blanket roll and a few extra clothes into the back seat and start out. If you haven't, get one and let yourself go. Every road on the continent is an enchanted road. Discovery lies beyond every hill. [New Haven Journal-Courier.

Miss Jennie Lee, the youngest woman member of the English Parliament, made her first airplane flight recently when she flew from Croydon on Doncaster to open a carbonization works at a coal mine. With her in the plane were four other M. P.'s, Miss Ellen Wilkinson, A. W. Longbottom, Joseph Batley and Wilfrid Paling.

Clocks in Forms of Heads

Clocks in the forms of heads have appeared in Europe. One is a human skull, another a monkey's head and another a grotesque dog's cranium. One eye of each head represents the hours and the other the minutes. The numerals are painted around the optics like large eyelashes, while the orbs revolve and serve as hands.

England Reading Byrne

Books by Donn Byrne, the Irish novelist who died a few months ago, which have been best-sellers in America and little read in England, are now becoming a craze there. His earlier books are changing hands at a premium, and much interest has been aroused over the announcement of publication of a posthumous novel from his pen.

DREAM OF YOUTH COMES TRUE

Fifty Years Pass—Then California

Russian Couple Reach Here After Difficulties

Mrs. Dora Galerkin, right, arrives and is welcomed by her husband Jacob and daughter-in-law, Mrs. Ida Galerkin.

FIFTY years ago young Jacob Galerkin married the 15-year-old daughter of a neighbor in St. Petersburg, Russia, and made plans to take her to California. Only yesterday the dream was realized after the couple had gone through a half-century of Russian famines, wars, revolutions and pestilence.

The consummation of the fifty-year-old dream was realized upon the arrival of Jacob's wife, Mrs. Dora Galerkin. Jacob, who had arrived last January, met her at the train. With him was Mrs. Samuel Galerkin, a daughter-in-law, who will make a home for the couple at 3011 Fairmount avenue.

Mrs. Galerkin was not permitted to come with her husband because the immigration quota from Russia for 1928 was exhausted before her number was reached. Samuel Galerkin, Los Angeles broker, decided to have his father come on ahead and wait until his mother's number was reached.

Mrs. Galerkin speaks Russian, German and French, but no English. She carried but little baggage and the moment she stepped to the platform she began praising California and describing details of the trip. One of the details that excited her wonder was that the negro porter on her car spoke French and German besides English.

The story of the plans of the Galerkins to reach California during the last fifty years is one of countless tragedies and hardships. When Jacob was a youth his uncles told him of the wonders of California and the opportunities it offered young men. His uncles had been fur traders in Alaska when that country belonged to Russia.

Upon his marriage Jacob planned to bring his bride to the Golden State, but a famine struck Russia. Then came a pestilence. As the plans were deferred from year to year five sons were born. In 1914 plans were again made and Samuel, the eldest son, was sent ahead to prepare a home in California. Then came the World War and the remaining four sons entered the Russian army.

The family fortune was wiped out during the war, but when the four sons returned from the war wearing medals they planned to send their parents to America. The revolution prevented them from carrying out their plans for ten years. In the meantime, Samuel had become successful in Los Angeles and he completed arrangements in January for the couple to come.

The first thing the couple intend to do, when Mrs. Galerkin gets accustomed to her surroundings, is to take a night school course in English, they asserted.

Bee Market Very Busy

Buster and bunzier than ever, the annual bee market in Holland this year was attended by many honey makers and honey buyers. Millions of bees were bought and sold. Wearing heavy masks composed of a screen face and a heavy cloth material, the bee salesmen presented a grotesque appearance. Some were so accustomed to handling the bees that they did not bother to wear gloves.

England Saves Windmills

In its campaign to preserve windmills, the Society for the Protection of Ancient Buildings in England recently arranged for the perpetuation of two. These are at Rottingdean and at Reigate Heath. It also has sent out word that should anyone hear that a windmill is to be demolished he should notify the society so that efforts may be made to save the picturesque building.

Johannesburg, South Africa, was visited late in June by snow and an icy wind.

RUTH HOME RADIO PLEA MADE

Need for Funds Explained in Address

Mrs. Buron Fitts With Some Youngsters

STATING that the Ruth Protective Home is fulfilling a service to womanhood provided by no other institution in California, Mrs. Buron Fitts last night made a radio appeal for the home. The speaker is chairman of the business division of club women now engaged in raising $85,000 for the erection of a new home.

"The Ruth Protective Home," said Mrs. Fitts, "provides the only haven for child mothers suffering from social disease. The institution, struggling along in totally inadequate quarters, has the indorsement and financial support of the Community Chest and the commendation of both city and county health officers."

Mrs. Erwin P. Werner, general chairman of the building fund campaign committee, yesterday announced donation of a $15,000 site for the new home. The site, a ten-acre tract at El Monte, was given by Mrs. Alexander H. Kerr, secretary of the Pacific Protective Society.

Since January 1 of this year forty girls between 12 and 21 years of age have been cared for at the home. No charge is made any girl unless the girl expresses a desire to pay. Lack of accommodations forced the home to turn away twenty-seven girls since the first of the year.

ONE ENDS LIFE AND TWO DYING

Fort Worth Man Strangles Self in Westlake Park

Another Uses Revolver and Puts Bullet in Chest

Pair in Hospital Expected to Breath Last Soon

One man is dead and two others are dying in the Georgia-street Receiving Hospital as the result of suicide attempts yesterday, police reported.

The body of a man believed to be B. Sanders of Fort Worth, Tex., was found suspended from a small pepper tree in Westlake Park. He had been dead for several hours, police said. One end of a piece of wrapping cord was about his neck, the other tied to a tree limb. Strangulation caused death.

NOTE FOUND

In a pocket of the shabby suit of clothes he wore detectives found the following note: "I am 69 and broke. Sickness and old age. What's the use?" Rent receipts also found bore Fort Worth as his home address.

Because he lacked sufficient funds to have his teeth pulled, according to police, Fred Erickson, 55 years of age, shot himself in the left breast with a revolver. He also was in ill health, according to police. The attempt was made in his home at 408 East Sixtieth street in the presence of his wife and grand-daughter, June Ballard.

SHOT TWICE

Mental trouble is believed to have caused Graham A. Watson, 40, to send two bullets into his body in his home at 2622 West Eighth street. According to police Watson telephoned a cousin, Miss Constance McGachen, 2789 West Eighth street, about 6 a.m. When she arrived shortly afterward she found him with a bullet wound in the left breast. When she returned later with aid Watson had shot himself again in the abdomen. Watson leaves a widow, Mrs. Harriet B. Watson, at 901 Jarvis street, Vancouver, B. C.

Both Erickson and Watson were in critical condition at the hospital late yesterday.

Are We Afraid to Shout for Joy?

Is it not a thing to wonder at how seldom people shout for joy? It is possible, of course, that they shout mentally; indeed they must do so, since there is so much to sing and shout about. But is that enough? Should we be content if the birds decided that mental singing was a better way? Or if our dog, on those mornings of full-flooded gayety, with wind in the grass and rounded balls of white clouds galloping over the moorland, thought his joy instead of shouting it in short delighted barks into the air? Or if the sea, leaping before the great wind in the rush of a brilliant morning, forgot to shout as it threw its grape-green weight of waters higher and higher against the cliff side, bubbling back in a laugh of sparkling teeth, only to leap again? Nature is not afraid to shout, according to its capacity; and if its voice is of the smaller kind, it hums; and if of a smaller kind still, it smiles. If never pauses to find out if the other fellow thinks it strange to express one's feelings so openly.

Think of a bed of marigolds in the sunshine, smiling with a voice as lound, in its way, as any other. All golden flowers smile and red flowers laugh. It is impossible to stand beside a bush of red roses on a summer morning, or pass beneath a window box of geraniums, and not hear their laughter. They laugh because their hearts are overflowing with loveliness; and the sound trickles into the air, spreading along the garden path over the lawns or down the walls and into the street. Gardens are full of happy sounds. There was never a silent garden known.

Would it be thought strange if we went shouting for joy into the ticket office, when the great moment arrives and the holiday begins? Here they come, the little holiday-makers, carrying their suitcases, with sunshades and walking sticks strapped to the sides; with cameras hanging over their shoulders and guide-books poking out of their pockets; with everything to indicate the wonderful time just about to begin. Yet never a shout is heard, never even a hum, and seldom a smile.—[Christian Science Monitor.

Tries to Kiss Policewoman

When a self-styled seer gazed into a crystal yesterday and told her a mystical gentleman would soon attempt to make love to her, Miss Victoria Wasney, policewoman, showed an inclination to take the prophecy lightly, says the Detroit Free Press.

"Nevertheless, it will come true," said Sliva Synci, 43 years of age, whose fortune-telling headquarters are at Witherell and Elizabeth streets. "I have read it in your palm and I have seen it in the mists of the future. If you only wait, you will see."

And while Synci went on to explain the wonders of occult science, Miss Wasney waited—for two minutes.

Then it came true.

According to the policewoman's story, Synci suddenly decided himself to assume the role of the mystical lover. Without warning he put his arms around her and tired to kiss her.

"You see," he exclaimed, "the crystal never lies."

But Miss Wasney, who had decided to take the matter seriously after all, was in no mood to ponder the infallibility of prophetic machinery. Instead she summoned Mrs. Estella Snyder, a sister policewoman, who was waiting in the next room. Together they escorted Synci to police headquarters.

It was not until the steel door of his cell had clanged shut behind him that Synci recollected he had forgotten to consult the crystal as to the outcome of his case, or the probable length of his enforced absence from his studio and clientele.

UNIVERSAL SIGNS JAMES MURRAY

Russell Gleason Will Play Juvenile Role With Muni; Louise Fazenda is Comedienne in Horton Film; Lloyd Hamilton Wins Comedy Part

BY GRACE KINGSLEY

James Murray is to have a professional home for the next five years, at least.

Immediately after seeing the juvenile on the screen at Universal City, in the rushes of "Shanghai Lady," in which Murray plays the lead opposite Mary Nolan, Carl Laemmle, Jr., ordered that the youth be offered a five-year contract. Needless to say, young Murray was delighted to accept.

The actor's talents are considered so excellent that Laemmle said yesterday that he meant to outfit him with the best featured roles obtainable.

Murray made his first hit in Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's "The Crowd," which King Vidor directed. He has taken a number of notable roles since, always with success.

YOUNG GLEASON HAS FINE ROLE WITH FOX

Everything good seems to roll right into the lap of Russell Gleason, who was fortunate in the beginning in merely being son and heir to those two clever people, James Gleason and Lucille Webster Gleason.

RUSSEL GLEASON

First, this week, Gleason signed a new contract with Pathe. And yesterday Pathe loaned him to Fox Films to play the juvenile lead in Paul Muni's next starring picture, "Seven Faces," which Berthold Viertel will direct.

Gleason is to play opposite Marguerite Churchill, who has the youthful feminine romantic lead.

The young man seems to have a vast variety of talents. He has a great talent for writing and for music, was brilliant in college, and now seems about to become a picture star.

Louise Fazenda With Warners

Louise Fazenda has need of all the health and strength which she won during her late trip to Alaska. For she is working day and night.

LOUISE FAZENDA

Now the comedienne has just signed with Warner Brothers to take the featured feminine comedy role in "Narrow Street," starring Edward Everett Horton.

Miss Fazenda's success has been unique on the screen. Ever since her first success as a Mack Sennett star, and while other players came and went, Miss Fazenda lasted on like the brook, showing that she has genuine comedy gifts of a high order, and that the world loves to laugh.

Comedian Signs for "Tanned Legs"

That rotund "getter of giggles," Lloyd Hamilton, otherwise known as Ham Hamilton, appears to be coming back to the screen with a bang.

LLOYD HAMILTON

Hamilton has just been signed for a featured comedy lead in R.-K.-O's "Tanned Legs," which Marshal Neilan will direct.

A notable cast will appear in the picture, which is to be one of the most lavish of R.-K.-O.'s productions for the current year.

Hamilton was off the screen for some time. At one time he starred in his own comedies. Later he was out of picture work due to illness. Now, entirely recovered, and quite in his old form, even to the fat with which nature endowed him as a comedy asset, he bids fair to make a big success in feature roles.

Merna Kennedy With Glenn

Try as Universal may to break up the screen team of Glenn Tryon and Merna Kennedy, it seems impossible to do it.

MERNA KENNEDY

Some Universal officials got the idea that screen teams weren't attractive to the public after two or three pictures in which they appeared together. So, even after Merna Kennedy was cast opposite Glenn Tryon, in "Skinner's Dress Suit," they decided to take her out and give somebody else the role.

They made many tests of other actresses, but when all was said and done no other player seemed as well suited to Tryon as did Merna; she appeared to suit the part of "Honey" even as the dress suit fitted Glenn, and so she is back again in the role.

Comedian to Build Town

Rome wasn't built in a day and neither will Tierra Del Cuervo be. Rome achieved quite a notable lot of fame.

With such an example in mind, Charles Mack, of the noted Moran and Mack team of Two Black Crows, has set for himself the task of building a town.

Not that he has become exactly a broker. But he owns a large lot of property just outside Newhall, near the ranch of William S. Hart. Already there have been requests that he sell to individuals for homes, as the section is building up. But Mack is going to hold on to it, have the property subdivided, and build houses to the number of twenty or thirty, which he means to rent or sell when finished. He has named the place Tierra Del Cuervo.

Oh, yes, Moran and Mack have just completed work on their first motion picture, "Why Bring That Up?" at the Paramount studios in Hollywood.

Capt. Calvert With Paramount

Capt. E. H. Calvert, West Point's contribution to Hollywood, yesterday was added to the cast of "The Love Parade," the talking screen's first original operetta, Paramount announces. The picture stars Maurice Chevalier and is directed by Ernst Lubitsch, while the leading feminine roles are played by Jeannette MacDonald and Lillian Roth, with comedy responsibilities in the hands of Lupino Lane and Ben Turpin.

The captain is a hard-working man, since he is also at this time playing a role in George Bancroft's current starring picture, "The Mighty."

Daphne Pollard Busy

Tiny Daphne Pollard is as busy a little soul as you'll find anywhere in the world.

She had not finished her role in a Fox picture before she was called over to First National and signed for a part in "No, No, Nanette."

Virginia Valli to Vacation

Virginia Valli tells me that just as soon as she finishes her role in Tiffany-Stahl's Zeppelin air picture, she is going to take a rest. She will go to Del Monte for a couple of weeks.

Let's All Lead Scented Lives

We learn from a publicity document forwarded to us in the usual mass of wastebasket fillers that arrive in each mail delivery that "Color in the home has a rival." To continue to quote: "The purple coffee pot, the yellow bathtub, the scarlet bed linen and all the many uses of brilliant hues in modernistic home furnishings are going to be matched by perfumed floor polish, scented fly-sprays and sweet smelling rubber goods." Well, why not? We have lived too many years amid the perfumes of the kitchen oozing out through the house indicating the cooking of onions and cabbage and the like. Why not have the floors reeking with rose and old lavender and thus kill out the less pleasant odors? The appeal of scent is a marketable asset in anything in these desthetic days. Attack the nose as well as the eyes and lure the dollars out of the unwary pocketbooks.

The aromatic home sounds like a novelty, and it is. It is, however, but an extension of the preference for scents as we habitually know them today. We perfume our baths and we use scented soaps and we dab a bit of concentrated perfume on our kerchief. We discover a mild scent in our shaving creams and soaps. There are perfumed cigarettes, and we have yet to find a scented cigar. That is not to deny that a discarded cigar butt has its scent distinctive when left in your room, and we can imagine that it would be rather pleasant to overcome that odor of stale tobacco with scented floor polish. The time may come when a home builder will ask his customer what scent he wishes the house finished in and the home buyer will go to smell of a house before he buys it.

As for us, we have in mind establishing a series of delicate aromas or scents distributed among the rooms. We shall have the violet room, violet in color scheme and in smell. Likewise the rose room, the narcissus den, the lily of the valley boudoir, and so on. Heliotrope ought to be good somewhere. It certainly is wonderful what modern life is developing in our longing for the acquisition of the artistic comforts. Highly colored life in the home and sweetly scented accompaniment languorously supplementing the radio music can make life worth living. The suggestion is not to be sniffed at except in actuality. Clad in brilliant pajamas we shall lie on pale blue sheets and woo sleep lulled by the dainty scents of the old-fashioned garden. Oh boy!—[Lowell (Mass.) Courier Citizen.

TELLS OF HER PETTY HOUSEKEEPING WOES

Dear Jenny—After you left here your room-mate, Billie, as you doubtless know, came to live with me. She may have been so lonesome that she decided I would be a consolation to her. On the other hand, she may have felt that after having lived with you she could stand anything. I never knew what influenced her. But anyway she is here, and so far our housekeeping has been a burning success. One night I burn the blueberries and the next night Bill burns the peaches.

You always told me that Bill couldn't cook without burning the food, so when she came I thought I'd just take things into my own hands. I privately realized that I have a burning propensity myself, but I thought that Billie's being here would cure me. The night we had blueberries we couldn't eat all of them and we decided to stew the rest to insure them against spoiling. I put them on the stove and went back to an adored book—Arnold Bennett's "Old Wives' Tales." Sophia had just reached Paris with her lover when I smelled the blueberries. I flew to their rescue, but they were charred beyond recognition.

Well, Jenny, Bill mourned for those blueberries as if they were a personal friend. You might have thought that some of their blue blood ran in her veins. I was greatly humiliated, and the next night when she suggested stewing the peaches because they were too green to eat raw, I meekly assented. She had some sort of a bright idea that if she stewed them in their skins they would be easier to peel. So she put them on the stove whole, and sat down in the living-room to read the New Yorker. She was just in the middle of an audible rendition of the reproductive methods of some fool kind of fish when she smelled the peaches. She left the fish reproducing and flew to the peaches, but they were entirely cremated. I was going to bemoan them as Bill had the blueberries, but just as I was getting ready to start a regular Irish wake in behalf of the peaches, she came in looking crestfallen (Gosh, I know how she felt!) and said weekly: "Will you please see that I don't get any more ideas?"

Another serious housekeeping trouble that afflicts us is that neither of us can remember what night we should put out the garbage. We should like to have company to dinner occasionally, but we can't because the garbage can is always too full for decency. One night when we came home late, we saw the curbs lined up with the neighbors' garbage, and we knew that was our golden opportunity to unload our own. But we came in and started the radio and forgot the existence of low things like garbage. That night I heard some one sneaking around downstairs. I thought it was a burglar, but when I got up to look, it was only long Bill in an elegant suit of silk pajamas speaking out with a filthy pail of garbage.

This is the only time since she has been here that the garbage has been emptied except once. Then it wasn't exactly emptied. Sarah came in the morning to clean house for us. When we left, the odoriferous pail was crammed so full that the lid sat on top in tipsy fashion. When we came home the can was empty and immaculate. What on earth she did with it we do not know. We searched and searched without finding a trace. But I still expect to find it in the bottom dresser drawer some day.

Our housekeeping griefs do not

"SALUTE" FEATURE OF MERIT

Clever Story of Annapolis Shows at Loew's; Stepin Fetchit on Stage

BY EDWIN SCHALLERT

West Point and Annapolis, age-old enemies of the gridiron, went into battle on the screen at Loew's State Theater yesterday and symbolizing the approach of the new football year gave vitality also to the opening of the Greater Movie Season. Of course, it was a movie West Point and a movie Annapolis that were shown in the feature, "Salute," but real backgrounds were photographed for the scenes showing life at the Naval Academy, with which the film is primarily concerned. They add much to its reality.

"Salute" is a good picture and it heads a good program. George O'Brien, William Janney, Helen Chandler and Frank Albertson are among the prominent players in the film and they all give performances of merit. The story of Naval Academy life is entertainingly and very humorously told. The climax of the game has its creditable points. The direction by John Ford is of an unusually high order, as regards action, dialogue and sound.

O'Brien is secondary as a personality, because the plot really centers around Janney's career as an Annapolis student. O'Brien and he are brothers, and O'Brien is a cadet at West Point. Their grandfathers make the choice of sending them to the two different schools. One grandparent, a major-general, insisted that one grandson be in the Army, the other, a rear-admiral, insisted that the other grandson be in the Navy. Each assumes charge of the education of one of the boys.

The picture has a romantic theme that revolves around the love of a naval officer's daughter for Randall as the Annapolis youth. She is slighted by him in favor of another girl, to whom he was devoted to before he came to the school, and this complication serves to add suspense.

The attraction of "Salute" is clean-cut charm and gayety. The comedy, for which Frank Albertson is mainly responsible, is very enlivening. Many mirthful situations are evolved from the hazing of the plebes. The presence of Stepin Fetchit in a typically lazy role also accounts for some sure-fire laughs.

However, it is Janney and Miss Chandler who imbue the production with marked sympathy by their very human and natural portrayals. Both are exceptionally capable young people.

O'Brien does not appear to the best advantage in the tight-fitting cadet uniform, but he contributes materially to the punch of the football scenes by his personal work. He also characterises the role of a hail-fellow-well-met very acceptably. John Breeden as the hard-boiled midshipman is excellent, and David Butler as the navy coach may be commended. Joyce Compton pleases. Clifford Dempsey and Lumsden Hare are the grandparents.

On the stage Panchon and Marco have outdone themselves in their "Screenland Melodies" revue. They have a chorus of Sunkist beauties and a chorus of youngsters and when Stepin Fetchit comes on the stage he just about stops the show. His voice may drawl, but his dancing zips. Roberto Guzman, Sherry Louise, Billy Randall, Franklin and Warner, Everts and Lowry are principals in the act, which is a colorful presentation of popular motion-picture songs.

"Westerner's Revue" Given at Million

In conjunction with the showing of Clara Bow in "Dangerous Curves," a story of circus life, the Million Dollar Theater is offering its most pretentious stage show billed as the "Westerner's Revue." At its opening yesterday, Buddy Garey, a youthful singer, was the hit of the show with his ballad offerings. Garey has a pleasing personality which in addition to his well-modulated voice makes him an outstanding feature.

Mildred Cassidy, a diminutive toe dancer, offered several jazz numbers which won her applause. Virginia Buchanan has a most pleasing voice. She sang her number with the master of ceremonies, Eddie Brown, who this week is as funny as ever. His satire on Al Jolson singing "Sonny Boy" is also one of the high spots on the bill. Klein's Saxophone Sextette played jazz ballads, which were enthusiastically received.

Cropley and Violet are acrobatic lariat performers and their act had a number of features. The Million Dollar chorus has been enlarged again and showed marked improvement. New sets give the revue an original locale.

Opening Date of Play Postponed

"Bad Babies," George Scarborough's new play, has been postponed from its Saturday night premiere to Monday night. A switch in theaters was made necessary, and the drama will be given at the Figueroa Playhouse instead of at the Mayan, as was originally planned.

The play includes the following cast: Mervin Williams, Jobyna Ralston, Norman Peck, Fritz Feld, Annette Westbay and others.

STAGE PLAY NOW FILM

After thrilling stage audiences for the past several seasons as a New York production, "The Last of Mrs. Cheyney" has been brought to the screen by Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer as an all-talking vehicle for Norma Shearer. The film starts tonight at the Westlake Theater for a three-day showing. "Stage Struck," a synchronised Aesop "Fable" and Fox Movietone News complete the new Westlake bill, which ends Sunday night, followed on Monday by "Behind That Curtain," featuring Lois Moran and Warner Baxter.

"She Couldn't Say No"

Charlotte Greenwood
Noted comedienne, will portray the leading role in the farce starting at El Capitan Sunday.

OPERETTA COMES TO CARTHAY

"Married in Hollywood" to Present Norma Terris and J. Harold Murray

Production of "Married in Hollywood," the William Fox first Viennese all-talking and singing operetta, which will have its world premiere at the Carthay Circle Theater the 29th inst., has been completed, according to announcement today by Harold B. Franklin.

The Fox-Carthay will have an unusually brilliant first-night showing assuring a fine reception for the first operetta written directly for talking pictures. A cast, well known on the stage will present the love story in the operetta by Oscar Straus, author of "The Chocolate Soldier." Dave Stamper and Arthur Kay assisted in preparing the music.

Norma Terris, stage star of "Showboat," and J. Harold Murray, who sang the lead in "Rio Rita," for more than two years on Broadway, enact the leading roles. Carli Elinor and his orchestra, noted for their original versions of well-known melodies, will provide a musical background in sympathy with the theme of the picture.

Goossens Leads Grand Opera at Bowl Tonight

Eugene Goossens tonight reverts to his former status as operatic conductor at the Bowl concert. He will direct the third and final "concertized" version of grand opera, in this instance bringing to a hearing in a sequential form the outstanding vocal and orchestral highlights of that great Wagner score.

"Concertized" opera is an innovation of the Goossens regime and has proven immensely popular, it is said. Banner houses have rewarded performances of the two previous versions, those of "Carmen," with Alice Gentle, Paul Althouse and Alexander Kisselburgh, and "Die Walkuere," with Elsa Alsen, Paul Althouse and Tudor Williams.

Elfrieda Wynne has been added to the "Tannhauser" principals previously announced, the latter being Alice Gentle, soprano; Otto Ploetz, tenor, and Alexander Kisselburgh, baritone. Miss Wynne will sing the Venus music of the duet with Tannhauser, directly following the impressive overture.

More than average interest attaches to the Bowl debut of Otto Ploetz, assisting artist, who will sing excerpts from the score of the titular character.

Pangborn Ends Absence From Stage Roles

Franklin Pangborn's plans to temporarily continue exclusively in the role of producer vanished when he learned that Rachel Crothers's brilliant farce, "Expressing Willie," was available for its Los Angeles premiere.

The old desire to nightly feel audiences pulsate with mirth was too much for Pangborn when he began to conjure visions of Rachel Crothers's Willie of the vacillating loves. As a result the comedian will return to the Vine Street Theater stage Sunday night to give his characterization to Willie. In addition, the most gala opening in the history of the Vine Street is scheduled for the premiere.

"The role of Willie gains more from the talents of Pangborn than would be possible for any other comedy character of which I know," George Sherwood, who is directing the Vine Street production, said after the initial rehearsals.

Pangborn will be supported by an all-star cast in the production, including the Tell sisters, Alma and Olive; Theodor Von Eltz, Frankie Raymond, Warburton Guilbert and Lurine Tuttle.

NOVELTIES PLEASING AT BOWL

"Festivals" Given Fine Treatment; Concerto Also Creates Interest

BY ISABEL MORSE JONES

Two novel compositions, Tansman's Charlie Chaplin concerto for piano and orchestra and Respighi's latest tribute to Rome, "The Festivals," created unusual interest in the Hollywood Bowl program conducted by Eugene Goossens last night. E. Robert Schmidt, the French pianist, who leads Pro-Musica and devotes himself to the moderns, played the Tansman concerto with complete success and Mr. Goossens gave of his best in both extremely exacting works.

The other numbers, the Processions of the Knights of the Holy Grail, from Wagner's "Parsifal," and an attractive and little-known Norwegian Rhapsody by Lalo paled in importance beside the Tansman and the Respighi.

The Tansman concerto is a strictly contemporary work. The composer is a young and charming Pole whose introduction to the world came through Paris. The concerto, which is written with current brevity, expresses a man of liberal education with a sense of humor and proudly without emotion. Mr. Schmidt played it brilliantly and impressed the orchestra and his hearers with the authority of his knowledge of the work.

Hard, Chinese gong tone was used effectively in the cleanly executed rhythms of the Allegro Risoluto. The second movement, the scherso, was scintillant, witty and very, very clever. It quieted down to a mood which tried to be emotional but the modern idiom does not lend itself to warmth of feeling and when the independent intellectual mind borrows the sentiment it affects to despise, it becomes pathetic and a little ridiculous.

However, the concerto soon rippled on its dashing way through a slightly acid finale which reverted to type, the New York type, with syncopation, moaning blues, stomping pedal and all.

This concerto reads like "Impressions of America" by a very smart young man. It has form, interest and significance and it was a delight to hear Schmidt's pleasure in it. The orchestra labored mightily with the score and was triumphant. Mr. Schmidt surprised the audience with a lingering account of the most popular Chopin Nocturne done with Paderewski mannerisms and rewarded the inevitable clamor which ensued with Debussy's Golliwog Cakewalk.

The Festivals of Rome, with its augmented orchestra and fascinating program of a circus, a jubilee, an October excursion and the Epiphany, is a noisy modern masterpiece. The titles may be Roman, but certainly America influenced it. There was the beautiful mystery with the viola timbre which we associate with Respighi, but the dominating, compelling fact about this symphonic poem is its rhythmic pattern. Oriental and Spanish ideas added to its cosmopolitanism.

To my mind the work is not as impressive nor as inspired as either the Fountains or the Pines of Rome by this composer, but it is worth many hearings.

Boulevard Has Film Starring Greta Garbo

A more appealing, more exotic Greta Garbo is seen in "The Single Standard," which started yesterday at the Boulevard Theater, where it is continuing its first run for one week after breaking records at Loew's State.

This additional week's run at the Boulevard was primarily held to accommodate those who were turned away, or could not get into the theater last week.

"The Single Standard" is an adaptation of Adela Rogers St. Johns's novel of the same name and deals with a young society bud who tires of the standards set by society for men and women and decides to live her life as her heart dictates. Nils Asther and John Mack Brown are seen as leading men for Miss Garbo. John Robertson directed.

PARAMOUNT INVADED BY FU MANCHU

Bad Man of Rohmer Books Played by Warner Oland in New Talkie

BY PHILIP K. SCHEUER

Acted by a cast which succeeded in keeping a straight face—or more properly, straight faces—throughout, "The Mysterious Dr. Fu Manchu," adapted from a novel by Sax Rohmer, threw audible shadows onto the Paramount Theater screen yesterday. It is an amusing melodrama, a "Perils of Pauline," 1929 model, and lively enough for all that its staging is in the manner of the theater rather than that of the motion picture. Dr. Fu, more amiable than insidious, is portrayed by Warner Oland, who has had the oriental slant since the continued-in-our-next era of film plays.

The highly colored improbabilities which one accepts without reservation in a Rohmer yarn, and which would be glossed over in a silent picture, are naturally emphasized in a talking version of this sort. Dr. Fu, who was, if I recall my own novel-reading evenings with accuracy, a holy terror imbued with supernatural occult powers, is less that than he is a destitute husband and father with a somewhat pathetic faith in the ability of his gods to help him in a wholesale slaughter, as Mr. Oland sketches him in the photoplay. Nor is this meant as a criticism of either the actor or his role; I cite it merely to indicate how, wittingly or no, a suave, slightly weary voice, but an indisputably human voice, may mark a supposedly genuine mystic as a charlatan, a quack, and as such a man subject to the frailties of the flesh, even as you and I. So, quick, Watson, the needle.

However, granting that Dr. Fu in his celluloid incarnation is something less than terrifying, you will still find that the fireworks with which he surrounds himself have lost little of their grand sputter and crackle. The pyrotechnical display cuts a familiar swath across the screen, with sliding panels, Chinese villains fortified to the teeth, quicklime baths and Scotland Yardarms all present in copious quantities to make you shudder—or if not exactly to shudder, to close one eye knowingly and settle back luxuriously in the seat for more.

In the current instance, Dr. Fu is out for the blood of the Petries, one of whom—old Gen. Petrie—was rash enough to incur the dislike of the good doctor during the uprising of the Boxers. Even unto the third generation, this Chinese medicine man swears a mighty swear he will avenge himself . . . He begins operations in the London of today, moving effortlessly from there to Redmoat Grange, a forbidding castle on the seacoast, and thence to Limehouse, that famed segment of the underworld without which, despite the tiny area it occupies on the map, a large percentage of British writer folk would be compelled to close up shop.

The pawns in Dr. Fu's game are played by Neil Hamilton, Jean Arthur, O. P. Heggie, Claude King, Charles Stevenson, Evelyn Selbie and others. Mr. Hamilton has a good clear voice and a winning way with him, and Miss Arthur makes the heroine a girl worth being won. Mr. Heggie, who will be recalled as the attorney in "The Letter," inspires confidence, as he should, in the part of Nayland Smith, the great criminologist. And if there is not enough comedy for you in the serious action, William Austin, as a bungling and inept secretary, is there to provide it.

Rowland V. Lee directed.

Extraordinary underwater scenes are the feature of the Paramount Sound News on this bill. The sequence, made in Florida, shows a group of swimmers on both the surface and the bottom of a lake, some of the "shots" having been taken with the lens of the camera half above and half below the aquatic level. A comedy with James Barton, blackface star, and an organ solo are also presented.

Mayan Changes From Drama to Talking Films

The Mayan Theater has gone talkie. Commencing Thursday evening, September 5, the Eleventh and Hill street playhouse, hitherto devoted to spoken plays, will inaugurate a policy of talking pictures to be shown twice daily. The opening attraction will be "Marianne," a Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer screen musical comedy. Gerhold O. Davis, manager of the Mayan, believes that the best entertainment of the future is to be in the form of talking pictures, and he is installing the finest equipment for reproduction, including a new device which he declares to be sensational in its improvement over the present devices.

"I am thoroughly convinced that the public has taken the up-to-date talking, singing and dancing picture to its heart and prefers it to all other forms of entertainment," declared Davis last night. "For that reason I am going to a great expense to equip my theater."

Mr. Davis announces that he will present only the best talkies available. Arrangements are being made for a typical gala premiere.

Gala Program Arranged for Matinee Show

A program of gala entertainment has been arranged by Grauman's Chinese Theater for Saturday's midnight matinee. In addition to the "Hollywood Revue of 1929" and its assembly of thirty stars, many of these same artists who appear in the films are to be present in person with a melange of dance and song.

The festivities for the evening will be in charge of Walter O'Keefe, noted Broadway master of ceremonies. Heading the list of noted players whom O'Keefe will introduce to the audience are the three Brox sisters, Karl Dane, Joey Ray, Bobby Dolan and the exotic ballet of Albertina Rasch to music by Dmitri Tiomkin.

Today the name of Frankie Richardson, night club entertainer, was added to the program headline performers.
